HORNPIPE.

An Outsider Is the Winner.

He Was Posted at 20 to 1.

Dr. Rice and Ramapo Not in It.

Lazarone Was Second and Sir Walter Third.

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 15.—The weather for the day of the great Brooklyn handicap was anything but satisfactory this morning, as the sky was overcast with rain threatening every minute and the track wet and soggy.

The horses had little work during the last three days, and no chances of slipping in the mud was taken.

Dr. Rice and Ramapo have the most followers, but Rey el Santa Anita is favored by many.

In spite of the fact that Ramapo has not started this year, he is looked upon as the most dangerous horse in the lot, because his trainer, John Hyland, was never known to send an unfit horse to the post.

His only drawback is the fact that Jockey Griffin will carry a great deal of lead to make weight and will need all his strength to hold the great horse. At the same time he is undoubtedly the best of light-weight jockeys.

Dr. Rice, who won the race last year, will have the services of the best of all jockeys, Taral.

Rey El Santa Anita will be ridden by Bergen.

Sir Walter is not in favor. He was not taken to the track until just before the race, in order that he might not get out of condition owing to his refusal to eat after being sent to the new track.

Daggett will ride him.

Rubicon is well thought of. He showed a great turn of speed last year, but not over a handicap distance. Midgeley is his jockey.

Bassetlaw should be well managed by Littlefield. Although he is not the horse he was two years ago, he may make them all run, if he does not carry off the rich prize.

Declare likes the mud and so does Ed. Kearney.

Counter Tenor is the only 3-year-old among the likely starters. A 3-year-old has never won the handicap and no one looks to see the precedent reversed this year, although Campbell is fond of a surprise and may reverse the Diablo coup.

THE STARTERS.

The starters will probably be as follows:

Horse.	Weight.	Jockey.
Ramapo	127	Griffin
Sir Walter	124	Doggett
Dr. Rice	122	Taral
Rey el Santa Anita	118	Bergen
Rubicon	118	Midgley
Lazarone	113	Murphy
Bassetlaw	109	Littlefield
Declare	106	J. Lamley
Hornpipe	105	Hamilton
Counter Tenor	100	Lamley
Ed Kearney	97	Penny
Assignee	95	Keefe

PRELIMINARY SPINS.

The handicap horses were out for gentle gallops before noon, but none were more than cantered.

Ed Kearney's owner disclosed that the horse had a chance of his life on the track and would keep them all guessing from start to finish.

A strong wind and occasional sunshine helped to put the track in condition, so it was thought the course will be moderately fast by the time the racing begins.

It was about noon when the spectators began to arrive.

In former years the track has been lined with bookmakers and employes, while a tout was in evidence everywhere. This year touts were hanging around outside the gates with no means of getting in.

THE FAVORITES.

The choice was generally settled down upon Dr. Rice and Ramapo. The going suits both horses, and as Taral and Griffin are the best jockeys in their class a fine race is expected.

Sir Walter rules third choice, with Rey El Santa Anita fourth.

It is conceded on all sides that the race is the most open since the establishment of the handicap, and that under the conditions any of the lot might win.

The attendance was but moderate at 1 o'clock, although the weather is greatly improved.

THE BETTING.

The average of quotations in the books is as follows: Dr. Rice, 2½ to 1 and 4 to 5; Ramapo, 2½ to 1 and even; Rey El Santa Anita, 3 to 1 and 7 to 5; Sir Walter, 8 to 1 and 5 to 2; Rubicon, 10 to 1 and 3 to 1; Lazaron, 20 to 1 and 7 to 1; Bassetlaw, 20 to 1 and 8 to 1; Declare, 25 to 1 and 10 to 1; Hornpipe, 20 to 1 and 8 to 1; Assignee, 40 to 1 and 12 to 1; Counter Tenor, 30 to 1 and 12 to 1; Ed. Kearney, 15 to 1 and 4 to 1.

THE RESULTS.

First race, Sweepstakes for all ages, six furlongs—Domino won; Wernberg, second; Patrician, third. Time, 1:17.

Second race, mile—Owlet won; Kennett, second; Hermanita, third. Time, 1:47.

THE BIG EVENT.

It was 4:30 when the horses went to the post for the great handicap.

At that time more than 20,000 people were there to watch.

The sun was shining brightly and the air was warm and pleasant.

The track had dried out considerably, but was a little heavy.

Hornpipe wins.

Lazarone, second.

Sir Walter, third.

Hornpipe won by one length; Lazarone, second, half a length; Sir Walter, third.

Time, 2:11¼.

SHE BOBS UP.

But This Time Not Particularly Serenely.

Diss de Bar Has Dug Up Lots of Trouble.

A Famous New York Character Again in Evidence.

CHICAGO, May 15.—Mrs. William J. McGowan, formerly Vera Ava, alias Ann O'Delia, Miss De Bar, who a few years ago created a sensation in the East, has been arrested on a warrant sworn out by Miss Phoebe Love of this city on charges of making threats to kill and larceny as bailee.

Miss Love says she came to Chicago last year from Detroit, Wis., and intended to take a course of music lessons.

She, with her father, took rooms on West Harrison street, and soon after met Mrs. McGowan. The latter was introduced as Miss Ava and won her confidence.

Continuing, Miss Love says she was continually bewailing her fate, and said that she was being persecuted.

Two months ago Miss Love removed to a house on Park Row, where she claims Vera assumed control and refused to admit her, after Miss Love had been away for two weeks.

So warrants were sworn out, Miss Love averring that Mrs. McGowan had threatened to kill her if she attempted to force her way into the house.

At the station Mrs. McGowan declared she had been married to a man worth $60,000.

She said Miss Love had been her husband's housekeeper and had been retained after the marriage.

Mrs. McGowan also said Miss Love has a husband in the penitentiary and she threatened to make it warm for those who were persecuting her.

Miss Love denies all this and says she has never been married.

A BIG RAISE.

Assessor Dalton's Figures on the Railroad.

He Has Tackled Everything in West Oakland.

Forty Miles of Sidings Are Now Placed on the List.

County Assessor Dalton this morning completed his figures on the railroad assessment at West Oakland. These figures were placed on the books and will now be put to the test.

The personal property in the West Oakland yards, including machinery and the like, has been assessed at $200,000. Last year the property was assessed at $68,650, the same as it had been for many years. Mr. Dalton's figures gives the company a raise of $131,350.

The real estate which includes the West Oakland yards has been assessed at $277,250. Last year the property was assessed at $92,460. The raise on this property alone is $184,800.

The improvements on the property last year were assessed at $12,000. This year Mr. Dalton has placed the figures at $16,000.

One of the most important assessments that went on record today was that of forty miles of sidings in the West Oakland yards. Mr. Dalton claims that these tracks are no part of the main line and in consequence it is within his province to make the assessment. The value of these tracks is placed at $60,000. This property has never before been assessed by a County Assessor in the history of the county. Heretofore it has been taken for granted that the sidings were a part of the main line system and were supposed to be assessed by the State Board of Equalization. Mr. Dalton says that he will stand by the figures that he has made and will be ready to battle for the correctness of the assessment.

"I believe that I have been fair in making these figures," said Mr. Dalton. "I have now completed the West Oakland yards and have gone to the mole and the ferry boats. The assessment of the latter is not an easy thing to make and I have have put some experts to work to complete the figures. In about a week or ten days I will have the assessment of railroad property in this city about completed."

Extraordinary Scene in Judge Murphy's Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15.—William Fredericks was before Judge Murphy this morning for sentence for the murder of Cashier Herrick.

Fredericks roared, kicked and bit everyone who approached, bumping his head against the table and chairs until he was covered with blood.

His attorney was not present, and Judge Murphy ordered attorney Colwell to be cited for contempt, postponing sentence until Friday, as nothing could be obtained from Fredericks.

The scene was extraordinary.

During the absence of Judge Murphy from the courtroom Fredericks subsided, but broke out again when the judge reappeared.

MANY CLAIMS.

The United States Land Court in Session.

Reavis' Big Suit Is to Be Disposed Of.

Huge Frauds Regarding It Are Now Being Talked Of.

SANTA FE, N. M., May 15.—The United States Court of Private Land Claims has convened here for a sixty days' trial.

Chief Justice J. R. Reed of Iowa presides and a full bench is present.

A very large docket has been arranged, and among the cases is the famous Peralta grant in Arizona and Southwest New Mexico, which will come to trial in June.

This claim has been hanging over the best part of Arizona for thirty-five years.

It has delayed settlement and development because of clouded title.

United States Attorney M. G. Reynolds says he is prepared not only to defeat the right of the present claimants to the allege grant, but to go even further and challenge the existence of such grant to the alleged Baron Peralta.

In other words, the Government investigation just concluded by Mr. Reynolds, discloses that the claim to the property, valued at $75,000,000 and growing in value rapidly, rests upon nothing but a stupendous foundation of fraud.

Mr. Reynolds believes that the Government will be able to do more than this, as he has collected the evidence which will show the parties responsible for the manufacture of the bogus title, and of the false testimony and records.

WILL BE OPENED.

Mayor Davie Approves the Seventeenth Street Ordinance.

Mayor Davie today signed the ordinance providing for the opening of Seventeenth street to the bay shore line, as passed by the Council at its last meeting. The Board of Public Works will act as commissioners in the matter of assessing benefits and damages to accrue from the opening of the thoroughfare. This is the first street to be opened through to the bay on the western side of the city. The proposed opening was opposed by the railroad company on the ground that there was no public demand for the work, and that it would interfere with the handling of freight at Sixteenth street station.

LOVE-SICK.

Miss Clara Mahle to Go to an Asylum.

Her Reason Fled Because She Was Jilted

Miss Clara D. Mahle, 24 years of age, was committed to the Napa Insane Asylum by Judge Greene this morning, at the request of her brother, N. F. Mahle of Marysville. The case was rather a pathetic one, and the relatives of the girl disliked to tell the facts.

Miss Mahle was jilted by a young minister at Stockton about five years ago and she never recovered from the disappointment. She was engaged to be married and had gone so far as to make arrangements for her wedding. The young lady never recovered from the disappointment, when her lover jilted her. Her relatives sent her East, and she traveled for nearly a year. It was hoped that the change of scene and the new surroundings would cause her to forget the past. The trip did her little good, however, and when she returned to Marysville it was noticed that she was even worse. Miss Mahle was infatuated with the fellow who wrecked her life and she could not forget him. Under the continual worry her mind commenced to give away and it was deemed best to send her to Fabiola Hospital, where she could have proper treatment. The girl has been at the institution several weeks, but she has been steadily growing worse. During the past few days she has become violent and it was found necessary to have her examined for insanity. Her brother was sent for and when he saw the condition of his sister, he concluded that the asylum was the best place for her. Miss Mahle continually calls for the man who jilted her, and she cannot be pacified.

This afternoon she will be taken to Napa. The relatives of the girl will not give out the name of the minister who caused her to go insane.

A TEST CASE.

The Home Insurance Company Wins a Point.

Judge Greene decided a test case this afternoon which is of importance to insurance companies. The Home Insurance Company sued Cleveland & Hopkins to recover a small premium. The defendants took out a policy and then surrendered it. In this policy there was a printed clause that either side could cancel it. There was also a rubber stamp clause which says that on condition of the reduced rate the assured agrees not to surrender. Judge Greene decided that the rubber stamp clause has the preference and the plaintiff won the case. Fred Sutton was attorney for the plaintiff and Sam Bell McKee represented the defendants.

Kauffman, death watch, $35; Dr. C. B. Brigham, $1600; Dr. H. E. Muller, $50; Dr. G. C. Beck, $50; Dr. Huntington, $50; Dr. W. V. Taylor, $50; George E. De Golia, $275.

THE PIEDMONT ROAD.

The Managers Place a Value on It of $80,000.

The managers of the Consolidated Piedmont Cable Company have filed a statement with the County Assessor. They place a value on the road of $80,000. This was the amount the road sold for at public auction. Mr. Dalton says that he will not accept these figures and will place a valuation of his own on the road.

FOUND GUILTY.

The Salvationists Lose in the Police Court.

Judge Wood Decides They Must Get Permits.

The Case Will Now Be Submitted to the Superior Bench.

Judge Wood this morning convicted W. S. Sherwood of obstructing the streets. Sherwood's case was used as a test in the matter of the arrest of the Salvation Army several weeks ago for violating an ordinance which prohibits street preaching without a permit from the Mayor. The case was tried and submitted without any defense. Police Officer Stokes was the only witness, and he simply related the fact of the meeting at Tenth and Broadway and the failure of the officers of the army to produce their permits.

The case in point covered the entire sixteen members of the army who were arrested at the time. Judge Wood, in his decision, held that the ordinance was valid upon its face and he had no other course to pursue than to find the army guilty.

There was no attempt this morning to argue the case, as that was done several days ago by Judge E. M. Gibson, who demurred to the complaint as based upon an unconstitutional ordinance.

The next move that will be made has not quite yet been decided upon. The case will be very speedily taken to the Superior Court, as soon as sentence is passed upon Sherwood. It is probable that the matter will be taken up on an application for a writ of habeas corpus, when the argument can be made as to the validity of the ordinance.

The army will not rest until the question is finally determined, even if they have to go to the Supreme Court. The point involved by the ordinance is whether the Council can restrict the holding of public meetings in the manner they have. The ordinance is not prohibitive. It only restricts the use of the streets within the fire limits, unless the consent of the Mayor be obtained.

Commencement Day at Berkeley.

The twenty-sixth commencement of the University of California took place this afternoon in Harmon Gymnasium, Berkeley, and was very largely attended. The gallery was decorated with pepper branches and festoons of geranium and the walls were hung with palm leaves.

The stage was occupied by President Kellogg, several members of the faculty and the Board of Regents.

The exercises opened with an overture by the orchestra, after which, Rev. Dr. J. K. McLean offered prayer.

The first essayist was Fred Hanley Seares, who spoke on "The Value of Liberal Science."

"Within the years of the present century that have already passed," he said, "the life of the human race has assumed more and more complex forms. The different branches of the race have been brought into closer union. A new interdependence has sprung up between them. The life of the individual and the nation has assumed new duties and greater responsibilities. It has been an age of transition from idealism to materialism, and out of this materialism has come the demand for something which would so fit and equip the man that he may, with the least expenditure of energy, best fulfill those new duties and acquit himself of those new responsibilities. This demand has been so great that the ideal methods of thought and life have been largely lost sight of. The transition has been from the one extreme to the other, and men seem to have forgotten, or never to have recognized, that between the two extremes there lies a happy mean.

"Nearly every branch of knowledge has its two sides, one the practical, which finds a direct application to the conditions and relations of life; the other, the non-practical or non-utilitarian, which has no immediate effect on such life. Of science this is preeminently true, and, in this case, the one side we call technical or applied science, the other, abstract or pure or liberal science. It is of this latter that I wish to speak."

Mr. Seares then considered in the first class Herschel, La Place, Young, Cavendish, Lavoisier. Of this number of men, he said, he thought that not one ever produced a single invention or made a single application of his science which has had any direct bearing on the practical affairs of life. Wherein then, he asked, lies the value of the work done by these men?

The answer, he said, is simply this: "Pure science is the fore-runner of applied science, and without pure science, the applied sciences could never have existed. Applied science is pure science adapted to particular classes of problems. It consists of deductions for general principles established by observation, comparison and classification, reasoning and generalization."

Mr. Seares considered the difference between the methods of the investigator and the technician, and thus brought out the effect of the pursuit of the pure sciences upon the powers of observation, memory, abstraction, generalization and reason.

He then said: "It opens the mind, corrects it, refines it and enables it to know and to use its knowledge and, in a word, leads to culture, that end and aim of a liberal education. The great need of modern culture is to find some effectual agency for cherishing within us an ideal. Mr. Morley tells us this is the foundation of literature, for if you follow to a last analysis the mental processes involved in a pursuit of the pure sciences, you will find that it leads directly to those influences which not only cherish but actually develop the idea."

Mr. Sears called attention to the condition of science at the present time. He said that a great number of the men of the last century who worked in science were investigators. Since then the workers have been appliers who have been using the result of the labors of these investigators.

The work of the practical scientific men is of the utmost importance, and should receive all the encouragement possible. Encouragement has been given to these workers but, at the same time, the investigator had been neglected. "In doing this," he said, "we are neglecting that which has been one of the most important factors in producing the civilization of the present."

"This," he continued, "is but the tendency of the modern scientific education. The demand is for that which is practical. There has been too much differentiation without proper consideration of the mutual bearings of the different branches of science, too much specialization I say, for it must be remembered that the mere specialist, even though he works in the lines of pure science, is just as narrow as the man who knows nothing of sciences but its applications. And lastly, there is lack of sufficient opportunity for those who have the ability to carry on original research. The man who enters upon such work has less to expect in remuneration and more to contend with than he would in almost any of the other lines of human occupation. Yet, only too often is he left to himself to get on as best he may, and, as a consequence, he accepts a position in a professor's chair, where most of his time must be devoted to lectures and classes, while his labors of investigation, if not made entirely impossible becomes at least a secondary matter. Herein seems to be a weak point in the organization of our present system of scientific work. It is along these lines that we must guard ourselves if we would put our universities upon a plane where they shall command the respect of the world."

There was then another overture, after which William Henry Gorrill discoursed on "Is the Method of Jurisprudence Exclusively Scientific?"

"There is a general tendency toward interest in science," said Mr. Gorrill. "This has an important influence on law and jurisprudence.

"We find the professors of jurisprudence in England regarding the study as a science alone, and they have no place for philosophy.

"This constitutes a serious danger for law and legislation.

"The danger lies in three facts:

"First—The devotion of the English people to their Common Law system.

"Second—The distorted conception of jurisprudence on the part of the professors already noticed.

"Third—The general tendency of the public mind toward the interests of science—toward whatever is, rather than toward whatever ought to be.

"From a priori considerations alone we may be sure that real danger threatens us.

"We are merging the ideal in the real, and while this is right, if done on the plane of the ideal, it is wrong and false and dangerous if done on the plane of the real."

Walter Huddleston Graves then read a poem entitled, "Misanthropos."

MISS FELTON'S ESSAY.

Then came more music, after that Miss Katherine Conway Felton, the Oakland girl who won the gold medal, discoursed on "Faith in Moral Consciousness."

"History presents two distinct civilizations," she said, "the Occidental, based upon the conception of the dignity, the freedom, the reality of man; the Oriental, upon his utter nothingness. Life is made up of unsatisfied desires, of unrealized hopes, and hence is, in its essence, pain. The wise man realizes this, ceases to desire and so ceases to live. The history of the Orient is the record of stagnation, that of the Occident the record of individual activity and progress.

"So inherent, in the Western mind, is the belief in its freedom, that even at a time when it still retained theoretical conceptions derived from the Orient it could not carry them out in its actual life. In Homer, above the gods themselves, rules an unconscious, all-powerful fate, indifferent to the moral needs of man and destroying the good and bad alike. Yet, when Homer wishes to portray his hero, he cannot conceive him as a mere slave of destiny and so Fate is made the decree simply that the death of Achilles shall follow that of Hector, leaving the former to choose between life and its pleasures and horror and death. The grandeur and nation of the story lie wholly in that intense moral struggle, and final victory of duty. The same thing is illustrated in the "Œdipus."

"During the last century the discoverers of science have forced the Western mind to discard many of its old ideas. The reign of law has been discovered in one department of nature after another, and the possibility of arbitrary change has been farther and farther removed. Finally, science has demanded for its principles a universal application and has sought to bring under them man himself, making him the highest product of evolution, to subject him to the laws of nature and thus to leave no room for freedom. This attempt to reduce man to a product of evolution has forced upon the scientist the task of explaining the complicated nature of man as a gradual development, the result of adaptation to environment. This has brought about the theory that the World is becoming peopled only by a race who are by nature social with whom perfect egotism tends to be perfect altruism. That conduct is moral which fits a man for his environment; and obligation is simply inherited feeling in favor of such conduct. The law of cause and effect rules the physic world as absolutely as it does the physical."

Applying this theory to the individual, in his present and past relations and to the State, Miss Felton found it unsatisfactory. She deduced the following: "Thus, in the light of this interpretation of science the scientific and moral consciousness seem to be antagonistic. And yet they are both claims of one and the same reason in its search for the rational. Unless man's nature is intrinsically at war with itself, some reconciliation must be possible; and yet the reconciliation cannot consist in the subordination of the moral nature, for this, as we have shown, must be absolute. Morality must be supreme, or it is nothing; obligation must be unconditional, or it is meaningless; the ought cannot be transferred into the is."

After reviewing the theories of Kant, as throwing light on this conflict, Miss Felton concluded: "And thus we see that the final result of the Kantean philosophy is to vindicate that conception of man's nature which is inherent in the Western mind, which finds embodiment in the Christian religion of whatever form, and in that religion alone—the conception of the dignity, freedom, the reality of man."

PRESIDENT KELLOGG'S REVIEW.

The attendance, he said, had been 37 per cent greater this year than during previous years; but the number of instructors of all ranks had increased only 15 per cent. The courses of study were more by 27 per cent. Professional colleges in San Francisco had made a decided advance. Within the last four years the attendance had more than doubled, and the University might now be called one of the great universities of the country.

"We have, all told," the president continued, "nearly 1800 students who have studied many years before entering. The past year has seen advances in the material equipment necessary for successful study. The important building erected for mechanical and electrical engineering is now available for use in all its lines of work. A laboratory has been fitted up for the civil engineering department, affording facilities for testing the strength of materials. A new plant house has been added to the equipment of the college of agriculture. Aside from the too small funds allotted to the University library, it has reached individual gifts, the most important one the large private library of the late Dr. E. B. Walsworth. The Lick Observatory has received helpful donations, culminating in the recent gift of a magnificent reflecting telescope from Mr. Edward Crossley. The money needed to transplant and set up this telescope was raised in a few days in San Francisco has received handsome gifts from its munificent patron, Mr. Searls.

"A new affiliation during the year is that of a Veterinary College, which begins its work with a competent faculty and a strong board of trustees. J. C. Wimerding has left to the regents of the University a bequest of $400,000 for an industrial school. The fund will probably be in their hands in the early autumn of this year.

"A very significant and welcome benefaction of the year was the appropriation by the Legislature of $250,000 for a home of professional study in San Francisco, to bring together four of our affiliated colleges. The spirit of this gift, in a year of financial stress, is proof of the care of the State for the best interests of its University. The new building will be a most important center of University life in San Francisco.

"We asked for another like sum, which we failed to obtain. We showed that the remarkable prosperity of the University was now its chief embarrassment. Our buildings at Berkeley were overcrowded, our income had been largely devoted to new structures, our teaching staff was insufficient. The situation was growing more critical with the arrival of each new class, larger than any former one. We had not room enough nor equipment enough for the eager students who had been invited to our courses.

"This experience brings vividly before us the need of supplemental aid. Our State is great and rich and proud. It has dealt gently with us, and it will not suffer its own brightest institution of learning to lose its prestige. But it cannot be relied on to do everything. It cannot be expected to go in advance of the average public sentiment. It is of the very nature of education to rise above the average, to take the lead of the people at large, to be in the van of a progressive and refining civilization. Who is to come in to give this additional momentum? Evidently, it must be the enlightened, far-seeing, public-spirited private citizen. The best results of the higher education depend on his willingness to help with a generous hand. He must acquaint himself with the actual needs of the University. He must come and see how important new buildings are waiting for him to be the best monument he can raise; how that treasury of learning and science, the library, is hungry for his benefactions; how the ever growing demands of modern scientific instruction ask of him new laboratories, new equipment, additions to all scientific collections; how all linguistic and historical and literary study calls for new appliances; how all the departments of instruction are in pressing need of endowments, like those of D. O. Mills and Edward Tompkins. That enlightened, farseeing, public-spirited citizen, if he has money to spare, can see here how it can be put to the best possible use. * * *

"Millionaires are very good in their way and they make large endowments. But 'many littles make a muckle.' A shower of small gifts may come to rival a single large one. At any rate, every gift tells in a good cause. If one cannot erect the costly building, he can put something in it to increase the use or its beauty. If he cannot found a great library, he can add a little to the available treasure. If he cannot endow a chair he may perhaps establish a scholarship.

"The call all over the land is to go forward. The universities of the Atlantic coast are multiplying their facilities. Harvard and Yale were once helped by the State, but now rely on large private benefactions. The State universities of the interior find supplementary helpers. Michigan has such public spirited citizens, who add to the value of her noble institution.

"Help that is given for the best education of our sons and daughters is help to a noble cause. The best interests of the Golden State demand these elevating and refining influences. The State will be remembered for its products of gold. It will become more and more attractive for its wealth of fruitage and its beauty of bloom. It will develop vast commerce with the nations of the world. But no claim will surpass, I had almost said—none will equal that of a great center of learning, a cosmopolitan home, for the age for the treasured literature and thought and wisdom of all ages. Harvard is a chief glory of Massachusetts, Yale of little Connecticut and Michigan of the State whose name it bears. It rests with this generation to make California equally renowned for its highest institution of learning.

A CAMPER'S TRIP.

Opportunity to Make a Selection of a Summer Resort.

Camping out, no matter how much one may like it, is anything but enjoyable, unless the camper locates in a place according to his liking and calculated to enable him to enjoy even the dullest moments which may be imagined in camp life. Colonel W. H. Menton, the excursion passenger agent of the Southern Pacific Company, is aware of this fact and has hit upon a happy means of enabling people who desire to camp to do so in places which are all that may be desired. With this end in view, tomorrow, he will run what may be called an intending campers' excursion train. The train will be run on the South Pacific Coast line, the narrow gauge road, into the Santa Cruz mountains. The object of the train is to enable people who desire to take an outing to see the various beautiful places on the road and then make their selection with a knowledge of the circumstances. The excursion will leave the foot of Market street, San Francisco, tomorrow morning at 7:45 o'clock. The first stop will be at Alma, where people will be given sufficient time to look around and find out the beauties and advantages of the place. There will be a stop of half an hour at Wrights and another at Laurels. Then Glenwood will be visited, and at the Big Trees there will be a stop for lunch of an hour and a half and a jolly time is sure. After lunch visits will be made to Felton, Ben Lomond and Boulder Creek. The excursionists will return to San Francisco at 8 P. M. Colonel Menton knows how to manage an excursion of this kind and will surely make this one a success and a means of information and pleasure to all the participants.

JOSEPH S. MARSHALL,

First Vice-President of the Veteran Firemen, Wins $30,000

When good fortune comes to a worthy citizen who commands the respect of all who know him it is a source of more than ordinary gratification. Such a man is Joseph S. Marshall, than whom there is no one better known or more highly esteemed among the business people of San Francisco and especially among the old "fire laddies." Mr. Marshall is the proprietor of the popular "Oyster House," 91-92 Center Market, corner of Sutter and Dupont streets, and he resides at 910 Clay street. He is a pioneer of San Francisco and a member and officer of the Exempt Fireman's Association, and also First Vice-President of the Veteran Firemen's Association of California.

It is a pleasant duty for the Report to announce that Joseph S. Marshall has won $30,000 in the Lottery of the Beneficencia Publica. He held a half ticket calling for that handsome amount in the drawing of April 25, 1895, and has since received every cent of the money in United States gold coin. The half ticket which drew him this rich prize cost him only $2, and it is no wonder that Mr. Marshall declares that it was the best investment he ever made in all his life.

Among many fortunate holders of winning tickets in the Beneficencia Publica drawing of March, 1895, was a Mr. Coldsmith of Fresno, Cal. He won $500, which sum was promptly paid him in U. S. gold coin.

Police and Fire.

At a meeting of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners yesterday it was decided to hold an investigation of the case of E. W. Tallman on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Tallman was suspended by Chief Lawton from the fire department for refusing to give up his place to a Native Son during the Native Sons' parade. The usual routine business was transacted.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in its raising power as the Royal.

CROOKED WORK.

Frank J. Cruz Will Yet Land in Prison.

He Has Been Duping a Number of Bicycle Houses.

Frank J. Cruz, a young Alameda, is in trouble with the police, who only released him from custody a few days ago after holding him for five days. Cruz was arrested on a charge of forgery, but the interested parties failed to come to the front and swear to a complaint. Cruz was kept in custody for nearly a week, but as no complaint was filed it was necessary to release him. Chief Schaffer has in his possession a check for $12 50, drawn in favor of Cruz, and signed by George C. Ralf, an Alameda coal merchant, who says his name was forged. The check was cashed by McSorley Brothers & Schrag, whose indorsement was upon its back.

There seemed no question that Cruz was unduly familiar in his use of other people's names in this connection, but as no one was willing to prosecute him he was allowed to go.

Now the police have discovered that Cruz has been involving himself in other peculiar transactions and they have determined to make an example of him.

For some time past several Alameda and Oakland bicycle firms have been complaining of the loss of bicycles rented for temporary use and subsequently found in pawnshops. Half a dozen wheels have thus disappeared and have subsequently been recovered and the police say that Cruz is the individual responsible for the transactions.

Chief Schaffer decided today to swear to a complaint himself charging Cruz with forgery and he has given instructions to have the young man arrested.

ALL A MISTAKE.

Durrant's Friends Are Confident of Success.

Important Points Are Raised in His Behalf.

Theodore Durrant did not kill Minnie Williams.

He did not kill Blanche Lamont.

The police force of San Francisco has made a mistake.

That is what his friends say and they insist that they can prove it.

On Good Friday, April 12th, Theodore Durrant met a young lady at the ferry station in San Francisco. He was recognized by several people, who have since testified to this fact.

The woman was not recognized. No person has been a witness for the prosecution who knew this woman with whom Durrant was seen.

This woman was not Marion Williams.

When Miss Williams left Alameda on the day she was killed, she carried an extension basket, a box of flowers and another parcel.

She was a slightly formed woman, one who, loaded as she was, would be noticeable.

She was accompanied from the boat to the car by a person with whom she had conversed on the boat and she got off the car at Mrs. Voy's house at 5 o'clock. She did not see Theodore Durrant at the ferry.

When she left Mrs. Voy's house after dinner she carried the flowers that she had brought from Alameda for the Easter decorations of the church.

Those flowers were calla lilies, white and yellow marguerites and roses. Of the lilies alone she carried a dozen.

The woman who was seen on Bartlett street by C. T. Hills carried no flowers.

The man who entered the church with Marion Williams was empty-handed. This is the testimony of the only person who claims to have seen the couple pass through the churchyard to the side door.

ABOVE all others, SPERRY'S FAMILY FLOUR.

My friend, look here! you know how weak and nervous your wife is, and you know that Carter's Iron Pills will relieve her, now why not be sensible about it and buy her a box.

WEDNESDAY MAY 15 1895

A WASHINGTON special to the New York Herald is to this effect, "The Supreme Court has determined to absolutely annihilate the Income Tax law. This statement is made to-night on what appears to be absolutely reliable authority. It is, of course, impossible to say officially what will be the decision of the court in advance of its announcement, but the report comes from such a source as to leave very little room for doubt as to its accuracy." It may not be well to take much stock in this report. The formal decision on the income tax is to be rendered next Monday. It cannot be known on the outside with any certainty as to just what the form of that decision will be. The former decision was foreshadowed by the press some days in advance. There may be another surprise for the country.

It does not look much as if the directors of the San Joaquin Valley Railroad Company were going to drop the tools and run. They have been in the Valley for some days examining routes, and doing a great deal of preliminary work. A meeting is to be held on Saturday to further perfect the organization of the company. The China Basin question is not yet settled. But there never has been any good ground for the inference drawn in certain quarters that the enterprise would fall through because the China Basin could not be procured on the exact terms demanded. Whether that can be made a franchise subject to mortgage, or otherwise, is not a question involving the existence of the road as subsequent developments will probably show. There is more than one water front that would answer admirably all the requirements of the Valley Road

That Japanese Story.

There was a time when such a story as the San Francisco Bulletin published last evening about the Japanese invasion could not have been admitted to that paper. It was a poor compliment to the ordinary intelligence of readers to ask them to believe that within the past year 10,000 Japanese have found employment on the farms of the San Joaquin valley and other interior valleys of the State. There were less than 1000 Japanese who entered all the ports of the United States last year. Since the war began between China and Japan there has probably been a slight decrease of the number of Japanese immigrants. The story which the Bulletin concocted ought to have been published on the first of April. George K. Fitch would have turned a somersault if in his time any such imposition had been attempted. It certainly could not have found a place in his paper.

Of the five or six hundred Japanese who are coming to this country, the majority of them do not seek farm work. Nearly all the young men come with a view of obtaining an English education. They seek the very thing that the Chinese do not seek. Their chances are better in the cities than in the country. They will accept any service that will help them along to the one end they have in view. There are, of course, some exceptions to this rule. The younger Japanese have always a book in sight. They will work in the vineyards and fruit orchards to some extent. But the Japanese are not coming in any such numbers as this newspaper canard would imply.

There are probably more Japanese in San Francisco today than in all the rest of the State. They are there because so large a proportion of them are seeking the advantages of an English education. They can pick it up faster in the city than in the country. There are several young Japanese in the University of California. They are hard students. Some of them are paying their way by any odd jobs they can get. One of them has been working nights and mornings in Alameda, and during the past winter has gone every day on his bicycle to the University at Berkeley, making his daily rounds of study and work, and all the time a most indefatigable student. It is well to take account of the leading purpose of most of these Japanese. A few of them are farm laborers. But there are no ten thousand of them flocking annually to the farms of the interior, as this fiction writer would have the public believe.

A Campaign of Education.

It has been said that the last two Presidential contests were campaigns of education. The tariff was the issue. The country was well plastered over with tariff and anti-tariff literature. But when the campaigns closed the people were as wide apart in their conclusions as they were at the beginning It is now in the wind that there is to be another campaign of education in the coming Presidential canvass. The tariff is to have the second place, and currency the leading place. The work of publishing the literature of the canvass has already begun. Every sort of financial vagary is to hold a place. There will be elaborate treatises on free coinage, bimetallism, the ratio of silver to gold, standards of value and so on.

There never could be a more favorable time for such a discussion. The country is about to settle a financial policy that may be continued for generations. All the political parties and nearly every faction of a party are coming into the field with their theories. These latter day discussions of a national policy have been greatly modified during the last few years. A quarter of a century ago the stump orator had everything his own way. It was expected that everybody interested in politics would hear a number of stump speeches in every Presidential contest, and would be greatly influenced by them. But now a large proportion of voters do not hear a single speech in the most exciting campaign. They depend upon the press, upon pamphlets and leaflets that are scattered broadcast over the land. Everybody reads more or less of this literature. It is easier to read it than to hear it delivered from the stump. Bureaus of publication send out millions of pages. Every great public speech dealing with what are supposed to be cardinal principles finds its way into print.

Everything that can be said or written on every side of the pending financial question will be laid before the public by the press. It is more than ever a form of campaign education for the eye rather than for the ear. This contest has already begun. That is, the first of the flood of printed matter has gone out. When the country has come to the last day of the campaign, it will probably divide very much as it did on the tariff question. One political party never extinguishes another, even in the hottest campaign. Seeing it is to be a campaign of financial education, the documentary flood will be greater than ever. It is the promotion of good government by discussion. Earnest men take opposite sides, and maintain as best they can their theories.

The discussion of financial principles requires a great deal of exact statement. Today the ablest financiers of the country are divided as to the best financial policy for the country. The fact that the discussion has already begun, at least six months in advance of the usual time for a Presidential campaign, indicates that the country is about to enter upon the most extended and thorough financial discussion ever known. It is one that will probably involve the rise and fall of parties. The campaign of financial education is at hand.

Last Hours of a Pioneer.

One of the most famous pioneers of the State is about to pass away. Peter H. Burnett has had much to do with the making of the Pacific coast. He took part in the organization of the Territory of Oregon more than half a century ago. He served there as a Territorial Judge. As Governor of California, a Judge of the Supreme Court, citizen, banker, historian, few men, even among the pioneers of California, attained so much prominence or filled public offices more acceptably than this distinguished citizen.

Ex-Governor Burnett was not the greatest of men. He had great opportunities, and he knew how to take advantage of them He was recognized as a man of sterling character. His uprightness won the confidence of the public, and he never lost it. For many years ex-Governor Burnett had ceased to attract public attention. He had filled the measure of an active and honorable pioneer. He had aided in laying the foundation of the State, and and he had seen the great commonwealth firmly established on these pioneer foundations. It has been given to few men to make as much honorable history of the Pacific coast as this old pioneer now passing away

Fifteen Apaches.

The largest number of Apaches that has thus far been reported as making war-like demonstrations is fifteen. It does not look as if they would be able to capture the country at present. But well equipped and finished up in war paint, they might scare a great many people. It is a long time since there has been any Apache outbreak in Arizona. The contractors have had dull times. If an Apache war could be started even fifteen renegades might do for a beginning.

The Apaches who leave the reservation do it generally with the connivance of white men, aided by the inefficient service rendered by those having special charge of these red rascals. It is not probable that there will be any Indian war in Arizona. But if the semblance of one could be started it would redound greatly to the profit of contractors and camp followers. The few Apaches now on the annual raid will probably skulk back to the mountains and be blanketed and fed for another raid. That is the kind of civilizing influence that the Apaches on or off the reservation always enjoy.

THE recent decision of Judge Ross of the Federal Court is one of the most important that has been rendered in many years touching land questions on this side of the country. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company claimed, as successor to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, all the lands that had been granted to the latter for purposes of construction. Settlers claimed that these lands had been forfeited by non-compliance with the terms of the grant. They settled upon the lands as a part of the Government domain. For some of these lands they received patents. They paid the Government the price demanded. The litigation over the title to these lands has been going on for some years. It looks now as if it had come to an end. The settlers have won their homesteads, subject to the contingency of an appeal, of which there is little prospect.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Pasteur is the most distinguished graduate of the Paris Ecole Normale, which has just celebrated its hundredth anniversary In commemoration of the event a tablet of black marble has been placed on the wall of his laboratory in the old Rue d'Ulm, now Rue Pasteur, inscribed: "Here stood Pasteur's laboratory. 1857, Fermentations. 1860, Spontaneous generation. 1865, Diseases of wines and beers. 1888 Silkworm distempers. 1881, Virus and vaccine. 1884-1888, Hydrophobia remedies" Above is a medallion with the letters L. P. interlaced.

A paper devoted especially to the egg has been started in Iowa, and Edward Atkinson contributes to it an estimate that 10 800,000,000 eggs are laid in the United States annually, and may fairly be valued at $10,000 000. This equals our pig iron and wool product put together.

Mexican onyx has suffered a gradual decline in value for many years past. It is generally becoming known that Mexican onyx is not true onyx but a species of marble. It is really an arragonite and is composed of calcium, oxide of iron and magnesium the presence of these last two elements gives it its beautiful color It was used by the ancient Mexican for masks, idols and similar small objects.

Roman lamps were of many sizes, but most of them very closely resembled what is at present denominated as sauce or gravy boat At one end there was a ring, through which the finger was passed when the lights were carried The body of the vessel was filled with oil, and at the other end there was a small tube through which a rag wick was passed.

A 35 cents a day under Silas Leachman of Chicago has filled 300 000 phonograph cylinders with comic and other songs. It is said that he makes about $50 a day and that in the West he is the only man that has been found with a voice of the right quality for this work

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., May 3.—This section of the State is becoming honeycombed with telephones, and every town within a radius of fifty miles will soon be connected with Webster City The scheme is something new and surprising even to old telephone men, but it works like a charm. An inventive genius here struck upon the idea of making direct connections with the barbed wire on the fences that run along the prairie He tried a line first between here and Duncombe. It was a success, and now he has an incorporated company which has just sprung into existence and is getting rich. A line was pitched on to the barbed wire fence between here and Williams, twenty miles away, in one day by two men, who used only eight or ten rods of insulated wire under the road crossings that pass over the railroad. He is having a line to Boone, forty miles away, today, and if the barbed wire fences hold out he will push on to Des Moines or Missouri.—Daily Inter-Ocean.

Judge Priest of the United States District Court at St Louis was so touched the other day by the letter of a counterfeiter's child pleading for mercy in behalf of her father that his Honor reduced a sentence of seven years, which he had ordered to be entered on the docket, to three years.

Sixty years ago Joseph Gillott was a working jeweler in Birmingham. One day he accidentally split one of his fine steel tools, and being suddenly required to sign a receipt and not finding a quill pen handy he used the split tool as a substitute. This happy incident led to the idea of making pens of metal.

Hermann Boerhaave, the illustrious scientist and physician, who accumulated a fortune estimated at 2,000,000 florins, said the poor were his best patients because God paid him for them.

Literary Chicago and Lard.

Notwithstanding the fact that Harold Montgomery lived in Chicago he had written a poem, and a lovely thing in mellifluous measure it was.

At least Harold thought so.

Daintily tying it with a soft blue ribbon he sent it away to the publisher in the far East, and with a throbbing heart he waited to hear what fortune was to be the poem's meed.

At last, one sweet summer day in June, it came back to him wafted on the flying wings of the post.

His heart flattered in a strange struggle between hope and disappointment.

His wife, who had no music in her soul and had never felt the touch of poesy, stood by his side when he opened the missive from the East.

He read it through, hopefully at first, then dispairingly and his head fell upon his breast.

"What's the matter?" she inquired with wifely anxiety.

"My poem," he gasped.

"What of it?"

"The publisher says it needs shortening; think of that."

"Well," she said with an air of superior intelligence, "why don't you put some lard in it and send it back to him?"—New York Sun.

To a Dandelion.

Little mimic of the sun
Hiding in the fragrant grass,
Have you any kisses won
From the pretty maids who pass?
When the sun slips down the west
Some fair girl she'll come in quest
Of the secret which you lock
In your tiny golden breast
You shall hear an airy knock
And question "What o'clock?

Ah you dainty snowy ghost,
See what buds your wisdom brings!
Tell me, pray what angel's breast
Such a zephet for their wings?
Just because too hour you tell
She repays you magic well—
Wafts you off to paradise.
You do for you a gem is dwell
Light your journey with her eyes.
Would that I were half so wise!

VARIED VIEWS.

Citizens Chat About the Sunday Closing Matter.

The Rights of the Council Are Talked Of.

Business Men Talk of the Effects Upon the Community.

The saloon issue continues to be an absorbing topic around town. The following additional interviews have been obtained by THE TRIBUNE:

Captain W. R. Thomas—I am in favor of closing the saloons on Sunday, but I think 10 o'clock would be early enough to close them on Saturday night.

J. S Johnson—Let the saloon men take one day off in the week, the same as the rest of us. I would favor the closing of the saloons on Sunday, but I would let them run till 12 o'clock Saturday night, and then keep closed till 6 o'clock Monday morning.

A. J. Snyder—I am in favor of the strictest surveillance of the saloons by the police. I would have any saloon-keeper who sold liquor to a drunken man punished. But I would not close the saloons on Sunday. Everything else runs here. There is no Sunday law here. I would not have the saloons closed Saturday night, although some of them might be closed altogether. One of the injurious effects of Sunday closing would be noticed in the suburbs. The rowdies and tough element would congregate there and raise disturbance and annoy the people.

Judge Nye—I have no use for the saloon and personally I would not regret if no saloons existed. But I am not in favor of attempting to suppress the saloon unless it is backed by a strong and decisive public sentiment that is almost unanimous in favor of opposing the saloon. The travesty of such laws is found in the attempt to prosecute for selling liquor within a mile of the University. Men will perjure themselves to get on a jury to prevent a law from being enforced. They are asked if they have any prejudice against a certain law and they say they have not. They lied. But that is the result of attempting to enforce a law, regarding which, the sentiment is nearly balanced. I do not know the sentiment of the people in this city on the subject, but the sentiment ought to be practically unanimous against the saloon. That sentiment cannot be aroused in a moment. It is a matter of education. I do not think the closing of the saloons would hurt Oakland in a commercial sense.

Louis Schaffer, Washington Market—I interfere with no man's business. I treat the saloons just as I treat the churches. If I don't want to go to a saloon I don't go there, and if I do want to I go there. But I remain a great deal away from church. I believe it would injure Oakland a great deal. Times are very dull here now, anyway. If men cannot get a drink here on Sunday they can go almost anywhere for a nickel or to San Francisco for 10 cents. They will go to Temescal and other places and spend their money there, instead of in this city. It is not more than two years since I was in New York. Myself and my two brothers took a walk to Long Island and College Point, and, on our return in the evening, I asked if it would not be a good thing to get a glass of beer. My brothers agreed with me, but I said that I supposed all the saloons were closed. One of my brothers led the way into a house by a back entrance, and there there was a saloon in full blast. After a time a man came in and looked around, and made some inquiries, and soon was joined by another. Both talked together. When they had gone out I learned that the first visitor was the sergeant of the police and the other was a member of the police force.

E. G. Buswell—I am in sympathy with the home, not with the saloon, and, for that reason, am in favor of the saloons closing on Saturday night. When a man gets his pay Saturday night he ought not to spend it in the saloon. He ought to go home and remain with his family. Personally, I am in favor of closing saloons, but that would have to be done by the vote of the people. I think the Council has all the authority required to pass this ordinance. The saloon is a menace to morality and should be closed.

J. L. Hierlihy—I am a prohibitionist, but I am opposed to the closing of the saloons on Sunday and Saturday night. That closing is only compromising with a business that there should be none with. It is a part violation of a contract. There is an agreement that these men shall be allowed to run their saloons every day in the week. To restrict them one day and one night is to break that agreement. Dr. Coyle said that the saloon is the broth of hell spewed over the community. If the saloon is the broth of hell at all, is it any the less broth on the other six days and nights that it is allowed to be spewed out at random?

A. J. Gregg—I favor the submission of this proposition to the people, because there is too much centralization of power now. But I would rather have submitted the question of saloon or no saloon. The temperance sentiment is growing in this city, but whether the seven members of the Council represent the majority of the people I cannot say. The city has licensed the saloons to run every day and to cut them off on Saturday night and Sunday would be to violate an agreement.

C. L. Ingier—I don't go to the saloons very much on Sunday, but on most every other day I drop in on them when I feel like it. But why should the saloons be closed on Sunday any more than any other business? If you close up the saloons, close up everything else. Stop the cars. Why should the cars be allowed to be run? I remember in Philadelphia when the cars, for six years, were stoned on Sundays and they finally got to running them only under the plea of carrying the United States mail. If the saloons are closed here visitors will remain away from us and we will lose by it. We ought to attract and not detract from the city.

MERCHANTS MEET.

Annual Election of Officers of the Exchange.

Proposition to Have a Mammoth Fourth of July Celebration.

The directors of the Merchants' Exchange held a long meeting last evening, and chose officers for the ensuing year. George L. Fish was honored with re-election as president without opposition. The same course was pursued in the case of William V. Witcher as vice president. Henry D. Cushing was elected treasurer.

There was a fight over the office of secretary, which lasted a long time and ended in a deadlock. When nominations for that position were called for it developed that five applications were on file for the place. The applications were from George H. Furry, incumbent; Paul Schafer, ex-secretary of the Board of Health; L. T. Barr, W. W. Moody, and H. K. Snow.

The directors deliberated over the five names, and there was a very warm debate. Each of the candidates seemed to have partisans who were hot in his behalf. The matter occupied so much attention that other business was delayed until a late hour. No election of secretary was held, and it was postponed until next Tuesday night.

Jonas Brothers presented a communication suggesting that the Exchange undertake the proposition of holding a great Fourth of July celebration in which all the cities and suburban towns on this side of the bay be invited to participate.

A committee composed of F. K. Mott, George W. Arper, George L. Fish, F. Kahn and F. Sinclair was appointed to take charge of the matter and report at the meeting on Tuesday night.

The Sunday closing of saloons was discussed in an informal way and the attitude of the Exchange left open. A great deal of argument was indulged in, but nothing of an official character resulted. It seems a question whether the Exchange will consider the matter.

Making a Good Paper.

W. E. Bond, formerly of this city, and for about two years past manager of The Standard of Anaconda, Montana, has been rewarded with success in his new field of labor. The paper was enlarged on the first of this month to a seven-column, eight-page daily, with twelve pages on Sunday. It has also put in operation four linotype machines, which were made expressly for it in New York. The success of The Standard is in a great measure due to Mr. Bond's efforts, a circumstance which will be appreciated by his friends in this city.

Cycling and Boating Are Now All the Go.

Sporting Matters in General Discussed by "The Umpire."

The society game of tennis is to be revived in Oakland. The boys are hard at work reorganizing the old Lakeside club. Already they have a fine list of members.

The University team is creating a sensation in the East. Manager North has completed the dates for the entire Eastern trip.

The Acme boys are looking forward to the coming entertainment with a good deal of interest. It is expected that there will be several clever boxing matches.

Following will be found a resume of the sporting events of the week:

THE UMPIRE.

THE members of the Reliance baseball team are not satisfied with the treatment they received at Woodland last Sunday. The boys say that the umpire robbed them of the game. It is the same old story that I have heard for years. In this instance, however, it took two umpires to get away with the game. The Reliance boys complain that they received very shabby treatment and they have no kind words for the Woodland young men. I am sorry that such a condition of affairs should exist, for the reason that it does not tend to boom amateur baseball. The game needs careful nursing, even in amateur circles, and charges of unfair conduct only tends to make the few remaining baseball men disgusted. This year we need not rely on the amateur players to keep the baseball enthusiasts in line, and they should have harmony in the ranks instead of discord. I do not blame the Reliance Club for entering a protest because from what I have heard they certainly received unfair treatment. I do say, however, that the Woodland boys made a grave mistake in not treating their visitors in a more courteous manner. If there were any favors to be given they ought to have been shown on the side of the Reliance team. The members of which traveled a number of miles to engage in a sociable game of baseball. It will be a very long time before the Reliance boys will make another trip to Woodland. The score was 13 to 9, in favor of Woodland. The local boys say the score should have been 9 to 5, in favor of the Reliance.

The baseball enthusiasts on both sides of the bay will no doubt be pleased to learn that a new baseball park is to be laid out in San Francisco. The old Bay View Race track is to be turned into a park. The railroad company is said to be back of the movement and will make many improvements. The grand stand and bleachers at the Haight street park are to be removed to the new site. The Haight street grounds are now useless so far as baseball is concerned. The land is now valuable for business and residence property and it will be cut up into lots. The new site is quite a distance out of town but it can be easily reached by the electric cars. It is proposed to put the track in good order as soon as possible so that the baseball men will have a good place for their sport just as soon as a league is organized for business.

***

Colonel Tom Robinson has had a rough deal ever since he made such a grand show of himself at the Native Sons' parade. He received an injury on the leg while riding a horse which has proved quite serious. The colonel is now compelled to hobble around on crutches and he does not know when he will be able to discard them. Saturday the colonel went to the fiesta behind a spanking team of bay horses. He did not have any floral decorations. He did not need them, for his own graceful presence decorated the carriage enough to attract wide attention. The colonel would have shone in the fullness of his glory if he could only have been the grand marshal of the great floral parade. The colonel is all right and he will be heard from in baseball circles when the time is ripe for action.

***

Colonel Thomas Robinson and other ex-managers can read this item and reflect: "As an indication of prosperity of the game in the East, it may be cited that the New York club took as its share of the three games at Philadelphia $5100, which is more money than any other club ever got in six games on that ground. They were paid at the rate of 12½ cents a spectator, which makes the total of paid admissions 40 800. This, too, with the Quakers way down in the race. The ill-luck of the Phillies with their pitchers is proverbial. Manager Irwin is in disgrace, it is said, and Jack Boyle has been put in control of the team. His first move was the release of Weyhing. Irwin look after the business affairs of the club."

***

An Eastern exchange gives a few pointers on umpires. The man who gives the pointers never saw the Woodland umpires. Here is what he says. It is impossible for an umpire to watch all the plays in a game. The players take advantage of every chance to work a trick, while the umpire's attention is directed to another part of the field. They cut bases, interfere with an opponent and do a number of things forbidden by the rules. The umpire has all he can do to follow the ball. The double umpire system is a necessity. The only argument against it is the extra expense it entails. The league is prosperous and there is no need of economy in a matter so important. There would be less kicking by players and patrons under the double umpire system because the knights of the indicator would make fewer mistakes. A division of the work and its responsibilities would allow each man to give his whole attention to that part of the play allotted to him. The umpires are honest and decide a play as they see it. Neither side has a right to kick on a close decision. The one which gets it is lucky and the other fellows should be content to let it go at that."

THE UMPIRE.

THE RELIANCE CLUB.

Joseph Racine Chosen Manager of the Baseball Team.

Joseph Racine, the well-known football and baseball player, has been elected by the Reliance directors to manage the baseball club for the season. J. Cal Ewing resigned and so did George Campbell, because they could not give the time to baseball matters. Mr. Racine, the new manager, is well posted in the business and he is a hard worker.

Next Saturday the team will go to Palo Alto to play Stanford. Sunday they will play at Vallejo. A week from next Sunday the team will commence a series of games with the Olympic Club in San Francisco.

"After the contests with the Olympic Club, we will endeavor to get games in the interior towns and keep going all season," said Manager Racine this morning. "We consider that we have the strongest nine in the State just now. The game at Woodland was all right. The manager there treated us in a most courteous manner and we have nothing but the kindliest feelings toward him. We want to be on friendly terms with all these interior clubs."

Complaint is made at the Reliance that the members do not take enough interest in the baseball team. The members of the latter work hard for the club and they want their services recognized by attendance at the games.

The directors of the club will hold a meeting tonight to transact routine business.

WHEEL WHIRLS.

The Good Roads Association to Elect New Officers.

The Good Roads Association of Alameda county will hold a big meeting at the Reliance clubrooms tomorrow night. The annual election of officers will take place. John A. Britton is now the president of the organization and he may be re-elected. A. P. Swan of the Acme Club is the secretary and he is likely to be chosen again for the place.

There are a number of important matters to be discussed by the association, and in consequence, a large attendance is desired. Several important reports from committees will be received.

The wheelmen are discussing the ordinance providing for a tax of $2 a year on wheels. The majority of the riders are in favor of the ordinance providing the tax is made $1 a year. Major Fred Whitney in speaking about the matter said: "My opinion is that such a tax would not only be unconstitutional but impossible of collection. However, the wheelmen of this city have decided not to oppose a small tax. I was talking to Mr. Manuel, president of the Council, and framer of the ordinance now pending about the matter, and he expressed the opinion that a dollar tax would amount to so little in the aggregate that the wheelmen would not derive much benefit from it in the matter of improved streets. He thought that the present ordinance would be defeated."

C. D. Bates and J. H. Deckman of the Reliance Club have come to the front as racers. As a tandem team they are hard to beat.

The road to East Oakland by way of Twelfth street is in a dangerous condition. Wheelmen could make no better fight than to get it repaired. The Lighth street bridge is also in a bad condition and needs to be fixed.

AN ATHLETIC LEAGUE.

New Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year.

The Academic League held a meeting in the Young Men's Christian Association building a few days ago. All the delegates to the league were present and the following schools were represented, Oakland High school, Berkeley High school, San Francisco Boys' High school, Berkeley Gymnasium, Alameda University Academy. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. Blasingame, University of California; vice president, J. Merrin, Berkeley Gymnasium; treasurer, Mr. Hughes, Alameda University Academy; secretary, George Nichols, Oakland High school.

The following Board of Managers was elected for the ensuing term: Baxter, Alameda University Academy; Anderson, Oakland High school; Martin, Berkeley Gymnasium; Woolsey, Berkeley High school; Drum, San Francisco Boys' High school; Remmel, Alameda High school.

Next fall the league will hold a championship field day. A series of football games to decide the championship will also be held. The first meeting of the Board of Managers will be held on the second Friday in August.

The Amateur League has within its ranks some of the best athletes in the State. The boys propose to make a great showing in Athletic circles before the year is over.

AN ATHLETIC PARK.

Students and Professors Strongly Oppose the Project.

A proposition is being urged by some enterprising young men to establish an athletic park in the vicinity of the State University. There is no athletic park in Oakland or Berkeley where an admission fee can be charged. The only track available is the one on the University ground is used by the students. As this is an open one no admission fee can ever be charged. It is proposed to secure a tract of land near Berkeley and make a fine athletic park. An effort has been made to get the students interested in the scheme, but they do not warm up to it. In fact the majority of them openly oppose the project, as do the professors. They claim that already there is too much professionalism about college sports and it is time to call a halt.

ACME ATHLETES.

Directors Find It a Hard Matter to Make Matches.

The entertainment to be given by the Acme Club the latter part of this month is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest by the athletes. It is the intention of the directors to have several boxing bouts. This is not an easy task as some of the young brunsers are shy about appearing in public. They are perfectly willing to go into an exhibition contest, but they are not willing to fight for points.

An effort is being made to arrange a match between Britt of the Phoenix Club of San Francisco and Maynard of the Acme, at 105 pounds. Both are active young men and clever boxers. They would give a very interesting contest. If this match falls through an attempt will be made to bring Bert Brown of the Acme and Kennedy of the Phoenix together the men to weigh in at 130 pounds. This would prove to be a most interesting match, as both men are looked upon as hard fighters.

A match has been arranged between Charley Slamberg of the Acme and Nick Sullivan of the Olympic. The men come under the 138 pound limit. Slamberg has received a slight injury which may make a change in the programme. He is a favorite in the club and the boys say that if he goes into the contest he will be a sure winner.

The Acme Tramps took a run to the Fish Ranch last Sunday and had a fine time. There was a big spread and in the afternoon the athletes enjoyed themselves fishing.

TENNIS TOPICS.

The Lakeside Club Is Being Reorganized.

Sam Hardy and Walter Magee have been trying for some time to reorganize the Oakland Tennis Club. On account of the high rent demanded for the courts and the fact that not more than fifty members could be obtained they have been compelled to give up the project.

They have therefore turned their attention to reorganizing the old Lakeside Club. The Lakeside courts are situated on the corner of Alice and Durant streets. They are of clay and are probably as good as any of their kind on the coast. Before the advent of bituminous courts they were the resort of such players as Charlie Hubbard, Sam and Carr Neal (the latter of whom is now champion of the West), Charlie Bates, who formed with Sam Neal the famous "pony team"; Will English, Will Allen, Sam Breck, Alex Stewart, celebrated for his back line game, and others.

The club that is now being organized contains several of these veterans, besides many of the younger players who have won places in championship tournaments. Among these are Sam Hardy, champion of the coast; Sumner Hardy, who, with his brother, won the doubles championship of the coast, Walter Magee and George McChesney.

The membership, thus far, comprises twenty-eight names. It is expected that this number will soon be increased to about forty, as many others have signified their intention of joining. Sam Hardy has figured that with an entrance fee of $1 and $1 a month dues all expenses can be paid and a surplus kept constantly in the treasury. The same keeper that looked after the old Lakeside has been employed to repair the courts and keep them in shape.

It is expected that an open tournament will be held soon. It will probably be a class tournament with all the members participating. Prizes will be given to the winner of each class.

A special feature of the club is to be the semi-weekly provision of new balls. This on clay courts, insures good tennis.

RIGHT IN LINE.

Fine Progress Being Made by the Oakland Athletic Club.

The Oakland Athletic Club is keeping up with the other athletic clubs in this city. The managers of the club are organizing annexes so that all classes of sports will be represented in the club. A swimming annex has been organized and about forty young men have signed the roll. The boys have secured quarters at the Piedmont Baths and now have their regular swimming night. Among the members of this annex are Messrs. Hanson and Sherburne, who have a local reputation. Sherburne has agreed to give the boys lessons in swimming and Hanson will give them pointers in high diving. Thus far the swimming club has been a great success.

C. Spreht has resigned as sergeant-at-arms of the club and A. Ligda has been elected to fill the vacancy.

The bowling annex of the club is receiving new members every day. This is one of the most important features in the club. Nearly all the boys take an interest in bowling and most of them have their own wheels.

The directors of the club are preparing to give an exhibition at the clubrooms on Decoration Day. One of the local clubs will assist them in making up the programme. After the entertainment there will be a banquet.

CALIFORNIA'S ATHLETES.

The University Men Are Making a Good Showing.

The success of the State University athletes in the Princeton games has brought them to the front as athletic circles in the East. The team is now attracting much attention wherever it goes.

On May 18th the boys will tackle the University of Pennsylvania team. This will be an exceedingly interesting contest as Pennsylvania has agreed to enter only eleven men.

The great event of the trip will be the Mott Haven games in New York on May 25th. In these games the local boys will meet all the crack athletes of the Eastern colleges. They are considered the great championship games of the year.

The Western collegiate games will be held in Chicago on June 1st. The California boys will be on hand to make a showing.

On June 8th the Michigan team wants to try conclusions with the Berkeley boys at Ann Arbor. The details of this meeting have not yet been arranged.

On June 10th the California boys will contest either with the University of Wisconsin at Madison or the University of Illinois at Champlain. Illinois won the Middle West championship in 1894, while Wisconsin has the strongest team in 1895.

The Berkeley boys expect to meet the Chicago Athletic Club June 15th. This date may be changed to June 12th, however, if the visitors so desire.

The field day at Denver will be held June 22d. California will be opposed by a team picked from the Denver Athletic Club and the Colorado University. This is the last contest on the list. When these games are over the athletes will start for home.

Everybody Can Enjoy "Romeo and Juliet."

A Big House Already Secured for Friday.

The Call of the Kindergartens Brings a Ready Reply.

For charity and the children. That is the motto that has been unfolded for the great production of the now famous travesty of Romeo and Juliet at the Macdonough Theater next Friday night. Society has again come to the front in aid of one of the greatest public institutions of this city. The appeal of the kindergarten associations for assistance in carrying on their great work among the little ones has been heard and another outpouring of fashion will be the result.

There have been many deserving calls upon Oakland's generous hearts, but never could a more worthy cause be espoused than that which has been undertaken in the present instance. For several years there has been maintained in Oakland, a system of kindergartens, under the supervision and control of a number of ladies, whose love for the work has developed a glorious institution. Hundreds of the very young children of this city have been fostered under the charming influences and gentle methods of training employed in the kindergarten schools, and many a home where little but the bitter things of life enter, has been brightened and made happier by the little ones who have been blessed with the delights of attendance at these schools.

Froebel, the father of kindergartens, has been accounted one of the benefactors of the human race. The wonderful system of training young children, which he developed, has been the admiration of the world. Outside of its home, Germany, it has probably been brought to a greater degree of perfection in the United States than in any other nation on the globe. As it grew and spread throughout the land, it was natural that Oakland, a center for scholastic and educational affairs, should have become one of the galaxy to establish and maintain the kindergarten system. Today, this city ranks as one of the few in the country which has a kindergarten in connection with the public school system.

The kindergartens are principally the outgrowth of private individual effort. They have been established in such quarters of the city where the population is most dense, and where there is need for care and effort in handling the children of the poor. The system comprehends the theory of first impressions to a beautiful end. The training tends to the awakening of the young mind in a direction that is toward all that can give a bright and cheerful contrast to the ugliness of the scenes that too often surround the young in large cities.

It is this work that is being done to a great extent by the kindergartens, boys and girls' clubs of this city, which are to be the beneficiaries of Friday night's performance. The ladies and gentlemen who are devoting their time and attention to the work, feel impelled to go before the public with their appeal in order to better conduct their labors and if possible to show the necessity, for a right royal response.

The gentlemen who have given their talents and labors in the production of the travesty of Romeo and Juliet have gladly laid aside other considerations to again devote their services to a noble cause. There is not one who has witnessed the production, but has given it unstinted praise. Once more the opportunity will be presented to witness this very clever affair, and in the cause of a great public benefaction. It is believed that there will be just as generous a response to this as there was to the benefit entertainment given not long since. The attraction from an artistic standpoint will be superior to anything given before by the company, as three performances before the public have been given in Oakland and San Francisco, and all the rough edges have been completely worn off. With the exception of one change the cast will be as originally presented. The change referred to is only a shifting of parts in the third act, when Donald Y. Campbell will play the "Apothecary" in place of Charles Dickman, who for that act only will be the "Nurse."

The genial Sam Taylor will again evoke roars of laughter in his conception of an up to date Juliet.

W. B. Hopkins' magnificent baritone will be heard again in that superb rendition of "The Holy City" that was one of the features of the original production several weeks ago.

Donald Campbell, as the "Nurse," will not be forgotten, and he promises to give the best he has for the coming performance.

Then there are Burbank Somers, Dr. H. P. Carlton and Paul Miller and the splendid chorus that was so much enjoyed.

Alex. Rosboro h has also been secured for the cast. He will appear as "Peter," and although it is a small part he will make it a big one.

Everything promises for a big performance and a swell house on Friday night. The ladies are working hard. They have devoted all their efforts to the success of the entertainment and it goes without saying that such charming applicants for assistance as Mrs. A. J. Ralston, Mrs. J. C. Ainsworth, Mrs. George Wheaton, Mrs. George W. McNear Sr., Mrs. John Yule, Mrs. Josiah Stanford, Mrs. H. K. Belden, Mrs. Robert Watt, Mrs. W. G. Henshaw, Mrs. Shanklin, Mrs. Whitney, Miss Alice K. Wellman, Miss Ethel Moore, Miss Alice Flint should meet with all the encouragement their labors deserve. With these ladies are associated a number of the gentlemen who took a very active part in the Fabiola fete. Some of those who have again enlisted in charity's cause are P. E. Bowles, R. M. Fitzgerald, E. B. Pomroy, S. B. McKee and George P. Morrow. Donald Y. Campbell, who is the head and front of the travesty, will lend all the assistance within his power to the preliminaries.

Tickets are on sale at Bowman's, Taft & Pennoyer's and other prominent stores. They may also be had from any of the ladies of the committee.

SAVES THE EYES. SAVES THE GAS

THE

MOREY

INCANDESCENT GAS BURNER

It Has Revolutionized Gas Lighting!

Only Sixty Days on the Market and yet the Sale is Enormous.

No parts burn out. The mantels, screens, prisms, used in other burners, are not used in the Morey Burner at all; therefore no parts to repair. The Cheapest Burner used, giving the greatest amount of light for the smallest amount of gas consumed.

The secret of its scintillating brilliancy is perfect combustion, not one iota going to waste—every atom of gas being consumed.

No ghastly, greenish white light, but a natural, mellow, golden sunlight, soothing to the eyes and radiant with power.

The Morey Gas Burner is the best results of long years of study, discovery and invention; and is based solely upon scientific principles. THE HIGHEST POWER OF GAS LIES IN THE BURNER EMPLOYED. The secret of the Morey Burner is the combustion secured.

You may ask why does the Morey Burner give so much more light for the same amount of gas consumed. Our answer is this, gas when burning through an ordinary gas jet, mixes quickly with the air and passes off, not giving time for the light to take up from the air all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore it passes off and is wasted. But in the Morey Burner it passes through a perforated circle of 76 small needle-pointed perforations, and the current of air passing on all sides of the blaze supplies sufficient air for the light to take up all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore no WASTE OF GAS, NO BLUE BLASE; all turned to light.

See what prominent business men and people you know say of it:

TESTIMONIALS.

SAN FRANCISCO, April, 1895.

Morey Incadescent Gas Co., City—

GENTLEMEN: We are more than pleased with the lamp we recently purchased from you, and instead of using three burners, which we formerly were compelled to do in our private office, we now get a better light from the one which you put in.

As soon as we fix up our offices will use them altogether in each of the departments.

Please have one of your representatives call on us about the 15th of May.

Yours truly,
S. P. TAYLOR CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20, 1895.

TAX TITLES.

Delinquent Property to Be in Safe Hands.

A Temporary Tie-Up in City Cash Will Be Created.

The last Legislature passed a bill, which was approved by the Governor, that knocks out the tax title sharks completely. It provides that the city and county shall purchase all real estate and improved property at the delinquent tax sales, and after five years, unless redeemed, the property shall revert to the State.

The new law will work some injury temporarily to Oakland, as it will tie up about $6000 in delinquent taxes, which the city will be forced to purchase on the 15th of July when the delinquent tax sale is held.

All property upon which the delinquent taxes are not paid before that date will be bid in by the city.

After the sale to the city the property may be redeemed within five years by the payment of certain fixed amounts added as to time of paymont.

If redeemed within six months, 10 per cent of the tax is added; one year, 20 per cent; two years, 40 per cent; four years, 80 per cent, five years, 100 per cent.

The property then goes to the State. If not sold thereafter, it may be redeemed by the payment of all the taxes due and interest at the rate of 7 per cent from the time of delinquency.

The operation of the law is rather unfortunate for Oakland at the present time, as it will result in preventing about $6000 from reaching the city treasury on the 1st of July, as was anticipated in the estimates.

The law operates against the School Department in a hurtful way as to current needs. The amount usually derived from the school apportionment delinquent taxes is $7000 from city, county and State funds. Under the new law this money will not be available for any specified time, as delinquent property owners will have up to five years at least to redeem. Until the delinquent redemption is made, no money can be secured by the School Department from that source. Heretofore the purchase of property at delinquent tax sale has been made at one time, and the coin has been immediately forthcoming from the speculating purchasers.

He deems it important to have the officers well clad and with cleanly uniforms and he has inaugurated this method of reaching the desired results

Ysaye in Bohemia

Many hundred ladies and gentlemen thronged the rooms of the Bohemian Club last evening intent on honoring the famous Belgian violinist, as a primary proposition, but a so much elated were they in anticipation of hearing him play in the free atmosphere of club life Henry Heyman, as master of ceremonies, introduced number after number, and those who waited the climax of the entertainment which should save them good gold pieces for theater seats—well, they waited and are still waiting, perchance. For, the Baldwin management quietly forbade him to gratify these club guests at the expense of the theater treasury, and although Ysaye was ready and willing to oblige, business is business at Wherefore there is much unrest in Bohemia. Ysaye made them a neat speech, and nothing more.

There was a goodly line in waiting at the Macdonough box office at 2 o'clock this afternoon and the managers' hearts are glad, for they believe that the great expense is assured, and they hope for good returns in the margin

TAKING TIPS.

State Board of Equalization Work Started.

County Assessor Dalton's Rolls Are Viewed.

The members of the State Board of Equalization are hard at work today securing figures to compare with the assessment now being prepared by County Assessor Dalton

The entire board was at work in the County Clerk's office on the appraisements that have been made on various estates in the county This seems to be a fair method of getting at a just value of property When these figures are secured the members of the State Board will then view the property and pass judgment on the values.

The State Board of Equalization has no authority to raise or lower individual assessments in any county. They can secure figures however, of various properties and thereby secure an index to the work of the Assessor These figures will be of value to them when the question is raised as whether the assessment of Alameda should be raised, lowered or let alone The State Board has the authority to either raise or lower the assessment of a county as a whole

L C Morehouse, a member of the State Board, in speaking about the work being done said "We are doing in this county just what we do in every county in the state. We are comparing evidence of value, such as sales, appraisements of estate and the like, with the assessed value of the identical property

"We are not investigating any particular kind of property, but property generally. The entire board, including the controller, is now engaged in the work We are getting up our figures in a systematic manner and when we have completed that part of the work we will view the property and pass judgment on the value. We are going through every county in the State in the same way We have not taken up Mr Dalton's assessment or gone through his figures We have his assessment to deal with when it comes before the State Board"

Water Companies Compared.

The Contra Costa's Breakdown.

It Is Making Pitiful Pleas for Patronage.

Brought to Its Knees It Shows the White Feather.

Editor Tribune—SIR: I have been a patron of the Contra Costa Water Company twenty years, chafing constantly by reason of the necessity.

When the Oakland Water Company became a competitor of the corporation that had so long exercised the arrogant privileges of a tyrannical monopoly, I hastened to give in my support to the new enterprise.

I am only a small property holder, but I have paid the Contra Costa Company at least a thousand dollars more than a fair price for the water supplied to my premises.

The new company offered me a better service at a less rate and I was glad to accept the proposition. I would have paid the monopoly rate rather than miss the opportunity of teaching my ancient master a lesson in personal independence.

"OAKLAND, April 21, 1895.

"Dear Sir: We will supply water for the three houses owned by you at a rate of 80 cents per house, or $2 40 a month for the three houses.

"Hoping that you will consider this a fair and reasonable proposition, we await an early reply.

C. C. WATER CO.

I have not yet answered this remarkable epistle, but I propose to do so now in the form of an open letter to the Contra Costa Water Company, which I offer for publication in the columns of THE TRIBUNE in the hope that it may have the effect of strengthening the backbone of some of my neighbors who seem inclined to favor the corporation at the present juncture simply because the old company is offering a very bad water at a very low price.

You are at liberty to use my name and address if you see fit or if any question should arise touching the authenticity of my relations with the old company during the period when I was forced to submit to its exactions, extortion and insolence.

Yours truly, M. R. K.

Oakland, May 14th.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Managers of the Contra Costa Water Company—GENTLEMEN: I am grateful to you for this opportunity of informing you why I have ceased to patronize your corporation.

I feel that I am voicing the sentiments of thousands of citizens of Oakland and that I am therefore performing a public duty when I give my personal reasons for refusing to continue my support.

In the first place I have never wanted your water.

The fact that you owned a monopoly in this necessity compelled my patronage; I could not escape the evil which that monopoly inflicted and I was forced to submit with as good grace as possible.

One reason why I objected to your water supply was its unwholesome quality.

I believe you have never denied the fact that the water you furnish is unfit for human consumption; that it is impregnated with the filthy drainage of a watershed occupied by human habitations, surrounded by cow pastures, outhouses and hog wallows reeking with animal refuse and the garbage of the various streams sewering into the streams tributary to your reservoirs.

If you have ever denied the unwholesome condition of your water supply I have failed to be informed of the fact, and your occasional pretense of "improvement" by means of so-called "filtering" apparatus is sufficient proof that you know the unhealthy condition of the water supplied from your reservoirs.

That is one reason why I refuse to patronize your company when I have an opportunity to get my water supply elsewhere.

A PETTY BRIBE.

The Oakland Water Company is furnishing water absolutely pure, fresh and sweet, as it gushes from the bowels of the earth where it cannot by any possibility become contaminated with the filth and poison that has long rendered your water the most undesirable for drinking, from a sanitary standpoint in the world.

But I have other reasons for discontinuing my patronage of your company.

When you had the opportunity to do so you charged me "all the traffic would bear."

I do not know that I can blame you for exercising your monopoly privilege to the fullest extent, while that privilege existed.

By the same reasoning you cannot blame me for thus rebuking your extortion when "the shoe is on the other foot."

You seem to imagine that you can bribe me into compliance with your purposes. You offer me "a lower rate"—a rate, by the way, $2 20 less than that charged when you had the "whip handle" of this community.

I hope, however, that even you may not hereafter so misjudge me as to think that I could forget my manhood to the extent of kissing the hand that has so mercilessly chastised me in the past.

You have dealt me many vigorous blows upon one cheek, but I refuse to present the other for castigation. You have taken my coat, but you cannot have my cloak.

During twenty years I paid you at least 50 per cent more than I ought to have paid for a very bad quality of water. I paid you a higher price than was paid by the citizen of any other civilized community in the world. The records will prove that assertion.

A MISERABLE RESOLUTE.

And now that you are confronted by an opposition that seriously threaten your financial integrity you seek to destroy your rival by underselling him at a rate which must entail upon you considerable loss in every instance.

It is indeed a pitiful resort.

You cannot compete with the new company in the quality of the water furnished and you attempt to hold your patronage by virtually giving your water away, hoping that you may be able to stand the pressure longer than "the other fellow."

Do you imagine that the people of Oakland are ignorant of your purpose?

Do you think we are so blind that we do not understand your motives?

And do you, for one moment, believe that you have adopted a winning policy?

As for myself, I would pay the new company your old monopoly rate before I would receive your water for nothing.

I am actuated in this by principle.

I am an American citizen and claim the right to assert my personal independence whenever occasion may require.

I regard this as one of the occasions when American manhood should rise superior to the petty consideration of such a bribe as you offer; to rebuke the arrogance and extortion of such a monopoly as you once inflicted upon this community; and I consider it the civic duty of every honest, self-respecting citizen of Oakland to sustain the competitor that has come to oppose you.

A CONTRAST.

The Oakland Water Company is a public benefactor.

If it had not been for the enterprise and business spirit of these gentlemen Oakland would still be subject to the extortion and insolence of your monopoly.

It is not just, it is not honest, that we should compel this enterprise to meet you on the basis of the rates that you now offer.

We should be glad to sustain the new company in its opposition to a corporation that has so long sucked sustenance from the pockets of rich and poor alike—charging the day laborer and the workingman struggling to secure a little home for his family in the same proportion as it levied on the millionaire.

We should understand that your present attitude is merely a game at which you would compel your competitor to play, which, if successful, would result in a return to the old monopoly, with all its attendant evils of extortionate rates, filthy water and personal insolence.

I am of the opinion, however, that you reckon without your host.

I do not believe that the people of Oakland will accept your bribe of a profitless rate.

I do not think that my fellow citizens will ask the company that has freed us from the Contra Costa monopoly to injure itself in competition with a concern that has shown as little regard for decency or the rights of the people as yours has done.

FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD.

These are some of the reasons that have moved me to withdraw my patronage from the Contra Costa Water Company.

The Contra Costa Water Company is not.

The Oakland Water Company is an enterprise that has added to the wealth of the city.

The Contra Costa Water Company has always pursued a policy of selfish aggrandizement, demanding the fattest dividends for the poorest service and the worst water in the world.

The Oakland Water Company has proved itself a public benefactor.

The Contra Costa Water Company has never contributed to the general welfare of the community.

Under the circumstances, therefore, I consider it my duty, and the duty of my fellow citizens, to cease our patronage of the Contra Costa Water Company and to give our full support and assistance to the Oakland Water Company—an enterprise that is accomplishing more for the best interests of the city than any other business effort since the community was founded.

HORNPIPE.

An Outsider Is the Winner.

He Was Posted at 20 to 1.

Dr. Rice and Ramapo Not in It.

Lazarone Was Second and Sir Walter Third.

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 15.—The weather for the day of the great Brooklyn handicap was anything but satisfactory this morning, as the sky was overcast with rain threatening every minute and the track wet and soggy.

The horses had little work during the last three days, and no chances of slipping in the mud was taken.

Dr. Rice and Ramapo have the most followers, but Roy el Santa Anita is favored by many.

In spite of the fact that Ramapo has not started this year, he is looked upon as the most dangerous horse in the lot, because his trainer, John Hyland, was never known to send an unfit horse to the post.

His only drawback is the fact that Jockey Griffin will carry a great deal of lead to make weight and will need all his strength to hold the great horse. At the same time he is undoubtedly the best of light-weight jockeys.

Dr. Rice, who won the race last year, will have the services of the best of all jockeys, Taral.

Roy El Santa Anita will be ridden by Bergen.

Sir Walter is not in favor. He was not taken to the track until just before the race, in order that he might not get out of condition owing to his refusal to eat after being sent to the new track.

Doggett will ride him.

Rubicon is well thought of. He showed a great turn of speed last year, but not over a handicap distance. Midgeley is his jockey.

Bassetlaw should be well managed by Littlefield. Although he is not the horse he was two years ago, he may make them all run, if he does not carry off the rich prize.

Declare likes the mud and so does Ed. Kearney.

Counter Tenor is the only 3-year-old among the likely starters. A 3-year-old has never won the handicap and no one looks to see the precedent reversed this year, although Campbell is fond of a surprise and may reverse the Diablo coup.

THE STARTERS.

The starters will probably be as follows:

Horse.	Weight.	Jockey
Ramapo	127	Griffin
Sir Walter	124	Doggett
Dr Rice	122	Taral
Roy el Santa Anita	118	Bergen
Rubicon	118	Midgley
Lazarone	113	Murphy
Bassetlaw	109	Littlefield
Declare	106	J Lamley
Hornpipe	105	Hamilton
Counter Tenor	100	Lamley
Ed Kearney	97	Penny
Assignee	95	Keefe

PRELIMINARY RUNS.

The handicap horses were out for gentle gallops before noon, but none were more than cantered.

Ed Kearney's owner disclosed that the horse had a chance of his life on the track and would keep them all guessing from start to finish.

A strong wind and occasional sunshine helped to put the track in condition, so it was thought the course will be moderately fast by the time the racing begins.

It was about noon when the spectators began to arrive.

In former years the track has been lined with bookmakers and employes, while a tout was in evidence everywhere. This year touts were hanging around outside the gates with no means of getting in.

THE FAVORITES.

The choice was generally settled down upon Dr. Rice and Ramapo. The going suits both horses, and as Taral and Griffin are the best jockeys in their class a fine race is expected.

Sir Walter rules third choice, with Roy El Santa Anita fourth.

It is conceded on all sides that the race is the most open since the establishment of the handicap, and that under the conditions any of the lot might win.

The attendance was but moderate at 1 o'clock, although the weather is greatly improved.

THE BETTING.

The average of quotations in the books is as follows: Dr. Rice, 2½ to 1 and 4 to 5; Ramapo, 2½ to 1 and even; Roy El Santa Anita, 5 to 1 and 7 to 5, Sir Walter, 8 to 1 and 5 to 2, Rubicon, 10 to 1 and 3 to 1, Lazaron, 20 to 1 and 7 to 1, Bassetlaw, 20 to 1 and 8 to 1; Declare, 25 to 1 and 10 to 1; Hornpipe, 20 to 1 and 8 to 1; Assignee, 40 to 1 and 12 to 1; Counter Tenor, 30 to 1 and 12 to 1, Ed. Kearney, 15 to 1 and 4 to 1.

THE RESULTS

First race, Sweepstakes for all ages, six furlongs—Domino won, Wernberg, second, Patrician, third. Time, 1 17.

Second race, mile—Owlet won; Kennelt, second, Hermanita, third. Time, 1.17.

THE BIG EVENT.

It was 4 30 when the horses went to the post for the great handicap.

At that time more than 20,000 people were there to watch.

The sun was shining brightly and the air was warm and pleasant.

The track had dried out considerably, but was a little heavy.

Hornpipe wins.

Lazarone, second.

Sir Walter, third.

Hornpipe won by one length; Lazarone, second, half a length; Sir Walter, third.

CHICAGO, May 15.—Mrs. William J. McGowan, formerly Vera Ava, alias Ann O'Delia, Miss De Bar, who a few years ago created a sensation in the East, has been arrested on a warrant sworn out by Miss Phoebe Love of this city on charges of making threats to kill and larceny as bailee.

Miss Love says she came to Chicago last year from Detroit, Wis., and intended to take a course of music lessons.

She, with her father, took rooms on West Harrison street, and soon after met Mrs. McGowan. The latter was introduced as Miss Ava and won her confidence.

Continuing, Miss Love says she was continually bewailing her fate and said that she was being persecuted.

Two months ago Miss Love removed to a house on Park Row, where she claims Vera assumed control and refused to admit her, after Miss Love had been away for two weeks.

So warrants were sworn out, Miss Love averring that Mrs. McGowan had threatened to kill her if she attempted to force her way into the house.

At the station Mrs. McGowan declared she had been married to a man worth $60,000.

She said Miss Love had been her husband's housekeeper and had been retained after the marriage.

Mrs. McGowan also said Miss Love has a husband in the penitentiary and she threatened to make it warm for those who were persecuting her.

Miss Love denies all this and says she has never been married.

A BIG RAISE.

Assessor Dalton's Figures on the Railroad.

He Has Tackled Everything in West Oakland.

Forty Miles of Sidings Are Now Placed on the List.

County Assessor Dalton this morning completed his figures on the railroad assessment at West Oakland. These figures were placed on the books and will now be put to the test.

The personal property in the West Oakland yards, including machinery and the like, has been assessed at $200,000. Last year the property was assessed at $68,650, the same as it had been for many years. Mr. Dalton's figures gives the company a raise of $131 350.

The real estate which includes the West Oakland yards has been assessed at $277,300. Last year the property was assessed at $92,400. The raise on this property amounts $184 900.

The improvements on the property last year were assessed at $12,000. This year Mr. Dalton has placed the figures at $16 000.

One of the most important assessments that went on record today was that of forty miles of sidings in the West Oakland yards. Mr. Dalton claims that these tracks are no part of the main line and in consequence it is within his province to make the assessment. The value of these tracks is placed at $60 000. This property has never before been assessed by a County Assessor in the history of the county. Heretofore it has been taken for granted that the sidings were a part of the main line system and were supposed to be assessed by the State Board of Equalization. Mr. Dalton says that he will stand by the figures that he has made and will be ready to battle for the correctness of the assessment.

"I believe that I have been fair in making these figures," said Mr. Dalton. "I have now completed the West Oakland yards and have gone to the mole and the ferry boats. The assessment of the latter is not an easy thing to make and I have have put some experts to work to complete the figures. In about a week or ten days I will have the assessment of railroad property in this city about completed."

Extraordinary Scene in Judge Murphy's Court.

Fredericks roared, kicked and bit everyone who approached, bumping his head against the table and chairs until he was covered with blood.

His attorney was not present, and Judge Murphy ordered attorney Colwell to be cited for contempt, postponing sentence until Friday, as nothing could be obtained from Fredericks.

The scene was extraordinary.

During the absence of Judge Murphy from the courtroom Fredericks subsided, but broke out again when the judge reappeared.

MANY CLAIMS.

The United States Land Court in Session.

Reavis' Big Suit Is to Be Disposed Of.

Huge Frauds Regarding It Are Now Being Talked Of.

SANTA FE, N. M., May 15.—The United States Court of Private Land Claims has convened here for a sixty days' trial.

Chief Justice J. R. Reed of Iowa presides and a full bench is present.

A very large docket has been arranged, and among the cases is the famous Peralta grant in Arizona and Southwest New Mexico, which will come to trial in June.

This claim has been hanging over the best part of Arizona for thirty-five years. It has delayed settlement and development because of clouded title.

United States Attorney M. G. Reynolds says he is prepared not only to defeat the right of the present claimants to the allege grant, but to go even further and challenge the existence of such grant to the alleged Baron Peralta.

In other words, the Government investigation just concluded by Mr. Reynolds, discloses that the claim to the property, valued at $75,000,000 and growing in value rapidly, rests upon nothing but a stupendous foundation of fraud.

Mr. Reynolds believes that the Government will be able to do more than this, as he has collected the evidence which will show the parties responsible for the manufacture of the bogus title, and of the false testimony and records.

WILL BE OPENED.

Mayor Davie Approves the Seventeenth Street Ordinance.

Mayor Davie today signed the ordinance providing for the opening of Seventeenth street to the bay shore line, as passed by the Council at its last meeting. The Board of Public Works will act as commissioners in the matter of assessing benefits and damages to accrue from the opening of the thoroughfare. This is the first street to be opened through to the bay on the western side of the city. The proposed opening was opposed by the railroad company on the ground that there was no public demand for the work and that it would interfere with the handling of freight at Sixteenth street station.

LOVE-SICK.

Miss Clara Mahle to Go to an Asylum.

Her Reason Fled Because She Was Jilted.

Miss Clara D. Mahle, 24 years of age, was committed to the Napa Insane Asylum by Judge Greene this morning at the request of her brother, N. F. Mahle of Marysville. The case was rather a pathetic one and the relatives of the girl disliked to tell the facts.

Miss Mahle was jilted by a young minister at Stockton about five years ago and she never recovered from the disappointment. She was engaged to be married and had gone so far as to make arrangements for her wedding. The young lady never recovered from the disappointment, when her lover jilted her. Her relatives sent her East, and she traveled for nearly a year. It was hoped that the change of scene and the new surroundings would cause her to forget the past. The trip did her little good however, and when she returned to Marysville it was noticed that she was even worse. Miss Mahle was infatuated with the fellow who wrecked her life and she could not forget him. Under the continual worry her mind commenced to give away and it was deemed best to send her to Fabiola Hospital where she could have proper treatment. The girl has been at the institution several weeks, but she has been steadily growing worse. During the past few days she has become violent and it was found necessary to have her examined for insanity. Her brother was sent for and when he saw the condition of his sister, he concluded that the asylum was the best place for her. Miss Mahle continually calls for the man who jilted her, and she cannot be pacified.

This afternoon she will be taken to Napa. The relatives of the girl will not give out the name of the minister who caused her to go insane.

A TEST CASE.

The Home Insurance Company Wins a Point.

Judge Greene decided a test case this afternoon which is of importance to insurance companies. The Home Insurance Company sued Cleveland & Hopkins to recover a small premium. The defendants took out a policy and then surrendered it. In this policy there was a printed clause that either side could cancel it. There was also a rubber stamp clause which says that on condition of the reduced rate the assured agrees not to surrender. Judge Greene decided that the rubber stamp clause has the preference and the plaintiff won the case. Fred Sutton was attorney for the plaintiff and Sam Bell McKee represented the defendants.

Kauffman, death watch $35, Dr. C. R. Brigham, $1600; Dr. H. E. Muller, $50; Dr. G. C. Beck, $50, Dr. Huntington $50, Dr. W. V. Taylor, $50; George E. De Golia $275.

The managers of the Consolidated Piedmont Cable Company have filed a statement with the County Assessor. They place a value on the road of $80 000. FOUND GUILTY.

The Salvationists Lose in the Police Court.

Judge Wood Decides They Must Get Permits.

The Case Will Now be Submitted to the Superior Bench.

Judge Wood this morning convicted W. S. Sherwood of obstructing the streets. Sherwood's case was used as a test in the matter of the arrest of the Salvation Army several weeks ago for violating an ordinance which prohibits street preaching without a permit from the Mayor. The case was tried and submitted without any defense. Police Officer Stokes was the only witness, and he simply related the fact of the meeting at Tenth and Broadway and the failure of the officers of the army to produce their permits.

The case in point covered the entire sixteen members of the army who were arrested at the time. Judge Wood in his decision, held that the ordinance was valid upon its face and he had no other course to pursue than to find the army guilty.

There was no attempt this morning to argue the case as that was done several days ago by Judge L. M. Gibson, who demurred to the complaint as based upon an unconstitutional ordinance.

The next move that will be made has not quite yet been decided upon. The case will be very speedily taken to the Superior Court, as soon as sentence is passed upon Sherwood. It is probable that the matter will be taken up on an application for a writ of habeas corpus, when the argument can be made as to the validity of the ordinance.

The army will not rest until the question is finally determined, even if they have to go to the Supreme Court. The point involved by the ordinance is whether the Council can restrict the holding of public meetings in the manner they have. The ordinance is not prohibitive. It only restricts the use of the streets within the fire limits, unless the consent of the Mayor be obtained.

Commencement Day at Berkeley.

President Kellogg Reviews the Work of the Year.

The twenty-sixth commencement of the University of California took place this afternoon in Harmon Gymnasium, Berkeley, and was very largely attended. The gallery was decorated with pepper branches and festoons of geranium and the walls were hung with palm leaves.

The stage was occupied by President Kellogg, several members of the faculty and the Board of Regents.

The exercises opened with an overture by the orchestra after which Rev. Dr. J. K. McLean offered prayer.

The first essayist was Fred Hanley Scares, who spoke on "The Value of Liberal Science."

Within the years of the present century that have already passed, he said, "the life of the human race has assumed more and more complex forms. The different branches of the race have been brought into closer union. A new interdependence has sprung up between them. The life of the individual and the nation has assumed new duties and greater responsibilities. It has been an age of transition from idealism to materialism, and out of this materialism has come the demand for something which would so fit and equip the man that he may, with the least expenditure of energy, best fulfill these new duties and acquit himself of these new responsibilities. This demand has been so great that the ideal methods of thought and life have been largely lost sight of. The transition has been from the one extreme to the other, and men seem to have forgotten, or never to have recognized that between the two extremes there lies a happy mean.

Nearly every branch of knowledge has its two sides, one the practical, which has a direct application to the conditions and relations of life, the other, the non-practical or non-utilitarian which has no immediate effect on such a life. Of science this is preeminently true, and in this test, the one side we call technical or applied science, the other, abstract or pure liberal science. It is of this latter that I wish to speak."

Mr. Scares then considered in the first class Herbert La Place, Newton, Cavendish, Lavoisier. Of this number of men, he said, he thought that not one ever produced a single invention or made a single application of his science which had had any effect bearing on the practical affairs of life. Wherein then lie the value of the work done by these men?

The answer, he said, is simply this: "Pure science is the fore-runner of applied science, and without pure science, the applied sciences could never have existed. Applied science is pure science adapted to particular classes of problems. It consists of deductions for general principles established by observation comparison and classification, reasoning and generalization."

Mr. Scares considered the difference between the methods of the investigator and the technician and thus brought out the effect of the pursuit of the pure sciences upon the powers of observation, memory, abstraction, generalization and reason.

He then said: "It opens the mind, corrects it, refines it and enables it to know and to use its knowledge and, in a word, leads to culture that end and aim of a liberal education. The great need of modern culture is to find some effectual agency for cherishing within us an ideal. Mr. Morley tells us this is the foundation of literature, for you follow to a last analysis the mental processes involved in a pursuit of the pure sciences, you will find that it leads directly to those influences which not only cherish but actually develop the idea."

Mr. Sears called attention to the condition of science at the present time. He said that a great number of the men of the last century who worked in science were investigators. Since then the workers have been appliers who have been using the result of the labors of these investigators.

The work of the practical scientific men is of the utmost importance, and should receive all the encouragement possible. Encouragement has been given to these workers but, at the same time, the investigator had been neglected. "In doing this," he said, "we are neglecting that which has been one of the most important factors in producing the civilization of the present."

"This" he continued "is but the tendency of the modern scientific education. The demand is for that which is practical. There has been too much differentiation without proper consideration of the mutual bearings of the different branches of science, too much specialization I say, for it must be remembered that the mere specialist, even though he works in the lines of pure science, is just as narrow as the man who knows nothing of sciences but its applications. And lastly, there is lack of sufficient opportunity for those who have the ability to carry on original research. The man who enters upon such work has less to expect in remuneration and more to contend with than he would in almost any of the other lines of human occupation. Yet, only too often is he left to himself to get on as best he may, and, as a consequence, he accepts a position in a professor's chair, where most of his time must be devoted to lectures and classes while his labors of investigation, if not made entirely impossible becomes at least a secondary matter. Herein seems to be a weak point in the organization of our present system of scientific work. It is along these lines that we must guard ourselves if we would put our universities upon a plane where they shall command the respect of the world."

There was then another overture, after which William Henry Gorrill discoursed on "Is the Method of Jurisprudence Exclusively Scientific?"

"There is a general tendency toward interest in science" said Mr Gorrill. "This has an important influence on law and jurisprudence.

"We find the professors of jurisprudence in England regarding the study as a science alone and they have no place for philosophy.

"This constitutes a serious danger for law and legislation.

"The danger lies in three facts:

"First—The devotion of the English people to their Common Law system.

"Second—The distorted conception of jurisprudence on the part of the professors already noted.

"Third—The general tendency of the public mind toward the interests of science—toward whatever is, rather than toward whatever ought to be.

"From a priori considerations alone we may be sure that real danger threatens us.

"We are merging the ideal in the real, and while this is right, it done on the plane of the ideal it is wrong and false and dangerous if done on the plane of the real."

Walter Huddleston Graves then read a poem entitled, "Misanthropos."

MISS FELTON'S ESSAY.

Then came more music, after that Miss Katherine Conway Felton the Oakland girl who won the gold medal discoursed on "Faith in Moral Consciousness."

"History presents two distinct civilizations," she said, "the Occidental, based upon the conception of the dignity, the freedom, the reality of man the Oriental, upon his utter nothingness. Life is made up of unsatisfied desires, of unrealized hopes, and hence is in its essence, pain. The wise man realizes this, ceases to desire and so ceases to live. The history of the Orient is the record of stagnation, that of the Occident the record of individual activity and progress.

"So inherent, in the Western mind, is the belief in its freedom, that even at a time when it still retained theoretical conceptions derived from the Orient it could not carry them out in its actual life. In Homer, above the gods themselves, rules an unconscious, all-powerful fate, indifferent to the moral needs of man and destroying the good and bad alike. Yet, when Homer wishes to portray his hero, he cannot conceive him as a mere slave of destiny and so Fate is made the decree simply that the death of Achilles shall follow that of Hector, leaving the former to choose between life and its pleasures and horror and death. The grandeur and pathos of the story lie wholly in that intense moral struggle and final victory of duty. The same thing is illustrated in the Odipus."

During the last century the discoverers of science have forced the Western mind to discard many of its old ideas. The reign of law has been discovered in one department of nature after another, and the possibility of arbitrary change has been farther and further removed. Finally, science has demanded for its principles a universal application and has sought to bring under them man himself, making him the highest product of evolution, to subject him to the laws of nature and thus to leave no room for freedom. This attempt to reduce man to a product of evolution has forced upon the scientist the task of explaining the complicated nature of man as a gradual development, the result of adaptation to environment. This has brought about the theory that the World is becoming peopled only by a race who are by nature social with whom perfect egotism tends to be perfect altruism. That conduct is moral which fits a man for his environment, and obligation is simply inserted feeling in favor of such conduct. The law of cause and effect rules the physic world as absolutely as it does the physical.

Applying this theory to the individual, in his present and past relations and to the State, Miss Felton found it unsatisfactory. She deduced the following. "Thus in the light of this interpretation of science the scientific and moral consciousness seem to be antagonistic. And yet they are both claims of one and the same reason in its search for the rational. Unless man's nature is intrinsically at war with itself, some reconciliation must be possible, and yet the reconciliation cannot consist in the subordination of the moral nature, for this as we have shown must be absolute. Morality must be supreme, or it is nothing, obligation must be unconditional or it is meaningless, the ought cannot be transferred into the is."

After reviewing the theories of Kant, as throwing light on this conflict, Miss Felton concluded: "And thus we see that the final result of the Kantean philosophy is to vindicate that conception of man's nature which is inherent in the Western mind which finds embodiment in the Christian religion of whatever form, and in that religion alone—the conception of the dignity, freedom, the reality of man."

PRESIDENT KELLOGG'S REVIEW.

The attendance he said, had been 37 per cent greater this year than during previous years but the number of instructors of all ranks had increased only 18 per cent. The courses of study were more by 27 per cent. Professional colleges in San Francisco had made a decided advance. Within the last four years the attendance had more than doubled, and the University might now be called one of the great universities of the country.

"We have, all told," the president continued, "nearly 1800 students who have studied many years before entering. The past year has seen advances in the material equipment necessary for successful study. The important building erected for mechanical and electrical engineering is now available for use in all its lines of work. A laboratory has been fitted up for the civil engineering department, affording facilities for testing the strength of materials. A new plant house has been added to the equipment of the college of agriculture. Aside from the too small funds allotted to the University library, it has reached individual gifts, the most important one the large private library of the late Dr. E. B. Wadsworth. The Lick Observatory has received helpful donations, culminating in the recent gift of a magnificent reflecting telescope from Mr. Edward Crossley. The money needed to transplant and set up this telescope was raised in a few days in San Francisco. Our institute of art in San Francisco has received handsome gifts from its munificent patron, Mr. Searls.

"A new affiliation during the year is that of a Veterinary College, which begins its work with a competent faculty and a strong board of trustees. J. C. Wigmore's bequest of $400,000 for an industrial school. The fund will probably be in their hands in the early autumn of this year.

"A very significant and welcome benefaction of the year was the appropriation by the Legislature of $250,000 for a home of professional study in San Francisco to bring together four of our affiliated colleges. The spirit of this gift, in a year of financial stress is proof of the care of the State for the best interests of its University. The new building will be a most important center of University life in San Francisco.

"We asked for another like sum, which we failed to obtain. We showed that the remarkable prosperity of the University was now its chief embarrassment. Our buildings at Berkeley were overcrowded, our income had been largely devoted to new structures, our teaching staff was insufficient. The situation was growing more critical with the arrival of each new class, larger than any former one. We had not room enough nor equipment enough for the eager students who had been invited to our courses.

"This experience brings vividly before us the need of our plenteful and. Our State is great and rich and proud. It has dealt gently with us, and it will not suffer its own brightest institution of learning to lose its prestige. But it cannot be relied on to do everything. It cannot be expected to go in advance of the average public sentiment. It is of the very nature of education to rise above the average, to take the lead of the people at large, to be in the van of a progressive and refining civilization. Who is to come in to give this additional momentum? Evidently it must be the enlightened, far-seeing, public-spirited private citizen. The best results of the higher education depend on his willingness to help with a generous hand. He must acquaint himself with the actual needs of the University. He must come and see how important new buildings are waiting for him to be the best monument he can raise, how that treasury of learning and science, the library is hungry for his benefactions, how the ever growing demands of modern scientific instruction ask of him new laboratories, new equipment, additions to all scientific collections, how all linguistic and historical and literary study calls for new appliances, how all the departments of instruction are in pressing need of endowments, like those of D. O. Mills and Edward Tompkins. That enlightened, farseeing public-spirited citizen if he has money to spare can see here how it can be put to the best possible use. * * *

"Millionaires are very good in their way and they make large endowments. But 'many littles make a muckle.' A shower of small gifts may come to rival a single large one. At any rate every gift helps in a good cause. If one cannot erect the costly building he can put something in it to increase the use or its beauty. If he cannot found a great library he can add a little to the available treasure. If he cannot endow a chair he may perhaps establish a scholarship.

"The call all over the land is to go forward. The universities of the Atlantic coast are multiplying their facilities. Harvard and Yale were once helped by the State but now rely on large private benefactions. The State universities of the interior find supplementary helpers. Michigan has such public spirited citizens who add to the value of her noble institution.

"Help that is given for the best education of our sons and daughters is help to a noble cause. The best interests of the Golden State demand these elevating and refining influences. The State will be remembered for its products of gold. It will become more and more attractive for its wealth of fruitage and its beauty of bloom. It will develop vast commerce with the nations of the world. But no claim will surpass, I had almost said—none will equal that of a great center of learning, a cosmopolitan home for the age for the treasured literature and the right and wisdom of all ages. Harvard is a chief glory of Massachusetts. Yale of little Connecticut and Michigan of the State whose name it bears. It rests with this generation to make California equally renowned for its highest institution of learning."

A CAMPER'S TRIP.

Opportunity to Make a Selection of a Summer Resort.

Camping out no matter how much one may like it, is anything but enjoyable unless the camper locates in a place according to his liking and calculated to enable him to enjoy even the dullest moments which may be imagined in camp life. Colonel W. H. Mentor the excursion passenger agent of the Southern Pacific Company is aware of this fact and has hit upon a happy means of enabling people who desire to camp to do so in places which are all that may be desired. With this end in view tomorrow he will run what may be called an introducing campin' excursion train. The train will be run on the South Pacific Coast line the narrow gauge road into the Santa Cruz mountains. The object of the train is to enable people who desire to take an outing to see the various beautiful places on the road and then make their selection with a knowledge of the circumstances. The excursion will leave the foot of Market street, San Francisco tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock. The first stop will be at Alma where people will be given sufficient time to look around and find out the beauties and advantages of the place. There will be a stop of half an hour at Wrights and another at Laurels. Then Glenwood will be visited, and at the Big Trees there will be a stop for lunch of an hour and a half and a jolly time is sure. After lunch visits will be made to Felton, Ben Lomond and Boulder Creek. The excursionists will return to San Francisco at 8:30 P. M. Colonel Mentor knows how to manage an excursion of this kind and will surely make the trip a success and tickets of information and pleasure to all the participants.

JOSEPH S. MARSHALL,

First Vice-President of the Veteran Firemen, Wins $30,000.

When good fortune comes to a worthy citizen who commands the respect of all who know him it is a source of more than ordinary gratification. Such a man is Joseph S. Marshall than whom there is no one better known or more highly esteemed among the business people of San Francisco and especially among the old shire laddies. Mr. Marshall is the proprietor of the popular "Oyster House" 91-93 Center Market, corner of Sutter and Dupont streets and he resides at 910 Clay street. He is a pioneer of San Francisco and a member and officer of the Exempt Fireman's Association and also First Vice President of the Veteran Firemen's Association of California.

It is a pleasant duty for the Report to announce that Joseph S. Marshall has won $30,000 in the Lottery of the Beneficencia Publica. He held a half ticket calling for that handsome amount in the drawing of April 25, 1895, and has since received every cent of the money in United States gold coin. The half ticket which drew him this rich prize cost him only $2, and it is no wonder that Mr. Marshall declares that it was the best investment he ever made in his life.

Among many fortunate holders of winning tickets in the Beneficencia Publica drawing of March 1895 was Mr. Goldsmith of Fresno Cal. He won $5000 which sum was promptly paid him in U. S. gold coin.

The drawings of the Lottery of the Beneficencia Publica are held monthly in the City of Mexico under the supervision of the Mexican Government.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

CROOKED WORK.

Frank J. Cruz Will Yet Land in Prison.

He Has Been Duping a Number of Bicycle Houses.

Frank J. Cruz, a young Alamedan, is in trouble with the police, who only released him from custody a few days ago after holding him for five days. Cruz was arrested on a charge of forgery, but the interested parties failed to come to the front and swear to a complaint. Cruz was kept in custody for nearly a week but as no complaint was filed it was necessary to release him. Chief Sohaefer has in his possession a check for $12.50 drawn in favor of Cruz, and signed by George C. Ralt an Alameda coal merchant who says his name was forged. The check was cashed by McSorley Brothers & Schrag, whose indorsement was upon the back.

There seemed no question that Cruz was unduly familiar in his use of other people's names in this connection but as no one was willing to prosecute him he was allowed to go.

Now the police have discovered that Cruz has been involving himself in other peculiar transactions and they have determined to make an example of him.

For some time past several Alameda and Oakland bicycle firms have been complaining of the loss of bicycles rented for temporary use and subsequently found in pawnshops. Half a dozen wheels have thus disappeared and have subsequently been recovered and the police say that Cruz is the individual responsible for the transactions.

Chief Schaffer decided today to swear to a complaint himself charging Cruz with forgery and he has given instructions to have the young man arrested.

ALL A MISTAKE.

Durrant's Friends Are Confident of Success.

Important Points Are Raised in His Behalf.

Theodore Durrant did not kill Minnie Williams.

He did not kill Blanche Lamont.

The police force of San Francisco has made a mistake.

That is what his friends say and they insist that they can prove it.

On Good Friday, April 12th, Theodore Durrant met a young lady at the ferry station in San Francisco. He was recognized by several people, who have since testified to this fact.

The woman was not recognized. No person has been a witness for the prosecution who knew this woman with whom Durrant was seen.

This woman was not Marion Williams.

When Miss Williams left Alameda on the day she was killed, she carried an extension basket, a box of flowers and another parcel.

She was a slightly formed woman, one who, loaded as she was, would be noticeable.

She was accompanied from the boat to the car by a person with whom she had conversed on the boat and she got off the car at Mrs. Voy's house at 5 o'clock. She did not see Theodore Durrant at the ferry.

When she left Mrs. Voy's house after dinner she carried the flowers that she had brought from Alameda for the Easter decorations of the church.

Those flowers were calla lilies, white and yellow marguerites and roses. Of the lilies alone she carried a dozen.

The woman who was seen on Bartlett street by C. T. Hills carried no flowers.

The man who entered the church with Marion Williams was empty-handed. This is the testimony of the only person who claims to have seen the couple pass through the churchyard to the side door.

ABOVE all others, SPERRY'S FAMILY FLOUR.

My friend, look here! you know how weak and nervous your wife is, and you know that Carter's Iron Pills will relieve her, now why not be fair about it and buy her a box.

Why Not

make the baby fat? For the thin baby is delicate, and is not half so cunning.

Scott's Emulsion is as easy a food as milk. It is much more effective in making thin babies fat, and they like it.

If all the babies that have been made fat and chubby and well by Scott's Emulsion could only tell their story to the mothers of other sickly babies!

There wouldn't be enough to go round.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute!

WEDNESDAY MAY 15 1895

A WASHINGTON special to the New York Herald is to this effect, "The Supreme Court has determined to absolutely annihilate the Income Tax law. This statement is made to-night on what appears to be absolutely reliable authority. It is, of course, impossible to say officially what will be the decision of the court in advance of its announcement, but the report comes from such a source as to leave very little room for doubt as to its accuracy." It may not be well to take much stock in this report. The formal decision on the income tax is to be rendered next Monday. It cannot be known on the outside with any certainty as to just what the form of that decision will be. The former decision was foreshadowed by the press some days in advance. There may be another surprise on the country.

IT does not look much as if the directors of the San Joaquin Valley Railroad Company were going to drop the tools and run. They have been in the Valley for some days examining routes, and doing a great deal of preliminary work. A meeting is to be held on Saturday to further perfect the organization of the company. The China Basin question is not yet settled. But there never has been any good ground for the inference drawn in certain quarters that the enterprise would fall through because the China Basin could not be procured on the exact terms demanded. Whether that can be made a franchise subject to mortgage, or otherwise, is not a question involving the existence of the road as subsequent developments will probably show. There is more than one water front that would answer admirably all the requirements of the Valley Road

That Japanese Story.

There was a time when such a story as the San Francisco Bulletin published last evening about the Japanese invasion could not have been admitted to that paper. It was a poor compliment to the ordinary intelligence of readers to ask them to believe that within the past year 10,000 Japanese have found employment on the farms of the San Joaquin valley and other interior valleys of the State. There were less than 10 00 Japanese who entered all the ports of the United States last year. Since the war began between China and Japan there has probably been a slight decrease of the number of Japanese immigrants. The story which the Bulletin concocted ought to have been published on the first of April. George K. Fitch would have turned a somersault if in his time any such imposition had been attempted. It certainly could not have found a place in his paper.

Of the five or six hundred Japanese who are coming to this country, the majority of them do not seek farm work. Nearly all the young men come with a view of obtaining an English education. They seek the very thing that the Chinese do not seek. Their chances are better in the cities than in the country. They will accept any service that will help them along to the one end they have in view. There are, of course, some exceptions to this rule. The younger Japanese have always a book in sight. They will work in the vineyards and fruit orchards to some extent. But the Japanese are not coming in any such numbers as this newspaper canard would imply.

There are probably more Japanese in San Francisco today than in all the rest of the State. They are there because so large a proportion of them are seeking the advantages of an English education. They can pick it up faster in the city than in the country. There are several young Japanese in the University of California. They are hard students. Some of them are paying their way by any odd jobs they can get. One of them has been working nights and mornings in Alameda, and during the past winter has gone every day on his bicycle to the University at Berkeley, making his daily rounds of study and work, and all the time a most indefatigable student. It is well to take account of the leading purpose of most of these Japanese. A few of them are farm laborers. But there are no ten thousand of them flocking annually to the farms of the interior, as this fiction writer would have the public believe.

A Campaign of Education

It has been said that the last two Presidential contests were campaigns of education. The tariff was the issue. The country was well plastered over with tariff and anti-tariff literature. But when the campaigns closed the people were as wide apart in their conclusions as they were at the beginning It is now in the wind that there is to be another campaign of education in the coming Presidential canvass. The tariff is to have the second place, and currency the leading place. The work of publishing the literature of the canvass has already begun Every sort of financial vagary is to hold a place. There will be elaborate treatises on free coinage, bimetallism, the ratio of silver to gold, standards of value and so on.

There never could be a more favorable time for such a discussion. The country is about to settle a financial policy that may be continued for generations. All the political parties and nearly every faction of a party are coming into the field with their theories. These latter day discussions of a national policy have been greatly modified during the last few years. A quarter of a century ago the stump orator had everything his own way It was expected that everybody interested in politics would hear a number of stump speeches in every Presidential contest, and would be greatly influenced by them. But now a large proportion of voters do not hear a single speech in the most exciting campaign. They depend upon the press, upon pamphlets and leaflets that are scattered broadcast over the land Everybody reads more or less of this literature. It is easier to read it than to hear it delivered from the stump. Bureaus of publication send out millions of pages. Every great public speech dealing with what are supposed to be cardinal principles finds its way into print.

Everything that can be said or written on every side of the pending financial question will be laid before the public by the press. It is more than ever a form of campaign education for the eye rather than for the ear. This contest has already begun. That is, the first of the flood of printed matter has gone out. When the country has come to the last day of the campaign, it will probably divide very much as it did on the tariff question. One political party never extinguishes another, even in the hottest campaign. Seeing it is to be a campaign of finance education, the documentary flood will be greater than ever. It is the promotion of good government by discussion Earnest men take opposite sides, and maintain as best they can their theories.

The discussion of financial principles requires a great deal of exact statement. Today the ablest financiers of the country are divided as to the best financial policy for the country. The fact that the discussion has already begun, at least six months in advance of the usual time for a Presidential campaign, indicates that the country is about to enter upon the most extended and thorough financial discussion ever known. It is one that will probably involve the rise and fall of parties. The campaign of financial education is at hand

Last Hours of a Pioneer.

One of the most famous pioneers of the State is about to pass away. Peter H. Burnett has had much to do with the making of the Pacific coast. He took part in the organization of the Territory of Oregon more than half a century ago He served there as a Territorial Judge. As Governor of California, a Judge of the Supreme Court, citizen, banker, historian, law man, even among the pioneers of California, attained so much prominence or filled public offices more acceptably than this distinguished citizen.

Ex-Governor Burnett was not the greatest of men. He had great opportunities, and he knew how to take advantage of them He was recognized as a man of sterling character His uprightness won the confidence of the public, and he never lost it. For many years ex-Governor Burnett had ceased to attract public attention. He had filled the measure of an active and honorable pioneer. He had aided in laying the foundation of the State, and and he had seen the great commonwealth firmly established on these pioneer foundations. It has been given to few men to make as much honorable history of the Pacific coast as this old pioneer now passing away

The largest number of Apaches that has thus far been reported as making war-like demonstrations is fifteen. It does not look as if they would be able to capture the country at present. But well equipped and finished up in war paint, they might scare a great many people. It is a long time since there has been any Apache outbreak in Arizona. The contractors have had dull times. If an Apache war could be started even fifteen renegades might do for a beginning.

The Apaches who leave the reservation do it generally with the connivance of white men, aided by the inefficient service rendered by those having special charge of these red rascals. It is not probable that there will be any Indian war in Arizona. But if the semblance of one could be started it would redound greatly to the profit of contractors and camp followers. The few Apaches now on the annual raid will probably skulk back to the mountains and be blanketed and fed for another raid. That is the kind of civilizing influence that the Apaches on or off the reservation always enjoy

THE recent decision of Judge Ross of the Federal Court is one of the most important that has been rendered in many years touching land questions on this side of the country. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company claimed, as successor to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, all the lands that had been granted to the latter for purposes of construction. Settlers claimed that these lands had been forfeited by non-compliance with the terms of the grant. They settled upon the lands as a part of the Government domain. For some of these lands they received patents. They paid the Government the price demanded. The litigation over the title to these lands has been going on for some years. It looks now as if it had come to an end. The settlers have won their homesteads, subject to the contingency of an appeal, of which there is little prospect.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Pasteur is the most distinguished graduate of the Paris Ecole Normale, which has just celebrated its hundredth anniversary In commemoration of the event a tablet of black marble has been placed on the wall of his laboratory in the old Rue d'Ulm, now Rue Pasteur, under bed "Here stood Pasteur's laboratory. 1857, Fermentations 1860, spontaneous generation. 1865 Diseases of wines and beers 1868 Silkworm distempers. 1881 Virus and vaccine. 1884-1888, Hydrophobia researches" Above is a medallion with the letters L P interlaced.

A paper devoted especially to the egg has been started in Iowa, and Edward Atkinson contributes to it an estimate that 10 800,000,000 eggs are laid in the United States annually, and may fairly be valued at $140,000 000. This equals our pig iron and wool product put together

Mexican onyx has suffered a gradual decline in value of many years past It is generally becoming known that Mexican onyx is not true onyx but species of marble It is really an aragonite and is composed of calcium, oxide of iron and magnesium the presence of these last two elements gives it its beautiful color It was used by the ancient Mexican for masks, idols and similar small objects

Roman lamps were of many sizes, but most of them very closely resembled what is at present denominated as a table or gravy boat At one end there was a ring, through which the finger was passed when the light was carried The body of the vessel was filled with oil, and at the other end there was a small tube through which a rag wick was passed.

A 35 cents a day under Strauss Leachman of Chicago has filled 250 000 phonograph cylinders with comic and other songs It is said that he makes about $50 a day and that in the West he is the only man that has been found with a voice of the right quality for the work

WEBSTER CITY, Ia., May 3.—This section of the State is becoming honeycombed with telephones, and every town within a radius of fifty miles will soon be connected with Webster City The scheme is something new and surprising even to old telephone men, but it works like a charm. An inventive genius here struck upon the idea of making direct connections with the barbed wire on the fences that run along the prairie He tried a line first between here and Duncombe It was a success, and now he has an incorporated company which has just sprung into existence and is getting rich. A line was hitched on to the barbed wire fence between here and Williams, twenty miles away, in one day by two men, who used only eight or ten rods of insulated wire under the road crossings that pass over the railroad. He is laying a line to Boone, forty miles away, today, and if the barbed wire fences hold out he will push on to Des Moines or Missouri.—Daily Inter-Ocean

Judge Price of the United States District Court at St Louis was so touched the other day by the letter of a counterfeiter's child pleading for mercy in behalf of her father that his Honor reduced a sentence of seven years, which he had ordered to be entered on the docket, to three years.

Sixty years ago Joseph Gillott was a working jeweler in Birmingham. One day he accidentally split one of his fine steel tools, and being suddenly required to sign a receipt and not finding a quill pen handy he used the split tool as a substitute This happy incident led to the idea of making pens of metal.

Herman Boerhaave, the illustrious scientist and physician, who accumulated a fortune estimated at 2 000,000 florins, said the poor were his best patients because God paid him for them.

Literary Chicago and Lard.

Notwithstanding the fact that Harold Montgomery lived in Chicago he had written a poem, and a lovely thing in mellifluous measure it was.

As sweet Harold thought so.

Daintily tying it with a soft blue ribbon he sent it away to the publisher in the far East, and with a throbbing heart he waited to hear what fortune was to be the poem's meed.

At last, one sweet summer day in June, it came back to him wafted on the flying wings of the post.

His heart fluttered in a strange struggle between hope and disappointment.

His wife, who had no music in her soul and had never felt the touch of poesy, stood by his side when he opened the missive from the East.

He read it through, hopefully at first, then disparagingly and his head fell upon his breast.

"What's the matter?" she inquired with wifely anxiety.

"My poem," he gasped.

"What of it?"

"The publisher says it needs shortening; think of that."

"Well," she said with an air of superior intelligence, "why don't you put some lard in it and send it back to him?"—New York Sun.

Hidden in the fragrant grass
Have you any kisses won
From the pretty maids who pass?
When the sun slips down the west
Some fairy shall come in quest
Of the secret which you hold
In your tiny golden breast
You shall hear an airy knock
And quick for "What o'clock?

Ah you dainty snowy ghost
See what boons your wisdom brings!
Tell me pray what angels guest
Such a zephyr for their wings?

VARIED VIEWS.

Citizens Chat About the Sunday Closing Matter.

The Rights of the Council Are Talked Of.

Business Men Talk of the Effects Upon the Community.

The saloon issue continues to be an absorbing topic around town. The following additional interviews have been obtained by THE TRIBUNE:

Captain W. R. Thomas—I am in favor of closing the saloons on Sunday, but I think 10 o'clock would be early enough to close them on Saturday night.

J. S. Johnson—Let the saloon men take one day off in the week, the same as the rest of us. I would favor the closing of the saloons on Sunday, but I would let them run till 12 o'clock Saturday night, and then keep closed till 6 o'clock Monday morning.

A. J. Snyder—I am in favor of the strictest surveillance of the saloons by the police. I would have any saloon-keeper who sold liquor to a drunken man punished. But I would not close the saloons on Sunday. Everything else runs here. There is no Sunday law here. I would not have the saloons closed Saturday night, although some of them might be closed altogether. One of the injurious effects of Sunday closing would be noticed in the suburbs. The rowdies and tough element would congregate there and raise disturbance and annoy the people.

Judge Nye—I have no use for the saloon and personally I would not regret if no saloons existed. But I am not in favor of attempting to suppress the saloon unless it is backed by a strong and decisive public sentiment that is almost unanimous in favor of opposing the saloon. The travesty of such laws is found in the attempt to prosecute for selling liquor within a mile of the University. Men will perjure themselves to get on a jury to prevent a law from being enforced. They are asked if they have any prejudice against a certain law and they say they have not. They lied. But that is the result of attempting to enforce a law, regarding which, the sentiment is nearly balanced. I do not know the sentiment of the people in this city on the subject, but the sentiment ought to be practically unanimous against the saloon. That sentiment cannot be aroused in a moment. It is a matter of education. I do not think the closing of the saloons would hurt Oakland in a commercial sense.

Louis Schaffer, Washington Market—I interfere with no man's business. I treat the saloons just as I treat the churches. If I don't want to go to a saloon I don't go there, and if I do want to I go there. But I remain a great deal away from church. I believe it would injure Oakland a great deal. Times are very dull here now, anyway. If men cannot get a drink here on Sunday they can go almost anywhere for a nickel or to San Francisco for 10 cents. They will go to Temescal and other places and spend their money there, instead of in this city. It is not more than two years since I was in New York. Myself and my two brothers took a walk to Long Island and College Point, and, on our return in the evening, I asked if it would not be a good thing to get a glass of beer. My brothers agreed with me, but I said that I supposed all the saloons were closed. One of my brothers led the way into a house by a back entrance, and there there was a saloon in full blast. After a time a man came in and looked around, and made some inquiries, and soon was joined by another. Both talked together. When they had gone out I learned that the first visitor was the sergeant of the police and the other was a member of the police force.

E. G. Buswell—I am in sympathy with the home, not with the saloon, and, for that reason, am in favor of the saloons closing on Saturday night. When a man gets his pay Saturday night he ought not to spend it in the saloon. He ought to go home and remain with his family. Personally, I am in favor of closing saloons, but that would have to be done by the vote of the people. I think the Council has all the authority required to pass this ordinance. The saloon is a menace to morality, and should be closed.

J. L. Hierlihy—I am a prohibitionist, but I am opposed to the closing of the saloons on Sunday and Saturday night. That closing is only compromising with a business that there should be none with. It is a part violation of a contract. There is an agreement that these men shall be allowed to run their saloons every day in the week. To restrict them one day and one night is to break that agreement. Dr. Coyle said that the saloon is the broth of hell spewed over the community. If the saloon is the broth of hell at all, is it any the less broth on the other six days and nights that it is allowed to be spewed out at random?

A. J. Gregg—I favor the submission of this proposition to the people, because there is too much centralization of power now. But I would rather have submitted the question of saloon or no saloon. The temperance sentiment is growing in this city, but whether the seven members of the Council represent the majority of the people I cannot say. The city has licensed the saloons to run every day and to cut them off on Saturday night and Sunday would be to violate an agreement.

C. L. Ingler—I don't go to the saloons very much on Sunday, but on most every other day I drop in on them when I feel like it. But why should the saloons be closed on Sunday any more than any other business? If you close up the saloons, close up everything else. Stop the cars. Why should the cars be allowed to be run? I remember in Philadelphia when the cars, for six years, were stopped on Sundays and they finally got to running them only under the plea of carrying the United States mail. If the saloons are closed here visitors will remain away from us and we will lose by it. We ought to attract and not detract from the city.

MERCHANTS MEET.

Annual Election of Officers of the Exchange.

Proposition to Have a Mammoth Fourth of July Celebration.

The directors of the Merchants' Exchange held a long meeting last evening, and chose officers for the ensuing year. George L. Fish was honored with re-election as president without opposition. The same course was pursued in the case of William V. Witcher as vice president. Henry D. Cushing was elected treasurer.

There was a fight over the office of secretary, which lasted a long time and ended in a deadlock. When nominations for that position were called for it developed that five applications were on file for the place. The applications were from George E. Furry, incumbent; Paul Schafer, ex-secretary of the Board of Health; L. T. Farr, W. W. Moody, and H. K. Snow.

The directors deliberated over the five names, and there was a very warm debate. Each of the candidates seemed to have partisans who were hot in his behalf. The matter occupied so much attention that other business was delayed until a late hour. No election of secretary was held, and it was postponed until next Tuesday night.

Jonas Brothers presented a communication suggesting that the Exchange undertake the proposition of holding a great Fourth of July celebration in which all the cities and suburban towns on this side of the bay be invited to participate.

A committee composed of F. K. Mott, George W. Arper, George L. Fish, F. Kahn and F. Sinclair was appointed to take charge of the matter and report at the meeting on Tuesday night.

The Sunday closing of saloons was discussed in an informal way and the attitude of the Exchange left open. A great deal of argument was indulged in, but nothing of an official character resulted. It seems a question whether the Exchange will consider the matter.

Making a Good Paper.

W. E. Bond, formerly of this city, and for about two years past manager of The Standard of Anaconda, Montana, has been rewarded with success in his new field of labor. The paper was enlarged on the first of this month to a seven-column, eight-page daily, with twelve pages on Sunday. It has also put in operation four linotype machines, which were made expressly for it in New York. The success of The Standard is in a great measure due to Mr. Bond's effort, a circumstance which will be appreciated by his friends in this city.

Cycling and Boating Are Now All the Go.

Sporting Matters in General Discussed by "The Umpire."

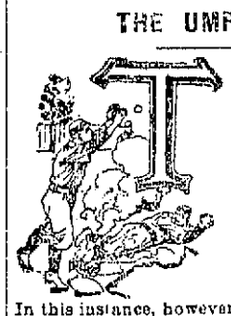
The society game of tennis is to be revived in Oakland. The boys are hard at work reorganizing the old Lakeside club. Already they have a fine list of members.

The University team is creating a sensation in the East. Manager North has completed the dates for the entire Eastern trip.

The Acme boys are looking forward to the coming entertainment with a good deal of interest. It is expected that there will be several clever boxing matches.

Following will be found a resume of the sporting events of the week:

THE UMPIRE.



THE members of the Reliance baseball team are not satisfied with the treatment they received at Woodland last Sunday. The boys say that the umpire robbed them of the game. It is the same old story that I have heard for years. In this instance, however, it took two umpires to get away with the game. The Reliance boys complain that they received very shabby treatment and they have no kind words for the Woodland young men. I am sorry that such a condition of affairs should exist, for the reason that it does not tend to boom amateur baseball. The game needs careful nursing, even in amateur circles, and charges of unfair conduct only tends to make the few remaining baseball men disgusted. This year we depend on the amateur players to keep the baseball enthusiasts in line, and they should have harmony in the ranks instead of disputes. I do not blame the Reliance Club for entering a protest, because from what I have heard they certainly received unfair treatment. I do say, however, that the Woodland boys made a grave mistake in not treating their visitors in a more courteous manner. If there were any favors to be given they ought to have been shown on the side of the Reliance team, the members of which traveled a number of miles to engage in a sociable game of baseball. It will be a very long time before the Reliance boys will make another trip to Woodland. The score was 13 to 9, in favor of Woodland. The local boys say the score should have been 9 to 5, in favor of the Reliance.

***

The baseball enthusiasts on both sides of the bay will no doubt be pleased to learn that a new baseball park is to be laid out in San Francisco. The old Bay View Racetrack is to be turned into a park. The railroad company is said to be back of the movement, and will make many improvements. The grand stand and bleachers at the Haight street park are to be removed to the new site. The Haight street grounds are now useless so far as baseball is concerned. The land is now valuable for business and residence property and it will be cut up into lots. The new site is quite a distance out of town, but it can be easily reached by the electric cars. It is proposed to put the track in good order as soon as possible so that the baseball men will have a good place for their sport just as soon as a league is organized for business.

***

Colonel Tom Robinson has had a rough deal ever since he made such a grand show of himself at the Native Sons' parade. He received an injury on the leg while riding a horse which has proved quite serious. The colonel is now compelled to hobble around on crutches and he does not know when he will be able to discard them. Saturday the colonel went to the fiesta behind a spanking team of bay horses. He did not have any floral decorations. He did not need them, for his own graceful presence decorated the carriage enough to attract wide attention. The colonel would have shone in the fullness of his glory if he could only have been the grand marshal of the great floral parade. The colonel is all right and he will be heard from in baseball circles when the time is ripe for action.

***

Colonel Thomas Robinson and other ex-managers can read this item and reflect: "As an indication of prosperity of the game in the East, it may be cited that the New York club took as its share of the three games at Philadelphia $5100, which is more money than any other club ever got in six games on that ground. They were paid at the rate of 12½ cents a spectator, which makes the total of paid admissions 40,800. This, too, with the Quakers way down in the race. The ill-luck of the Phillies with their pitchers is proverbial. Manager Irwin is in disgrace, it is said, and Jack Boyle has been put in control of the team. His first move was the release of Weyhing. Irwin looks after the business affairs of the club."

***

An Eastern exchange gives a few pointers on umpires. The man who gives the pointers never saw the Woodland umpires. Here is what he says: "It is impossible for an umpire to watch all the plays in a game. The players take advantage of every chance to work a trick, while the umpire's attention is directed to another part of the field. They cut bases, interfere with an opponent and do a number of things forbidden by the rules. The umpire has all he can do to follow the ball. The double umpire system is a necessity. The only argument against it is the extra expense it entails. The league is prosperous and there is no need of economy in a matter so important. There would be less kicking by players and patrons under the double umpire system because the knights of the indicator would make fewer mistakes. A division of the work and its responsibilities would allow each man to give his whole attention to that part of the play allotted to him. The umpires are honest and decide a play as they see it. Neither side has a right to kick on a close decision. The one which gets it is lucky and the other fellows should be content to let it go at that."

THE UMPIRE.

THE RELIANCE CLUB.

Joseph Racine Chosen Manager of the Baseball Team.

Joseph Racine, the well-known football and baseball player, has been elected by the Reliance directors to manage the baseball club for the season. J. Cal Ewing resigned and so did George Campbell, because they could not give the time to baseball matters. Mr. Racine, the new manager, is well posted in the business and he is a hard worker.

Next Saturday the team will go to Palo Alto to play Stanford. Sunday they will play at Vallejo. A week from next Sunday the team will commence a series of games with the Olympic Club in San Francisco.

"After the contests with the Olympic Club, we will endeavor to get games in the interior towns and keep going all season," said Manager Racine this morning. "We consider that we have the strongest nine in the State just now. The game at Woodland was all right. The manager there treated us in a most courteous manner and we have nothing but the kindliest feelings toward him. We want to be on friendly terms with all these interior clubs."

Complaint is made at the Reliance that the members do not take enough interest in the baseball team. The members of the latter work hard for the club and they want their services recognized by attendance at the games.

The directors of the club will hold a meeting tonight to transact routine business.

WHEEL WHIRLS.

The Good Roads Association to Elect New Officers.

The Good Roads Association of Alameda county will hold a big meeting at the Reliance clubrooms tomorrow night. The annual election of officers will take place. John A. Britton is now the president of the organization and he may be re-elected. A. P. Swain of the Acme Club is the secretary and he is likely to be chosen again for the place.

There are a number of important matters to be discussed by the association, and in consequence, a large attendance is desired. Several important reports from committees will be received.

The wheelmen are discussing the ordinance providing for a tax of $2 a year on wheels. The majority of the riders are in favor of the ordinance providing the tax is made $1 a year. Major Fred Whitney in speaking about the matter said: "My opinion is that such a tax would not only be unconstitutional but impossible of collection. However, the wheelmen of this city have decided not to oppose a small tax. I was talking to Mr. Manuel, president of the Council, and framer of the ordinance now pending, about the matter, and he expressed the opinion that a dollar tax would amount to so little in the aggregate that the wheelmen would not derive much benefit from it in the matter of improved streets. He thought that the present ordinance would be defeated.

C. D. Bates Jr. and J. H. Dieckman of the Reliance Club have come to the front as racers. As a tandem team they are hard to beat.

The road to East Oakland by way of Twelfth street is in a dangerous condition. Wheelmen could make no better fight than to get it repaired. The Eighth street bridge is also in a bad condition and needs to be fixed.

ACADEMIC LEAGUE.

New Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year.

The Academic League held a meeting in the Young Men's Christian Association building a few days ago. All the delegates to the league were present, and the following schools were represented: Oakland High school, Berkeley High school, San Francisco Boys' High school, Berkeley Gymnasium, Alameda University Academy. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. Blasingame, University of California; vice president, J. Martin, Berkeley Gymnasium; treasurer, Mr. Hughes, Alameda University Academy; George Nicholls, Oakland High school.

The following Board of Managers was elected for the ensuing term: Baxter, Alameda University Academy; Anderson, Oakland High school; Martin, Berkeley Gymnasium; Woolsey, Berkeley High school; Dunn, San Francisco Boys' High school; Remmel, Alameda High school.

Next fall the league will hold a championship field day. A series of football games to decide the championship will also be held. The first meeting of the Board of Managers will be held on the second Friday in August.

The Amateur League has within its ranks some of the best athletes in the State. The boys propose to make a great showing in Athletic circles before the year is over.

AN ATHLETIC PARK.

Students and Professors Strongly Oppose the Project.

A proposition is being urged by some enterprising young men to establish an athletic park in the vicinity of the State University. There is no athletic park in Oakland or Berkeley where an admission fee can be charged. The only track available is the one on the University grounds used by the students. As this is an open one no admission fee can ever be charged. It is proposed to secure a tract of land near Berkeley and make a fine athletic park. An effort has been made to get the students interested in the scheme, but they do not warm up to it. In fact the majority of them openly oppose the project, as do the professors. They claim that already there is too much professionalism about college sports and it is time to call a halt.

ACME ATHLETES.

Directors Find It a Hard Matter to Make Matches.

The entertainment to be given by the Acme Club the latter part of this month is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest by the athletes. It is the intention of the directors to have several boxing bouts. This is not an easy task as some of the young bruisers are shy about appearing in public. They are perfectly willing to go into an exhibition contest, but they are not willing to fight for points.

An effort is being made to arrange a match between Britt of the Phœnix Club of San Francisco and Maynard of the Acme, at 105 pounds. Both are active young men and clever boxers. They would give a very interesting contest. If this match falls through an attempt will be made to bring Bert Brown of the Acme and Kennedy of the Phœnix together, the men to weigh in at 160 pounds. This would prove to be a most interesting match, as both men are looked upon as hard fighters.

A match has been arranged between Charley Slamberg of the Acme and Nick Sullivan of the Olympic. The men come under the 138 pound limit. Slamberg has received a slight injury which may make a change in the programme. He is a favorite in the club and the boys say that if he goes into the contest he will be a sure winner.

The Acme Trampers took a run to the Fish Ranch last Sunday and had a fine time. There was a big spread and in the afternoon the athletes enjoyed themselves fishing.

TENNIS TOPICS.

The Lakeside Club Is Being Reorganized.

Sam Hardy and Walter Magee have been trying for some time to reorganize the Oakland Tennis Club. On account of the high rent demanded for the courts and the fact that not more than fifty members could be obtained they have been compelled to give up the project.

They have therefore turned their attention to reorganizing the old Lakeside Club. The Lakeside courts are situated on the corner of Alice and Durant streets. They are of clay and are probably as good as any of their kind on the coast. Before the advent of bituminous courts they were the resort of such players as Charlie Hubbard, Sam and Carr Neal, the latter of whom is now champion of the West; Charlie Bates, who formed with Sam Neal the famous "pony team"; Will English, Will Allen, Sam Brock, Alex Stewart, celebrated for his back line game, and others.

The club that is now being organized contains several of these veterans, besides many of the younger players who have won places in championship tournaments. Among these are Sam Hardy, champion of the coast; Sumner Hardy, who, with his brother, won the doubles championship of the coast; Walter Magee and George McChesney.

The membership, thus far, comprises twenty-eight names. It is expected that this number will soon be increased to about forty, as many others have signified their intention of joining. Sam Hardy has figured that with an entrance fee of $1 and $1 a month dues all expenses can be paid and a surplus kept constantly in the treasury. The same keeper that looked after the old Lakeside has been employed to repair the courts and keep them in shape.

It is expected that an open tournament will be held soon. It will probably be a class tournament with all the members participating. Prizes will be given to the winner of each class.

A special feature of the club is to be the semi-weekly provision of new balls. This, on clay courts, insures good tennis.

RIGHT IN LINE.

Fine Progress Being Made by the Oakland Athletic Club.

The Oakland Athletic Club is keeping up with the other athletic clubs in this city. The managers of the club are organizing annexes so that all classes of sports will be represented in the club. A swimming annex has been organized and about forty young men have signed the roll. The boys have secured quarters at the Piedmont Baths and now have their regular swimming night. Among the members of this annex are Messrs. Hanson and Sherburne, who have a local reputation. Sherburne has agreed to give the boys lessons in swimming and Hanson will give them pointers in high diving. Thus far the swimming club has been a great success.

C. Specht has resigned as sergeant-at-arms of the club and A. Ingalls has been elected to fill the vacancy.

The cycling annex of the club is receiving new members every day. This is one of the most important features in the club. Nearly all the boys take an interest in cycling and most of them have their own wheels.

The directors of the club are preparing to give an exhibition at the clubrooms on Decoration Day. Some of the local clubs will assist them in making up the programme. After the entertainment there will be a banquet.

CALIFORNIA'S ATHLETES.

The University Men Are Making a Good Showing.

The success of the State University athletes in the Princeton games has brought them to the front in athletic circles in the East. The team is now attracting much attention wherever it goes.

On May 18th the boys will tackle the University of Pennsylvania team. This will be an exceedingly interesting contest, as Pennsylvania has agreed to enter only eleven men.

The great event of the trip will be the Mott Haven games in New York on May 25th. In these games the local boys will meet all the crack athletes of the Eastern colleges. They are considered the great championship games of the year.

The Western collegiate games will be held in Chicago on June 1st. The California boys will be on hand to make a showing.

On June 8th the Michigan team wants to try conclusions with the Berkeley boys at Ann Arbor. The details of this meeting have not yet been arranged.

On June 10th the California boys will contest either with the University of Wisconsin at Madison or the University of Illinois at Champlain. Illinois won the Middle West championship in 1894, while Wisconsin has the strongest team in 1895.

The Berkeley boys expect to meet the Chicago Athletic Club June 15th. This date may be changed to June 12th, however, if the visitors so desire.

The field day at Denver will be held June 22d. California will be opposed by a team picked from the Denver Athletic Club and the Colorado University. This is the last contest on the list. When these games are over the athletes will start for home.

The Champion Cyclery.

These are great days for the Central Cyclery in the Central Bank building on Fourteenth street, opposite the Macdonough Theater. B. C. Lund and his corps of assistants are compelled to work night and day. They are always busy at the Central Cyclery, but the Fabiola fete has made unprecedented demands for new wheels, repairs and decorations. Mr. Lund has been selling Cleveland, Ben Hur, Tribune and Monarch wheels with amazing rapidity, and he was well represented by them in the bicycle meet today at the fete. Mr. Lund is a successful teacher of riding. His cyclery is the largest in the city, and is richly appointed and has all the latest modern improvements.

Everybody Can Enjoy "Romeo and Juliet."

A Big House Already Secured for Friday.

The Call of the Kindergartens Brings a Ready Reply.

For charity and the children. That is the motto that has been unfolded for the great production of the now famous travesty of Romeo and Juliet at the Macdonough Theater next Friday night. Society has again come to the front in aid of one of the greatest public institutions of this city. The appeal of the kindergarten associations for assistance in carrying on their great work among the little ones has been heard and another outpouring of fashion will be the result.

There have been many deserving calls upon Oakland's generous hearts, but never could a more worthy cause be espoused than that which has been undertaken in the present instance. For several years there has been maintained in Oakland, a system of kindergartens, under the supervision and control of a number of ladies, whose love for the work has developed a glorious institution. Hundreds of the very young children of this city have been fostered under the charming influences and gentle methods of training employed in the kindergarten schools, and many a home where little but the bitter things of life enter, has been brightened and made happier by the little ones who have been blessed with the delights of attendance at these schools.

Froebel, the father of kindergartens, has been accounted one of the benefactors of the human race. The wonderful system of training young children, which he developed, has been the admiration of the world. Outside of its home, Germany, it has probably been brought to a greater degree of perfection in the United States than in any other nation on the globe. As it grew and spread throughout the land, it was natural that Oakland, a center for scholastic and educational affairs, should have become one of the galaxy to establish and maintain the kindergarten system. Today, this city ranks as one of the few in the country which has a kindergarten in connection with the public school system.

The kindergartens are principally the outgrowth of private individual effort. They have been established in such quarters of the city where the population is most dense, and where there is need for care and effort in handling the children of the poor. The system comprehends the theory of first impressions to a beautiful end. The training tends to the awakening of the young mind in a direction that is toward all that can give a bright and cheerful contrast to the ugliness of the scenes that too often surround the young in large cities.

It is this work that is being done to a great extent by the kindergartens, boys and girls' clubs of this city, which are to be the beneficiaries of Friday night's performance. The ladies and gentlemen who are devoting their time and attention to the work, feel impelled to go before the public with their appeal in order to better conduct their labors and if possible to show the necessity, for a right royal response.

The gentlemen who have given their talents and labors in the production of the travesty of Romeo and Juliet have gladly laid aside other considerations to again devote their services to a noble cause. There is not one who has witnessed the production, but has given it unstinted praise. Once more the opportunity will be presented to witness this very clever affair, and in the cause of a great public benefaction. It is believed that there will be just as generous a response to this as there was to the benefit entertainment given not long since. The attraction from an artistic standpoint will be superior to anything given before by the company, as three performances before the public have been given in Oakland and San Francisco, and all the rough edges have been completely worn off. With the exception of one change the cast will be as originally presented. The change referred to is only a shifting of parts in the third act, when Donald Y. Campbell will play the "Apothecary" in place of Charles Dickman, who for that act only will be the "Nurse."

The genial Sam Taylor will again evoke roars of laughter in his conception of an up to date Juliet.

W. B. Hopkins' magnificent baritone will be heard again in that superb rendition of "The Holy City" that was one of the features of the original production several weeks ago.

Donald Campbell, as the "Nurse," will not be forgotten, and he promises to give the best he has for the coming performance.

Then there are Burbank Somers, Dr. H. P. Carlton and Paul Miller and the splendid chorus that was so much enjoyed.

Alex. Rosboron h has also been secured for the occ... He will appear as "Peter," and although it is a small part he will make it a big one.

Everything promises for a big performance and a swell house on Friday night. The ladies are working hard. They have devoted all their efforts to the success of the entertainment and it goes without saying that such charming applicants for assistance as Mrs. A. J. Ralston, Mrs. J. C. Ainsworth, Mrs. George Wheaton, Mrs. George W. McNear Sr., Mrs. John Yule, Mrs. Josiah Stanford, Mrs. H. K. Bolden, Mrs. Robert Watt, Mrs. W. G. Henshaw, Mrs. Shanklin, Mrs. Whitney, Miss Alice K. Vollman, Miss Ethel Moore, Miss Alice Flint should meet with all the encouragement their labors deserve. With these ladies are associated a number of the gentlemen who took a very active part in the Fabiola fete. Some of those who have again enlisted in charity's cause are P. E. Bowles, R. M. Fitzgerald, E. B. Pomroy, S. B. McKee and George P. Morrow. Donald Y. Campbell, who is the head and front of the travesty, will lend all the assistance within his power to the preliminaries.

Tickets are on sale at Bowman's, Tait & Pennoyer's and other prominent stores. They may also be had from any of the ladies of the committee.

THE

MOREY

INCANDESCENT GAS BURNER

It Has Revolutionized Gas Lighting!

Only Sixty Days on the Market and yet the Sale is Enormous.

No parts burn out. The mantels, screens, prisms, used in other burners, are not used in the Morey Burner at all; therefore no parts to repair. The Cheapest Burner used, giving the greatest amount of light for the smallest amount of gas consumed.

The secret of its scintillating brilliancy is perfect combustion, not one iota going to waste—every atom of gas being consumed.

No ghastly, greenish white light, but a natural, mellow, golden sunlight, soothing to the eyes and radiant with power.

The Morey Gas Burner is the best results of long years of study, discovery and invention; and is based solely upon scientific principles. THE HIGHEST POWER OF GAS LIES IN THE BURNER EMPLOYED. The secret of the Morey Burner is the combustion secured.

You may ask why does the Morey Burner give so much more light for the same amount of gas consumed. Our answer is this, gas when burning through an ordinary gas jet, mixes quickly with the air and passes off, not giving time for the light to take up from the air all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore it passes off and is wasted. But in the Morey Burner it passes through a perforated circle of 76 small needle-pointed perforations, and the current of air passing on all sides of the blaze supplies sufficient air for the light to take up all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore no WASTE OF GAS, NO BLUE BLAZE; all turned to light.

See what prominent business men and people you know say of it:

TESTIMONIALS.

Morey Incandescent Gas Co., City—

GENTLEMEN: We are more than pleased with the lamp we recently purchased from you, and instead of using three burners, which we formerly were compelled to do in our private office, we now get a better light from the one which you put in.

As soon as we fix up our offices will use them altogether in each of the departments.

Please have one of your representatives call on us about the 15th of May.

Yours truly,
S. P. TAYLOR CO.

Morey Gas Burner Co., San Francisco.—

GENTLEMEN: In reply to your question as to how I like the burners, would say: I am using six of your burners in place of nine of the old style. I get a great deal more light and am very well satisfied in every way. You can refer to me if you wish.

Yours respectfully,
H. SUTLIFF.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21, 1895.

Morey Gas Burner Agency, S. F., Cal.—

DEAR SIRS: I have been in business in this city 35 years, during which time I have used every patent burner ever presented. The Morey is the only burner that has ever given complete satisfaction. In economy of gas, brilliancy of illumination, steadiness of light and simplicity and durability of construction, it is marvelous.

Yours truly
JAMES GIBB.

TAX TITLES.

Delinquent Property to Be in Safe Hands.

A Temporary Tie-Up in City Cash Will Be Created.

The last Legislature passed a bill, which was approved by the Governor, that knocks out the tax title sharks completely. It provides that the city and county shall purchase all real estate and improved property at the delinquent tax sales, and after five years, unless redeemed, the property shall revert to the State.

The new law will work some injury temporarily to Oakland, as it will tie up about $6000 in delinquent taxes, which the city will be forced to purchase on the 15th of July when the delinquent tax sale is held.

All property upon which the delinquent taxes are not paid before that date will be bid in by the city.

After the sale to the city the property may be redeemed within five years by the payment of certain fixed amounts added as to time of payment.

If redeemed within six months, 10 per cent of the tax is added; one year, 20 per cent; two years, 40 per cent; four years, 80 per cent; five years, 100 per cent.

The property then goes to the State. If not sold thereafter, it may be redeemed by the payment of all the taxes due and interest at the rate of 7 per cent from the time of delinquency.

The operation of the law is rather unfortunate for Oakland at the present time, as it will result in preventing about $6000 from reaching the city treasury on the 1st of July, as was anticipated in the estimates.

The law operates against the School Department in a hurtful way as to current needs. The amount usually derived from the school apportionment delinquent taxes is $7000 from city, county and State funds. Under the new law this money will not be available for any specified time, as delinquent property owners will have up to five years at least to redeem. Until the delinquent redemption is made, no money can be secured by the School Department from that source. Heretofore the purchase of property at delinquent tax sale has been made at one time, and the coin has been immediately forthcoming from the speculating purchasers.

MUST BE NEAT.

First Monthly Inspection of the Police Force.

Chief Schaffer held an inspection of the police force this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The inspection is for the purpose of examining the condition of the uniforms and other equipments of the members of the department. The chief has issued orders that hereafter a monthly inspection will be held on those lines. He deems it important to have the officers well clad and with cleanly uniforms and he has inaugurated this method of reaching the desired results.

Ysaye in Bohemia.

Many hundred ladies and gentlemen thronged the rooms of the Bohemian Club last evening intent on honoring the famous Belgian violinist, as a primary proposition, but a so much elated were they in anticipation of hearing him play in the free atmosphere of club life. Henry Heyman, as master of ceremonies, introduced number after number, and those who waited the climax of the entertainment which should save them good gold pieces for theater seats—well, they waited, and are still waiting, perchance. For, the Baldwin management quietly forbade him to gratify these club guests at the expense of the theater treasury, and although Ysaye was ready and willing to oblige, business is business! Wherefore there is much unrest in Bohemia. Ysaye made them a neat speech, and nothing more.

There was a goodly line in waiting at the Macdonough box office at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the managers' hearts are glad, for they believe that the great expense is assured, and they hope for good returns in the margin.

State Board of Equalization Work Started.

County Assessor Dalton's Rolls Are Viewed.

The members of the State Board of Equalization are hard at work today securing figures to compare with the assessment now being prepared by County Assessor Dalton.

The entire board was at work in the County Clerk's office on the appraisements that have been made on various estates in the county. This seems to be a fair method of getting at a just value of property. When these figures are secured the members of the State Board will then view the property and pass judgment on the value.

The State Board of Equalization has no authority to raise or lower individual assessments in any county. They can secure figures, however, of various properties and thereby secure an index to the work of the Assessor. These figures will be of value to them when the question is raised as whether the assessment of Alameda should be raised, lowered or let alone. The State Board has the authority to either raise or lower the assessment of a county as a whole.

L. C. Morehouse, a member of the State Board, in speaking about the work being done said: "We are doing in this county just what we do in every county in the state. We are comparing evidence of value, such as sales, appraisements of estate and the like, with the assessed value of the identical property.

"We are not investigating any particular kind of property, but property generally. The entire board, including the controller, is now engaged in the work. We are getting up our figures in a systematic manner, and when we have completed that part of the work we will view the property and pass judgment on the value. We are going through every county in the State in the same way. We have not taken up Mr. Dalton's assessment or gone through his figures. We have his assessment to deal with when it comes before the State Board."

REASONS.

Water Companies Compared.

The Contra Costa's Breakdown.

It Is Making Pitiful Pleas for Patronage.

Brought to Its Knees It Shows the White Feather.

Editor Tribune—SIR: I have been a patron of the Contra Costa Water Company twenty years, chafing constantly by reason of the necessity.

When the Oakland Water Company became a competitor of the corporation that had so long exercised the arrogant privileges of a tyrannical monopoly, I hastened to give in my support to the new enterprise.

I am only a small property holder, but I have paid the Contra Costa Company at least a thousand dollars more than a fair price for the water supplied to my premises.

The new company offered me a better service at a less rate and I was glad to accept the proposition. I would have paid the monopoly rate rather than miss the opportunity of teaching my ancient master a lesson in personal independence.

"OAKLAND, April 21, 1895.

"Dear Sir: We will supply water for the three houses owned by you at a rate of 80 cents per house, or $2 40 a month for the three houses.

"Hoping that you will consider this a fair and reasonable proposition, we await an early reply.

C. C. WATER CO.

I have not yet answered this remarkable epistle, but I propose to do so now in the form of an open letter to the Contra Costa Water Company, which I offer for publication in the columns of THE TRIBUNE in the hope that it may have the effect of strengthening the backbone of some of my neighbors who seem inclined to favor the corporation at the present juncture simply because the old company is offering a very bad water at a very low price.

You are at liberty to use my name and address if you see fit or if any question should arise touching the authenticity of my relations with the old company during the period when I was forced to submit to its exactions, extortion and insolence.

Yours truly, M. R. K.

Oakland, May 14th.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Managers of the Contra Costa Water Company—GENTLEMEN: I am grateful to you for this opportunity of informing you why I have ceased to patronize your corporation.

I feel that I am voicing the sentiments of thousands of citizens of Oakland and that I am therefore performing a public duty when I give my personal reasons for refusing to continue my support.

In the first place I have never wanted your water.

The fact that you owned a monopoly in this necessity compelled my patronage, I could not escape the evil which that monopoly inflicted and I was forced to submit with as good grace as possible.

One reason why I objected to your water supply was its unwholesome quality.

I believe you have never denied the fact that the water you furnish is unfit for human consumption; that it is impregnated with the filthy drainage of a watershed occupied by human habitations, surrounded by cow pastures, outhouses and hog wallows reeking with animal refuse and the garbage of the various streams sewering into the streams tributary to your reservoirs.

If you have ever denied the unwholesome condition of your water supply I have failed to be informed of the fact, and your occasional pretense of "improvement" by means of so-called "filtering" apparatus is sufficient proof that you know the unhealthy condition of the water supplied from your reservoirs.

That is one reason why I refuse to patronize your company when I have an opportunity to get my water supply elsewhere.

A PETTY BRIBE.

The Oakland Water Company is furnishing water absolutely pure, fresh and sweet, as it gushes from the bowels of the earth where it cannot by any possibility become contaminated with the filth and poison that has long rendered your water the most undesirable for drinking, from a sanitary standpoint in the world.

But I have other reasons for discontinuing my patronage of your company.

When you had the opportunity to do so you charged me "all the traffic would bear."

I do not know that I can blame you for exercising your monopoly privilege to the fullest extent, while that privilege existed.

By the same reasoning you cannot blame me for thus rebuking your extortion when "the shoe is on the other foot."

You seem to imagine that you can bribe me into compliance with your purposes. You offer me "a lower rate"—a rate, by the way, $2 20 less than that charged when you had the "whip handle" of this community.

I hope, however, that even you may not hereafter so misjudge me as to think that I could forget my manhood to the extent of kissing the hand that has so mercilessly chastised me in the past.

You have dealt me many vigorous blows upon one cheek, but I refuse to present the other for castigation. You have taken my coat, but you cannot have my cloak.

During twenty years I paid you at least 50 per cent more than I ought to have paid for a very bad quality of water. I paid you a higher price than was paid by the citizen of any other civilized community in the world. The records will prove that assertion.

A MISERABLE RESOURCE.

And now that you are confronted by an opposition that seriously threatens your financial integrity you seek to destroy your rival by underselling him at a rate which must entail upon you a considerable loss in every instance.

It is indeed a pitiful resort.

You cannot compete with the new company in the quality of the water furnished and you attempt to hold your patronage by virtually giving your water away, hoping that you may be able to stand the pressure longer than "the other fellow."

Do you imagine that the people of Oakland are ignorant of your purpose?

Do you think we are so blind that we do not understand your motives?

And do you, for one moment, believe that you have adopted a winning policy?

As for myself, I would pay the new company your old monopoly rate before I would receive your water for nothing.

I am actuated in this by principle.

I am an American citizen and claim the right to assert my personal independence whenever occasion may require.

I regard this as one of the occasions when American manhood should rise superior to the petty consideration of such a bribe as you offer; to rebuke the arrogance and extortion of such a monopoly as you once inflicted upon this community; and I consider it the civic duty of every honest, self-respecting citizen of Oakland to sustain the competitor that has come to oppose you.

A CONTRAST.

The Oakland Water Company is a public benefactor.

If it had not been for the enterprise and business spirit of these gentlemen Oakland would still be subject to the extortion and insolence of your monopoly.

It is not just, it is not honest, that we should compel this enterprise to meet you on the basis of the rates that you now offer.

We should be glad to sustain the new company in its opposition to a corporation that has so long sucked sustenance from the pockets of rich and poor alike—charging the day laborer and the workingman struggling to secure a little home for his family in the same proportion as it levied on the millionaire.

We should understand that your present attitude is merely a game at which you would compel your competitor to play, which, if successful, would result in a return to the old monopoly, with all its attendant evils of extortionate rates, filthy water and personal insolence.

I am of the opinion, however, that you reckon without your host.

I do not believe that the people of Oakland will accept your bribe of a profitless rate.

I do not think that my fellow citizens will ask the company that has freed us from the Contra Costa monopoly to injure itself in competition with a concern that has shown as little regard for decency or the rights of the people as yours has done.

FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD

These are some of the reasons that have moved me to withdraw my patronage from the Contra Costa Water Company.

The Contra Costa Water Company is not.

The Oakland Water Company is an enterprise that has added to the wealth of the city.

The Contra Costa Water Company has always pursued a policy of selfish aggrandizement, demanding the fattest dividends for the poorest service and the worst water in the world.

The Oakland Water Company has proved itself a public benefactor.

The Contra Costa Water Company has never contributed to the general welfare of the community.

Under the circumstances, therefore, I consider it my duty, and the duty of my fellow citizens, to cease our patronage of the Contra Costa Water Company and to give our full support and assistance to the Oakland Water Company—an enterprise that is accomplishing more for the best interests of the city than any other business effort since the community was founded. HORNPIPE.

An Outsider Is the Winner.

He Was Posted at 20 to 1.

Dr. Rice and Ramapo Not in It.

Lazarone Was Second and Sir Walter Third.

GRAVESEND RACE TRACK, BROOKLYN, N. Y., May 15.—The weather for the day of the great Brooklyn handicap was anything but satisfactory this morning, as the sky was overcast with rain threatening every minute and the track wet and soggy.

The horses had little work during the last three days, and no chances of slipping in the mud was taken.

Dr. Rice and Ramapo have the most followers, but Rey el Santa Anita is favored by many.

In spite of the fact that Ramapo has not started this year, he is looked upon as the most dangerous horse in the lot, because his trainer, John Hyland, was never known to send an unfit horse to the post.

His only drawback is the fact that Jockey Griffin will carry a great deal of lead to make weight and will need all his strength to hold the great horse. At the same time he is undoubtedly the best of light-weight jockeys.

Dr. Rice, who won the race last year, will have the services of the best of all jockeys, Taral.

Rey El Santa Anita will be ridden by Bergen.

Sir Walter is not in favor. He was not taken to the track until just before the race, in order that he might not get out of condition owing to his refusal to eat after being sent to the new track.

Daggett will ride him.

Rubicon is well thought of. He showed a great turn of speed last year, but not over a handicap distance. Midgeley is his jockey.

Bassetlaw should be well managed by Littlefield. Although he is not the horse he was two years ago, he may make them all run, if he does not carry off the rich prize.

Declare likes the mud and so does Ed. Kearney.

Counter Tenor is the only 3-year-old among the likely starters. A 3-year-old has never won the handicap and no one looks to see the precedent reversed this year, although Campbell is fond of a surprise and may reverse the Diablo coup.

THE STARTERS.

The starters will probably be as follows:

Horse	Weight.	Jockey.
Ramapo	127	Griffin
Sir Walter	124	Daggett
Dr Rice	122	Taral
Rey el Santa Anita	118	Bergen
Rubicon	118	Midgley
Lazarone	113	Murphy
Bassetlaw	109	Littlefield
Declare	106	J. Lamley
Hornpipe	105	Hamilton
Counter Tenor	100	Lamley
Ed Kearney	97	Penny
Assignee	95	Keefe

PRELIMINARY RUNS.

The handicap horses were out for gentle gallops before noon, but none were more than cantered.

Ed Kearney's owner disclosed that the horse had a chance of his life on the track and would keep them all guessing from start to finish.

A strong wind and occasional sunshine helped to put the track in condition, so it was thought the course will be moderately fast by the time the racing begins.

It was about noon when the spectators began to arrive.

In former years the track has been lined with bookmakers and employes, while a tout was in evidence everywhere. This year touts were hanging around outside the gates with no means of getting in.

THE FAVORITES.

The choice was generally settled down upon Dr. Rice and Ramapo. The going suits both horses, and as Taral and Griffin are the best jockeys in their class a fine race is expected.

It is conceded on all sides that the race is the most open since the establishment of the handicap, and that under the conditions any of the lot might win.

The attendance was but moderate at 1 o'clock, although the weather is greatly improved.

THE BETTING.

The average of quotations in the books is as follows: Dr. Rice, 2½ to 1 and 4 to 5; Ramapo, 2½ to 1 and even; Rey El Santa Anita, 3 to 1 and 7 to 5; Sir Walter, 8 to 1 and 3 to 2; Rubicon, 10 to 1 and 3 to 1; Lazaron, 20 to 1 and 7 to 1, Bassetlaw, 20 to 1 and 8 to 1; Declare, 25 to 1 and 10 to 1; Hornpipe, 20 to 1 and 8 to 1; Assignee, 40 to 1 and 12 to 1; Counter Tenor, 30 to 1 and 12 to 1; Ed. Kearney, 15 to 1 and 4 to 1.

THE RESULTS.

First race, Sweepstakes for all ages, six furlongs—Domino won; Wernberg, second; Patrician, third. Time, 1 17.

Second race, mile—Owlet won; Kennett, second, Hermanita, third. Time, 1.17.

THE BIG EVENT.

It was 4 30 when the horses went to the post for the great handicap.

At that time more than 20,000 people were there to watch.

The sun was shining brightly and the air was warm and pleasant.

The track had dried out considerably, but was a little heavy.

Hornpipe wins.

Lazarone, second.

Sir Walter, third.

Hornpipe won by one length; Lazarone, second, half a length; Sir Walter, third.

Hornpipe came with a burst of speed in the last few lengths.

SHE BOBS UP.

Diss de Bar Has Dug Up Lots of Trouble.

CHICAGO, May 15.—Mrs. William J. McGowan, formerly Vera Ava, alias Ann O'Delia, Miss De Bar, who a few years ago created a sensation in the East, has been arrested on a warrant sworn out by Miss Phoebe Love of this city on charges of making threats to kill and larceny as bailee.

Miss Love says she came to Chicago last year from Detroit, Wis., and intended to take a course of music lessons.

She, with her father, took rooms on West Harrison street, and soon after met Mrs. McGowan. The latter was introduced as Miss Ava and won her confidence.

Continuing, Miss Love says she was continually bewailing her fate, and said that she was being persecuted.

Two months ago Miss Love removed to a house on Park Row, where she claims Vera assumed control and refused to admit her, after Miss Love had been away for two weeks.

So warrants were sworn out, Miss Love averring that Mrs. McGowan had threatened to kill her if she attempted to force her way into the house.

At the station Mrs. McGowan declared she had been married to a man worth $60,000.

She said Miss Love had been her husband's housekeeper and had been retained after the marriage.

Mrs. McGowan also said Miss Love has a husband in the penitentiary and she threatened to make it warm for those who were persecuting her.

Miss Love denies all this and says she has never been married.

A BIG RAISE.

Assessor Dalton's Figures on the Railroad.

He Has Tackled Everything in West Oakland.

Forty Miles of Sidings Are Now Placed on the List.

County Assessor Dalton this morning completed his figures on the railroad assessment at West Oakland. These figures were placed on the books and will now be put to the test.

The personal property in the West Oakland yards, including machinery and the like, has been assessed at $200 000. Last year the property was assessed at $68,650, the same as it had been for many years. Mr. Dalton's figures gives the company a raise of $131,350

The real estate which includes the West Oakland yards has been assessed at $277,-250. Last year the property was assessed at $92 400 The raise on this property amounts $184 800

The improvements on the property last year were assessed at $12,000. This year Mr Dalton has placed the figures at $16 000

One of the most important assessments that went on record today was that of forty miles of sidings in the West Oakland yards Mr Dalton claims that these tracks are no part of the main line and in consequence it is within his province to make the assessment The value of these tracks is placed at $60 0 0 This property has never before been assessed by a County Assessor in the history of the county Heretofore it has been taken for granted that the sidings were a part of the main line system and were supposed to be assessed by the State Board of Equalization Mr. Dalton says that he will stand by the figures that he has made and will be ready to battle for the correctness of the assessment

"I believe that I have been fair in making these figures," said Mr. Dalton. "I have now completed the West Oakland yards and have gone to the mole and the ferryboats. The assessment of the latter is not an easy thing to make and I have have put some experts to work to complete the figures In about a week or ten days I will have the assessment of railroad property in this city about completed."

Extraordinary Scene in Judge Murphy's Court.

The Prisoner Is Feigning Insanity in a Clever Way.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15 — William Fredericks was before Judge Murphy this morning for sentence for the murder of Cashier Herrick.

Fredericks roared, kicked and bit everyone who approached, bumping his head against the table and chairs until he was covered with blood.

His attorney was not present, and Judge Murphy ordered attorney Colwell to be cited for contempt, postponing sentence until Friday, as nothing could be obtained from Fredericks

The scene was extraordinary.

During the absence of Judge Murphy from the courtroom Fredericks subsided, but broke out again when the judge reappeared.

MANY CLAIMS.

The United States Land Court in Session.

Reavis' Big Suit Is to Be Disposed Of.

Huge Frauds Regarding It Are Now Being Talked Of.

SANTA FE, N. M., May 15.—The United States Court of Private Land Claims has convened here for a sixty days' trial.

A very large docket has been arranged, and among the cases is the famous Peralta grant in Arizona and Southwest New Mexico, which will come to trial in June.

This claim has been hanging over the best part of Arizona for thirty-five years. It has delayed settlement and development because of clouded title.

United States Attorney M. G. Reynolds says he is prepared not only to defeat the right of the present claimants to the allege grant, but to go even further and challenge the existence of such grant to the alleged Baron Peralta.

In other words, the Government investigation just concluded by Mr. Reynolds, discloses that the claim to the property, valued at $75,000,000 and growing in value rapidly, rests upon nothing but a stupendous foundation of fraud

Mr. Reynolds believes that the Government will be able to do more than this, as he has collected the evidence which will show the parties responsible for the manufacture of the bogus title, and of the false testimony and records.

WILL BE OPENED.

The Board of Public Works will act as commissioners in the matter of assessing benefits and damages to accrue from the opening of the thoroughfare. This is the first street to be opened through to the bay on the western side of the city. The proposed opening was opposed by the railroad company on the ground that there was no public demand for the work, and that it would interfere with the handling of freight at Sixteenth street station.

LOVE-SICK.

Miss Clara Mahle to Go to an Asylum.

Her Reason Fled Because She Was Jilted

Miss Clara D. Mahle, 24 years of age, was committed to the Napa Insane Asylum by Judge Greene this morning, at the request of her brother, N F. Mahle of Marysville The case was rather a pathetic one, and the relatives of the girl disliked to tell the facts.

Miss Mahle was jilted by a young minister at Stockton about five years ago and she never recovered from the disappointment She was engaged to be married and had gone so far as to make arrangements for her wedding. The young lady never recovered from the disappointment, when her lover jilted her. Her relatives sent her East, and she traveled for nearly a year. It was hoped that the change of scene and the new surroundings would cause her to forget the past The trip did her little good, however, and when she returned to Marysville it was noticed that she was even worse. Miss Mahle was infatuated with the fellow who wrecked her life and she could not forget him. Under the continual worry her mind commenced to give away and it was deemed best to send her to Fabiola Hospital, where she could have proper treatment The girl has been at the institution several weeks, but she has been steadily growing worse During the past few days she has become violent and it was found necessary to have her examined for insanity. Her brother was sent for and when he saw the condition of his sister, he concluded that the asylum was the best place for her. Miss Mahle continually calls for the man who jilted her, and she cannot be pacified.

This afternoon she will be taken to Napa. The relatives of the girl will not give out the name of the minister who caused her to go insane.

A TEST CASE.

The Home Insurance Company Wins a Point.

Judge Greene decided a test case this afternoon which is of importance to insurance companies. The Home Insurance Company sued Cleveland & Hopkins to recover a small premium. The defendants took out a policy and then surrendered it. In this policy there was a printed clause that either side could cancel it. There was also a rubber stamp clause which says that on condition of the reduced rate the assured agrees not to surrender. Judge Greene decided that the rubber stamp clause has the preference and the plaintiff won the case. Fred Button was attorney for the plaintiff and Sam Bell McKee represented the defendants.

Kauffman, death watch, $35, Dr. C. B. Brigham, $1600, Dr. H. E. Muller, $50, Dr. G. C. Beck, $50; Dr. Huntington $50, Dr. W. V. Taylor, $50; George E. De Golia, $275.

FOUND GUILTY.

The Salvationists Lose in the Police Court.

Judge Wood Decides They Must Get Permits.

The Case Will Now Be Submitted to the Superior Bench.

Judge Wood this morning convicted W S Sherwood of obstructing the streets Sherwood's case was used as a test in the matter of the arrest of the Salvation Army several weeks ago for violating an ordinance which prohibits street preaching without a permit from the Mayor. The case was tried and submitted without any defense Police Officer Stokes was the only witness, and he simply related the fact of the meeting at Tenth and Broadway and the failure of the officers of the army to produce their permits

The case in point covered the entire sixteen members of the army who were arrested at the time. Judge Wood in his decision, held that the ordinance was valid upon its face and he had no other course to pursue than to find the army guilty.

There was no attempt this morning to argue the case, as that was done several days ago by Judge E M Gibson, who demurred to the complaint as based upon an unconstitutional ordinance.

The next move that will be made has not quite yet been decided upon The case will be very speedily taken to the Superior Court, as soon as sentence is passed upon Sherwood It is probable that the matter will be taken up on an application for a writ of habeas corpus, when the argument can be made as to the validity of the ordinance

The army will not rest until the question is finally determined, even if they have to go to the Supreme Court. The point involved by the ordinance is whether the Council can restrict the holding of public meetings in the manner they have The ordinance is not prohibitive. It only restricts the use of the streets within the fire limits, unless the consent of the Mayor be obtained.

President Kellogg Reviews the Work of the Year

The twenty-sixth commencement of the University of California took place this afternoon in Harmon Gymnasium, Berkeley, and was very largely attended. The gallery was decorated with pepper branches and festoons of geranium and the walls were hung with palm leaves.

The stage was occupied by President Kellogg, several members of the faculty and the Board of Regents.

The exercises opened with an overture by the orchestra after which, Rev. Dr. J. K McLean offered prayer.

The first essayist was Fred Hanley Seares, who spoke on "The Value of Liberal Science."

"Within the years of the present century that have already passed," he said, "the life of the human race has assumed more and more complex forms The different branches of the race have been brought into closer union A new interdependence has sprung up between them. The life of the individual and the nation has assumed new duties and greater responsibilities. It has been an age of transition from idealism to materialism, and out of this materialism has come the demand for something which would so fit and equip the man that he may, with the least expenditure of energy, best fulfill those new duties and acquit himself of those new responsibilities. This demand has been so great that the ideal methods of thought and life have been largely lost sight of The transition has been from the one extreme to the other, and men seem to have forgotten, or never to have recognized, that between the two extremes there lies a happy mean.

"Nearly every branch of knowledge has its two sides, one the practical, which finds a direct application to the conditions and relations of life, the other, the non-practical or non-utilitarian, which has no immediate effect on such life Of science this is preeminently true, and, in this case, the one side we call technical or applied science, the other, abstract or pure or liberal science. It is of this latter that I wish to speak."

Mr Seares then considered in the first class Hershel, La Place, Young, Cavendish, Lavoisier Of this number of men, he said he thought that not one ever produced a single invention or made a single application of his science which has had any direct bearing on the practical affairs of life Wherein then he asked, lies the value of the work done by these men?

The answer, he said, is simply this: "Pure science is the fore-runner of applied science, and without pure science, the applied sciences could never have existed. Applied science is pure science adapted to particular classes of problems. It consists of deductions for general principles established by observation, comparison and classification, reasoning and generalization."

Mr Seares considered the difference between the methods of the investigator and the technician, and thus brought out the effect of the pursuit of the pure sciences upon the powers of observation, memory, abstraction, generalization and reason.

He then said "It opens the mind, corrects it, refines it and enables it to know and to use its knowledge and, in a word, leads to culture, that end and aim of a liberal education. The great need of modern culture is to find some effectual agency for cherishing within us an ideal. Mr. Morley tells us this is the foundation of literature, for if you follow to a last analysis the mental processes involved in a pursuit of the pure sciences, you will find that it leads directly to those influences which not only cherish but actually develop the idea."

Mr. Sears called attention to the condition of science at the present time. He said that a great number of the men of the last century who worked in science were investigators. Since then the workers have been appliers who have been using the result of the labors of these investigators.

The work of the practical scientific men is of the utmost importance, and should receive all the encouragement possible. Encouragement has been given to these workers but, at the same time, the investigator had been neglected. "In doing this," he said, "we are neglecting that which has been one of the most important factors in producing the civilization of the present."

"This," he continued, "is but the tendency of the modern scientific education. The demand is for that which is practical. There has been too much differentiation without proper consideration of the mutual bearings of the different branches of science, too much specialization I say, for it must be remembered that the mere specialist, even though he works in the lines of pure science, is just as narrow as the man who knows nothing of sciences but its applications. And last y, there is lack of sufficient opportunity for those who have the ability to carry on original research. The man who enters upon such work has less to expect in remuneration and more to contend with than he would in almost any of the other lines of human occupation. Yet, only too often is he left to himself to get on as best he may, and, as a consequence, he accepts a position in a professor's chair, where most of his time must be devoted to lectures and classes, while his labors of investigation, if not made entirely impossible becomes at least a secondary matter. Herein seems to be a weak point in the organization of our present system of scientific work. It is along these lines that we must guard ourselves if we would put our universities upon a plane where they shall command the respect of the world."

There was then another overture, after which William Henry Gorrill discoursed on "Is the Method of Jurisprudence Exclusively Scientific?"

"There is a general tendency toward interest in science," said Mr Gorrill. "This has an important influence on law and jurisprudence.

"The danger lies in three facts:

"First—The devotion of the English people to their Common Law system.

"Third—The general tendency of the public mind toward the interests of science—toward whatever is, rather than toward whatever ought to be.

"From a priori considerations alone we may be sure that real danger threatens us.

Walter Huddleston Graves then read a poem entitled, "Misanthropos."

MISS FELTON'S ESSAY.

Then came more music, after that Miss Katherine Conway Felton, the Oakland girl who won the gold medal, discoursed on "Faith in Moral Consciousness."

"History presents two distinct civilizations," she said, "the Occidental, based upon the conception of the dignity, the freedom, the reality of man; the Oriental, upon his utter nothingness. Life is made up of unsatisfied desires, of unrealized hopes, and hence is, in its essence, pain. The wise man realizes this, ceases to desire and so ceases to live. The history of the Orient is the record of stagnation, that of the Occident the record of individual activity and progress.

"So inherent, in the Western mind, is the belief in its freedom, that even at a time when it still retained theoretical conceptions derived from the Orient it could not carry them out in its actual life. In Homer, above the gods themselves, rules an unconscious, all-powerful fate, indifferent to the moral needs of man and destroying the good and bad alike. Yet, when Homer wishes to portray his hero, he cannot conceive him as a mere slave of destiny and so Fate is made the decree simply that the death of Achilles shall follow that of Hector, leaving the former to choose between life and its pleasures and horror and death. The grandeur and pathos of the story lie wholly in that intense moral struggle, and final victory of duty. The same thing is illustrated in the "Œdipus."

"During the last century the discoverers of science have forced the Western mind to discard many of its old ideas. The reign of law has been discovered in one department of nature after another, and the possibility of arbitrary change has been farther and farther removed. Finally, science has demanded for its principles a universal application and has sought to bring under them man himself, making him the highest product of evolution, to subject him to the laws of nature and thus to leave no room for freedom. This attempt to reduce man to a product of evolution has forced upon the scientist the task of explaining the complicated nature of man as a gradual development, the result of adaptation to environment. This has brought about the theory that the world is becoming peopled only by a race who are by nature social with whom perfect egotism tends to be perfect altruism. That conduct is moral which fits a man for his environment; and obligation is simply inherited feeling in favor of such conduct. The law of cause and effect rules the physic world as absolutely as it does the physical."

Applying this theory to the individual, in his present and past relations and to the State, Miss Felton found it unsatisfactory. She deduced the following: "Thus, in the light of this interpretation of science the scientific and moral consciousness seem to be antagonistic. And yet they are both claims of one and the same reason in its search for the rational. Unless man's nature is intrinsically at war with itself, some reconciliation must be possible; and yet the reconciliation cannot consist in the subordination of the moral nature, for this, as we have shown, must be absolute. Morality must be supreme, or it is nothing; obligation must be unconditional, or it is meaningless; the ought cannot be transferred into the is."

After reviewing the theories of Kant, as throwing light on this conflict, Miss Felton concluded, "And thus we see that the final result of the Kantean philosophy is to vindicate that conception of man's nature which is inherent in the Western mind, which finds embodiment in the Christian religion of whatever form, and in that religion alone—the conception of the dignity, freedom, the reality of man."

PRESIDENT KELLOGG'S REVIEW.

The attendance, he said, had been 87 per cent greater this year than during previous years; but the number of instructors of all ranks had increased only 18 per cent. The courses of study were more by 27 per cent. Professional colleges in San Francisco had made a decided advance. Within the last four years the attendance had more than doubled, and the University might now be called one of the great universities of the country.

"We have, all told," the president continued, "nearly 1800 students who have studied many years before entering. The past year has seen advances in the material equipment necessary for successful study. The important building erected for mechanical and electrical engineering is now available for use in all its lines of work. A laboratory has been fitted up for the civil engineering department, affording facilities for testing the strength of materials. A new plant house has been added to the equipment of the college of agriculture. Aside from the too small funds allotted to the University library, it has reached individual gifts, the most important one the large private library of the late Dr. E. B. Wentworth. The Lick Observatory has received helpful donations, culminating in the recent gift of a magnificent reflecting telescope from Sir Edward Crossley. The money needed to transplant and set up this telescope was raised in a few days in San Francisco. Our institute of art in San Francisco has received handsome gifts from its munificent patron, Mr. Searls.

"A new affiliation during the year is that of a Veterinary College, which begins its work with a competent faculty and a strong board of trustees. J. C. Wardding has left to the regents of the University a bequest of $400 000 for an industrial school. The fund will probably be in their hands in the early autumn of this year.

"A very significant and welcome benefaction of the year was the appropriation by the Legislature of $250,000 for a home of professional study in San Francisco, to bring together four of our affiliated colleges. The spirit of this gift, in a year of financial stress, is proof of the care of the State for the best interests of its University. The new building will be a most important center of University life in San Francisco.

"We asked for another like sum, which we failed to obtain. We showed that the remarkable prosperity of the University was now its chief embarrassment. Our buildings at Berkeley were overcrowded, our income had been largely devoted to new structures, our teaching staff was insufficient. The situation was growing more critical with the arrival of each new class, larger than any former one. We had not room enough nor equipment enough for the eager students who had been invited to our courses.

"This experience brings vividly before us the need of supplemental aid. Our State is great and rich and proud. It has dealt gently with us, and it will not suffer its own brightest institution of learning to lose its prestige. But it cannot be relied on to do everything. It cannot be expected to go in advance of the average public sentiment. It is of the very nature of education to rise above the average, to take the lead of the people at large, to be in the van of a progressive and refining civilization. Who is to come in to give this additional momentum? Evidently, it must be the enlightened, far-seeing, public-spirited private citizen. The best results of the higher education depend on his willingness to help with a generous hand. He must acquaint himself with the actual needs of the University. He must come and see how important new buildings are waiting for him to be the best monument he can raise, how that treasury of learning and science, the library, is hungry for his benefactions; how the ever growing demands of modern scientific instruction ask of him new laboratories, new equipment, additions to all scientific collections; how all linguistic and historical and literary study calls for new appliances; how all the departments of instruction are in pressing need of endowments, like those of D. O. Mills and Edward Tompkins. That enlightened, farseeing, public-spirited citizen, if he has money to spare, can see here how it can be put to the best possible use. * * *

"Millionaires are very good in their way and they make large endowments. But 'many littles make a muckle.' A shower of small gifts may come to rival a single large one. At any rate, every gift tells in a good cause. If one cannot erect the costly building, he can put something in it to increase the use or its beauty. If he cannot found a great library, he can add a little to the available treasure. If he cannot endow a chair he may perhaps establish a scholarship.

"The call all over the land is to go forward. The universities of the Atlantic coast are multiplying their facilities. Harvard and Yale were once helped by the State, but now rely on large private benefactions. The State universities of the interior find supplementary helpers. Michigan has such public spirited citizens, who add to the value of her noble institution.

"Help that is given for the best education of our sons and daughters is help to a noble cause. The best interests of the Golden State demand these elevating and refining influences. The State will be remembered for its products of gold. It will become more and more attractive for its wealth of fruitage and its beauty of bloom. It will develop vast commerce with the nations of the world. But no claim will surpass, I had almost said—none will equal that of a great center of learning, a cosmopolitan home for the age for the treasured literature and thought and wisdom of all ages. Harvard is a child of glory of Massachusetts, Yale of little Connecticut and Michigan of the State whose name it bears. It rests with this generation to make California equally renowned for its highest institution of learning."

A CAMPER'S TRIP.

Opportunity to Make a Selection of a Summer Resort.

Camping out, no matter how much one may like it, is anything but enjoyable, unless the camper locates in a place according to his liking and calculated to enable him to enjoy even the dullest moments which may be imagined in camp life. Colonel W H. Menton, the excursion passenger agent of the Southern Pacific Company is aware of this fact and has hit upon a happy means of enabling people who desire to camp to do so in places which are all that may be desired. With this end in view tomorrow, he will run what may be called an intending campers' excursion train. The train will be run on the South Pacific Coast line, the narrow gauge road, into the Santa Cruz mountains. The object of the train is to enable people who desire to take an outing to see the various beautiful places on the road and then make their selection with a knowledge of the circumstances. The excursion will leave the foot of Market street, San Francisco, tomorrow morning at 7 15 o'clock. The first stop will be at Alma where people will be given sufficient time to look around and find out the beauties and advantages of the place. There will be a stop of half an hour at Wrights and another at Laurels. Then Glenwood will be visited, and at the Big Trees there will be a stop for lunch of an hour and a half and a jolly time is sure. After lunch visits will be made to Felton, Ben Lomond and Boulder Creek. The excursionists will return to San Francisco at 8 P M. Colonel Menton knows how to manage an excursion of this kind and will surely make this one a success and a means of information and pleasure to all the participants.

JOSEPH S. MARSHALL,

First Vice-President of the Veteran Firemen, Wins $30,000

When good fortune comes to a worthy citizen who commands the respect of all who know him it is a source of more than ordinary gratification. Such a man is Joseph S. Marshall, than whom there is no one better known or more highly esteemed among the business people of San Francisco and especially among the old fire laddies. Mr. Marshall is the proprietor of the popular "Oyster House," 91-92 Center Market corner of Sutter and Dupont streets, and he resides at 910 Clay street. He is a pioneer of San Francisco and a member and officer of the Exempt Fireman's Association and also First Vice-President of the Veteran Firemen's Association of California.

It is a pleasant duty for the Report to announce that Joseph S. Marshall has won $30,000 in the Lottery of the Beneficencia Publica. He held a half ticket calling for that handsome amount in the drawing of April 25, 1895, and has since received every cent of the money in United States gold coin. The half ticket which drew him this rich prize cost him only $2, and it is no wonder that Mr Marshall declares that it was the best investment he ever made in all his life.

Among many fortunate holders of winning tickets in the Beneficencia Publica drawing of March, 1895 was a Mr Coldsmith of Fresno, Cal. He won $6000, which sum was promptly paid him in U. S. gold coin.

Board of Public Works.

At a meeting of the Board of Public Works last night the regular bills were ordered paid, and a proposition to repair the gutters at Eighth and Broadway, Tenth and Washington and Ninth avenue and Twenty-fourth street was referred.

James Gallagher and L. S. Bixby applied respectively for the positions of superintendent and assistant superintendent of streets. Their applications were placed on file.

BELIEVES IN PARKS.

Secretary Kaufman's Impressions of Eastern Breathing Spots.

George Kaufman has returned from his Eastern trip and has resumed his duties as secretary of the Board of Public Works.

Secretary Kaufman has come back to Oakland imbued with the idea that the Eastern cities have most beautiful parks. "They put money into them," said he, "and do not spare a cent in making them attractive."

Police and Fire.

At a meeting of the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners yesterday it was decided to hold an investigation of the case of E. W. Tallman on Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Tallman was suspended by Chief Lawton from the fire department for refusing to give up his place to a Native Son during the Native Sons' parade. The usual routine business was transacted.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

CROOKED WORK.

Frank J. Cruz Will Yet Land in Prison.

He Has Been Duping a Number of Bicycle Houses.

Frank J. Cruz, a young Alameda, is in trouble with the police, who only released him from custody a few days ago after holding him for five days. Cruz was arrested on a charge of forgery, but the interested parties failed to come to the front and swear to a complaint. Cruz was kept in custody for nearly a week, but as no complaint was filed it was necessary to release him. Chief Schaefer has in his possession a check for $12 50, drawn in favor of Cruz, and signed by George C Ralf, an Alameda coal merchant, who says his name was forged. The check was cashed by McSorley Brothers & Schrag, whose indorsement was upon its back.

There seemed no question that Cruz was unduly familiar in his use of other people's names in this connection, but as no one was willing to prosecute him he was allowed to go.

Now the police have discovered that Cruz has been involving himself in other peculiar transactions and they have determined to make an example of him.

For some time past several Alameda and Oakland bicycle firms have been complaining of the loss of bicycles rented for temporary use and subsequently found in pawnshops. Half a dozen wheels have thus disappeared and have subsequently been recovered and the police say that Cruz is the individual responsible for the transactions.

Chief Schaefer decided today to swear to a complaint himself charging Cruz with forgery and he has given instructions to have the young man arrested.

ALL A MISTAKE.

Durrant's Friends Are Confident of Success.

Important Points Are Raised in His Behalf.

Theodore Durrant did not kill Minnie Williams.

He did not kill Blanche Lamont.

The police force of San Francisco has made a mistake.

That is what his friends say and they insist that they can prove it.

On Good Friday, April 12th, Theodore Durrant met a young lady at the ferry station in San Francisco. He was recognized by several people, who have since testified to this fact.

The woman was not recognized. No person has been a witness for the prosecution who knew this woman with whom Durrant was seen.

This woman was not Marion Williams.

When Miss Williams left Alameda on the day she was killed, she carried an extension basket, a box of flowers and another parcel.

She was a slightly formed woman, one who, loaded as she was, would be noticeable.

She was accompanied from the boat to the car by a person with whom she had conversed on the boat and she got off the car at Mrs. Voy's house at 5 o'clock. She did not see Theodore Durrant at the ferry.

When she left Mrs. Voy's house after dinner she carried the flowers that she had brought from Alameda for the Easter decorations of the church.

Those flowers were calla lilies, white and yellow marguerites and roses. Of the lilies alone she carried a dozen.

The woman who was seen on Bartlett street by C. T. Hills carried no flowers.

The man who entered the church with Marion Williams was empty-handed. This is the testimony of the only person who claims to have seen the couple pass through the churchyard to the side door.

ABOVE all others, SPERRY'S FAMILY FLOUR.

My friend, look here! you know how weak and nervous your wife is, and you know that Carter's Iron Pills will relieve her, now why not be fair about it and buy her a box.

make the baby fat? For the thin baby is delicate, and is not half so cunning.

Scott's Emulsion is as easy a food as milk. It is much more effective in making thin babies fat, and they like it.

If all the babies that have been made fat and chubby and well by Scott's Emulsion could only tell their story to the mothers of other sickly babies!

WEDNESDAY.....MAY 15, 1895

A WASHINGTON special to the New York Herald is to this effect, "The Supreme Court has determined to absolutely annihilate the Income Tax law. This statement is made to-night on what appears to be absolutely reliable authority. It is, of course, impossible to say officially what will be the decision of the court in advance of its announcement, but the report comes from such a source as to leave very little room for doubt as to its accuracy." It may not be well to take much stock in this report. The formal decision on the income tax is to be rendered next Monday. It cannot be known on the outside with any certainty as to just what the form of that decision will be. The former decision was foreshadowed by the press some days in advance. There may be another surprise for the country.

IT does not look much as if the directors of the San Joaquin Valley Railroad Company were going to drop the tools and run. They have been in the Valley for some days examining routes, and doing a great deal of preliminary work. A meeting is to be held on Saturday to further perfect the organization of the company. The China Basin question is not yet settled. But there never has been any good ground for the inference drawn in certain quarters that the enterprise would fall through because the China Basin could not be procured on the exact terms demanded. Whether that can be made a franchise subject to mortgage, or otherwise, is not a question involving the existence of the road as subsequent developments will probably show. There is more than one water front that would answer admirably all the requirements of the Valley Road.

That Japanese Story.

There was a time when such a story as the San Francisco Bulletin published last evening about the Japanese invasion could not have been admitted to that paper. It was a poor compliment to the ordinary intelligence of readers to ask them to believe that within the past year 10,000 Japanese have found employment on the farms of the San Joaquin valley and other interior valleys of the State. There were less than 1000 Japanese who entered all the ports of the United States last year. Since the war began between China and Japan there has probably been a slight decrease of the number of Japanese immigrants. The story which the Bulletin concocted ought to have been published on the first of April. George K. Fitch would have turned a somersault it in his time any such imposition had been attempted. It certainly could not have found a place in his paper.

Of the five or six hundred Japanese who are coming to this country, the majority of them do not seek farm work. Nearly all the young men come with a view of obtaining an English education. They seek the very thing that the Chinese do not seek. Their chances are better in the cities than in the country. They will accept any service that will help them along to the one end they have in view. There are, of course, some exceptions to this rule. The younger Japanese have always a book in sight. They will work in the vineyards and fruit orchards to some extent. But the Japanese are not coming in any such numbers as this newspaper canard would imply.

There are probably more Japanese in San Francisco today than in all the rest of the State. They are there because so large a proportion of them are seeking the advantages of an English education. They can pick it up faster in the city than in the country. There are several young Japanese in the University of California. They are hard students. Some of them are paying their way by any odd jobs they can get. One of them has been working nights and mornings in Alameda, and during the past winter has gone every day on his bicycle to the University at Berkeley, making his daily rounds of study and work, and all the time a most indefatigable student. It is well to take account of the leading purpose of most of these Japanese. A few of them are farm laborers. But there are no ten thousand of them flocking annually to the farms of the interior, as this fiction writer would have the public believe.

A Campaign of Education.

It has been said that the last two Presidential contests were campaigns of education. The tariff was the issue. The country was well plastered over with tariff and anti-tariff literature. But when the campaigns closed the people were as wide apart in their conclusions as they were at the beginning. It is now in the wind that there is to be another campaign of education in the coming Presidential canvass. The tariff is to have the second place, and currency the leading place. The work of publishing the literature of the canvass has already begun. Every sort of financial vagary is to hold a place. There will be elaborate treatises on free coinage, bimetallism, the ratio of silver to gold, standards of value and so on.

There never could be a more favorable time for such a discussion. The country is about to settle a financial policy that may be continued for generations. All the political parties and nearly every faction of a party are coming into the field with their theories. These latter day discussions of a national policy have been greatly modified during the last few years. A quarter of a century ago the stump orator had everything his own way. It was expected that everybody interested in politics would hear a number of stump speeches in every Presidential contest, and would be greatly influenced by them. But now a large proportion of voters do not hear a single speech in the most exciting campaign. They depend upon the press, upon pamphlets and leaflets that are scattered broadcast over the land. Everybody reads more or less of this literature. It is easier to read it than to hear it delivered from the stump. Bureaus of publication send out millions of pages. Every great public speech dealing with what are supposed to be cardinal principles finds its way into print.

Everything that can be said or written on every side of the pending financial question will be laid before the public by the press. It is more than ever a form of campaign education for the eye rather than for the ear. This contest has already begun. That is, the first of the flood of printed matter has gone out. When the country has come to the last day of the campaign, it will probably divide very much as it did on the tariff question. One political party never extinguishes another, even in the hottest campaign. Seeing it is to be a campaign of financial education, the documentary flood will be greater than ever. It is the promotion of good government by discussion. Earnest men take opposite sides, and maintain as best they can their theories.

The discussion of financial principles requires a great deal of exact statement. Today the ablest financiers of the country are divided as to the best financial policy for the country. The fact that the discussion has already begun, at least six months in advance of the usual time for a Presidential campaign, indicates that the country is about to enter upon the most extended and thorough financial discussion ever known. It is one that will probably involve the rise and fall of parties. The campaign of financial education is at hand.

Last Hours of a Pioneer.

One of the most famous pioneers of the State is about to pass away. Peter H. Burnett has had much to do with the making of the Pacific coast. He took part in the organization of the Territory of Oregon more than half a century ago. He served there as a Territorial Judge. As Governor of California, a Judge of the Supreme Court, citizen, banker, historian, few men, even among the pioneers of California, attained so much prominence or filled public offices more acceptably than this distinguished citizen.

Ex-Governor Burnett was not the greatest of men. He had great opportunities, and he knew how to take advantage of them. He was recognized as a man of sterling character. His uprightness won the confidence of the public, and he never lost it. For many years ex-Governor Burnett had ceased to attract public attention. He had filled the measure of an active and honorable pioneer. He had aided in laying the foundation of the State, and and he had seen the great commonwealth firmly established on these pioneer foundations. It has been given to few men to make as much honorable history of the Pacific coast as this old pioneer now passing away.

Fifteen Apaches.

The largest number of Apaches that has thus far been reported as making war-like demonstrations is fifteen. It does not look as if they would be able to capture the country at present. But well equipped and finished up in war paint, they might scare a great many people. It is a long time since there has been any Apache outbreak in Arizona. The contractors have had dull times. If an Apache war could be started even fifteen renegades might do for a beginning.

The Apaches who leave the reservation do it generally with the connivance of white men, aided by the inefficient service rendered by those having special charge of these red rascals. It is not probable that there will be any Indian war in Arizona. But if the semblance of one could be started it would redound greatly to the profit of contractors and camp followers. The few Apaches now on the annual raid will probably skulk back to the mountains and be blanketed and fed for another raid. That is the kind of civilizing influence that the Apaches on or off the reservation always enjoy.

THE recent decision of Judge Ross of the Federal Court is one of the most important that has been rendered in many years touching land questions on this side of the country. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company claimed, as successor to the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad Company, all the lands that had been granted to the latter for purposes of construction. Settlers claimed that these lands had been forfeited by non-compliance with the terms of the grant. They settled upon the lands as a part of the Government domain. For some of these lands they received patents. They paid the Government the price demanded. The litigation over the title to these lands has been going on for some years. It looks now as if it had come to an end. The settlers have won their homesteads, subject to the contingency of an appeal, of which there is little prospect.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

Pasteur is the most distinguished graduate of the Paris Ecole Normale, which has just celebrated its hundredth anniversary. In commemoration of the event a tablet of black marble has been placed on the wall of his laboratory in the old Rue d'Ulm, now Rue Pasteur, inscribed: "Here stood Pasteur's laboratory. 1857, Fermentations. 1860, Spontaneous generation. 1865, Diseases of wines and beers. 1888 Silkworm distempers. 1881, Virus and vaccine. 1884-1888, Hydrophobia remedies." Above is a medallion with the letters L. P. interlaced.

A paper devoted especially to the egg has been started in Iowa, and Edward Atkinson contributes to it an estimate that 10,800,000,000 eggs are laid in the United States annually, and may fairly be valued at $140,000,000. This equals our pig iron and wool product put together.

Mexican onyx has suffered a gradual decline in value for many years past. It is generally becoming known that Mexican onyx is not true onyx, but a species of marble. It is really an arragonite and is composed of calcium, oxide of iron and magnesium. The presence of these last two elements gives it its beautiful color. It was used by the ancient Mexicans for masks, idols and similar small objects.

Roman lamps were of many sizes, but most of them very closely resembled what is at present denominated as sauce or gravy boat. At one end there was a ring, through which the finger was passed when the light was carried. The body of the vessel was filled with oil, and at the other end there was a small tube through which a rag wick was passed.

A 35 cents a cylinder Silas Loachman of Chicago has filled 250,000 phonographic cylinders with comic and other songs. It is said that he makes about $50 a day and that in the West he is the only man that has been found with a voice of the right quality for the work.

WEBSTER City, Ia., May 3.—This section of the State is becoming honeycombed with telephones, and every town within a radius of fifty miles will soon be connected with Webster City. The scheme is something new and surprising even to old telephone men, but it works like a charm. An inventive genius here struck upon the idea of making direct connections with the barbed wire on the fences that run along the prairie. He tried a line first between here and Duncombe. It was a success, and now he has an incorporated company which has just sprung into existence and is getting rich. A line was pitched on to the barbed wire fence between here and Williams, twenty miles away, in one day by two men, who used only eight or ten rods of insulated wire under the road crossings that pass over the railroad. He is laying a line to Boone, forty miles away, today, and if the barbed wire fences hold out he will push on to Des Moines or Missouri.—Daily Inter-Ocean.

Judge Priest of the United States District Court at St. Louis was so touched the other day by the letter of a counterfeiter's child pleading for mercy in behalf of her father that his Honor reduced a sentence of seven years, which he had ordered to be entered on the docket, to three years.

Sixty years ago Joseph Gillott was a working jeweler in Birmingham. One day he accidentally split one of his fine steel tools, and being suddenly required to sign a receipt and not finding a quill pen handy he used the split tool as a substitute. This happy incident led to the idea of making pens of metal.

Hermann Boerhaave, the illustrious scientist and physician, who accumulated a fortune estimated at 2,000,000 florins, said the poor were his best patients because God paid him for them.

Literary Chicago and Lard.

Notwithstanding the fact that Harold Montgomery lived in Chicago he had written a poem, and a lovely thing in mellifluous measure it was.

At least Harold thought so.

Daintily tying it with a soft blue ribbon he sent it away to the onbuisher in the far East, and with a throbbing heart he waited to hear what fortune was to be the poem's meed.

At last, one sweet summer day in June, it came back to him wafted on the flying wings of the post.

His heart fluttered in a strange struggle between hope and disappointment.

His wife, who had no music in her soul and had never felt the touch of poesy, stood by his side when he opened the missive from the East.

He read it through, hopefully at first, then dispairingly and his head fell upon his breast.

"What's the matter?" she inquired with wifely anxiety.

"My poem," he gasped.

"What of it?"

"The publisher says it needs shortening; think of that."

"Well," she said with an air of superior intelligence, "why don't you put some lard in it and send it back to him?"—New York Sun.

Little mimic of the sun
Hiding in the fragrant grass,
Have you any kisses won
From the pretty maids who pass?
When the sun slips down the west
Some fair girl shall come in quest
Of the secret which you lock
In your tiny golden breast;
You shall hear an airy knock,
And question: "What o'clock?

Ah, you dainty, snowy ghost,
See what bliss your wisdom brings!
Tell me, pray, what angels boast
Such a zephyr for their wings?
Just because the hour on hell
She repays you might well—
Wafts you off to paradise;
Sounds for you a gentle knell
Light your journey with her eyes;
Would that I were half so wise!

YALE'S
HAIR TONIC.

A Gray Hair Epidemic.

Never before has gray hair been so prevalent as at the present time. In the past centuries it was an uncommon occurrence to find a young or middle-aged person with gray hair, while at the present time it is a very common thing indeed, in fact, it is a deplorable epidemic among even young people. When the golden lock or raven tress begins to fade and turn gray prompt attention is required.

The Great Hair Restorer.

Yale' Hair Tonic is the only remedy known to bring back the natural color to gray hair. It acts on the coloring matter, circulation, and restores new life, youth and vitality to it. It is a tonic and a medicine—not a dye. The sunny golden lock is not affected by it, as it merely aids nature to perform its wonderful mission, and is by no means an artificial agent.

Baldness.

Yale's Hair Tonic makes hair grow on bald heads, stops hair falling in 24 hours to one week, makes hair grow as fast as it is possible or it to grow, cures dandruff and all hair or scalp diseases, a perfect hair dressing, contains no grease, not sticky, and is absolutely pure.

All druggists $1.00 per bottle; 6 for $5.00. Also Yale's Skin Food, $1.50; Yale's Complexion Cream, $1.00, Yale's Face Powder, 50c; Yale's Beauty Soap, 25c. Mme. Yale, Health and Complexion Specialist, Temple of Beauty, 146 State St., Chicago. Guide to Beauty mailed free.

VARIED VIEWS.

The Rights of the Council Are Talked Of.

Business Men Talk of the Effects Upon the Community.

The saloon issue continues to be an absorbing topic around town. The following additional interviews have been obtained by THE TRIBUNE:

Captain W. R. Thomas—I am in favor of closing the saloons on Sunday, but I think 10 o'clock would be early enough to close them on Saturday night.

J. S. Johnson—Let the saloon men take one day off in the week, the same as the rest of us. I would favor the closing of the saloons on Sunday, but I would let them run till 12 o'clock Saturday night, and then keep closed till 6 o'clock Monday morning.

A. J. Snyder—I am in favor of the strictest surveillance of the saloons by the police. I would have any saloon-keeper who sold liquor to a drunken man punished. But I would not close the saloons on Sunday. Everything else runs here. There is no Sunday law here. I would not have the saloons closed Saturday night, although some of them might be closed altogether. One of the injurious effects of Sunday closing would be noticed in the suburbs. The rowdies and tough element would congregate there and raise disturbance and annoy the people.

Judge Nye—I have no use for the saloon and personally I would not regret if no saloons existed. But I am not in favor of attempting to suppress the saloon unless it is backed by a strong and decisive public sentiment that is almost unanimous in favor of opposing the saloon. The travesty of such laws is found in the attempt to prosecute for selling liquor within a mile of the University. Men will perjure themselves to get on a jury to prevent a law from being enforced. They are asked if they have any prejudice against a certain law and they say they have not. They lied. But that is the result of attempting to enforce a law, regarding which, the sentiment is nearly balanced. I do not know the sentiment of the people in this city on the subject, but the sentiment ought to be practically unanimous against the saloon. That sentiment cannot be aroused in a moment. It is a matter of education. I do not think the closing of the saloons would hurt Oakland in a commercial sense.

Louis Schaffer, Washington Market—I interfere with no man's business. I treat the saloons just as I treat the churches. If I don't want to go to a saloon I don't go there, and if I do want to I go there. But I remain a great deal away from church. I believe it would injure Oakland a great deal. Times are very dull here now, anyway. If men cannot get a drink here on Sunday they can go almost anywhere for a nickel or to San Francisco for 10 cents. They will go to Temescal and other places and spend their money there, instead of in this city. It is not more than two years since I was in New York. Myself and my two brothers took a walk to Long Island and College Point, and, on our return in the evening, I asked if it would not be a good thing to get a glass of beer. My brothers agreed with me, but I said that I supposed all the saloons were closed. One of my brothers led the way into a house by a back entrance, and there there was a saloon in full blast. After a time a man came in and looked around, and made some inquiries, and soon was joined by another. Both talked together. When they had gone out I learned that the first visitor was the sergeant of the police and the other was a member of the police force.

E. G. Buswell—I am in sympathy with the home, not with the saloon, and, for that reason, am in favor of the saloons closing on Saturday night. When a man gets his pay Saturday night he ought not to spend it in the saloon. He ought to go home and remain with his family. Personally, I am in favor of closing saloons, but that would have to be done by the vote of the people. I think the Council has all the authority required to pass this ordinance. The saloon is a menace to morality, and should be closed.

J. L. Hierlihy—I am a prohibitionist, but I am opposed to the closing of the saloons on Sunday and Saturday night. That closing is only compromising with a business that there should be none with. It is a part violation of a contract. There is an agreement that these men shall be allowed to run their saloons every day in the week. To restrict them one day and one night is to break that agreement. Dr. Coyle said that the saloon is the broth of hell spewed over the community. If the saloon is the broth of hell at all, is it any the less broth on the other six days and nights that it is allowed to be spewed out at random?

A. J. Gregg—I favor the submission of this proposition to the people, because there is too much centralization of power now. But I would rather have submitted the question of saloon or no saloon. The temperance sentiment is growing in this city, but whether the seven members of the Council represent the majority of the people I cannot say. The city has licensed the saloons to run every day and to cut them off on Saturday night and Sunday would be to violate an agreement.

C. L. Ingier—I don't go to the saloons very much on Sunday, but on most every other day I drop in on them when I feel like it. But why should the saloons be closed on Sunday any more than any other business? If you close up the saloons, close up everything else. Stop the cars. Why should the cars be allowed to be run? I remember in Philadelphia when the cars, for six years, were stopped on Sundays and they finally got to running them only under the plea of carrying the United States mail. If the saloons are closed here visitors will remain away from us and we will lose by it. We ought to attract and not detract from the city.

MERCHANTS MEET.

The directors of the Merchants' Exchange held a long meeting last evening, and chose officers for the ensuing year. George L. Fish was honored with re-election as president without opposition. The same course was pursued in the case of William V. Wurcher as vice president. Henry D. Cushing was elected treasurer.

There was a fight over the office of secretary, which lasted a long time and ended in a deadlock. When nominations for that position were called for it developed that five applications were on file for the place. The applications were from George H. Furry, incumbent; Paul Schafer, ex-secretary of the Board of Health; L. T. Farr, W. W. Moody, and H. K. Snow.

The directors deliberated over the five names, and there was a very warm debate. Each of the candidates seemed to have partisans who were hot in his behalf. The matter occupied so much attention that other business was delayed until a late hour. No election of secretary was held, and it was postponed until next Tuesday night.

Jonas Brothers presented a communication suggesting that the Exchange undertake the proposition of holding a great Fourth of July celebration in which all the cities and suburban towns on this side of the bay be invited to participate.

A committee composed of F. K. Mott, George W. Arper, George L. Fish, F. Kahn and F. Sinclair was appointed to take charge of the matter and report at the meeting on Tuesday night.

The Sunday closing of saloons was discussed in an informal way and the attitude of the Exchange left open. A great deal of argument was indulged in, but nothing of an official character resulted. It seems a question whether the Exchange will consider the matter.

Making a Good Paper.

W. E. Bond, formerly of this city, and for about two years past manager of The Standard of Anaconda, Montana, has been rewarded with success in his new field of labor. The paper was enlarged on the first of this month to a seven-column, eight-page daily, with twelve pages on Sunday. It has also put in operation four linotype machines, which were made expressly for it in New York. The success of The Standard is in a great means due to Mr. Bond's effort, a circumstance which will be appreciated by his friends in this city.

Outdoor Exercises Make Health and Strength.

The society game of tennis is to be revived in Oakland. The boys are hard at work reorganizing the old Lakeside club. Already they have a fine list of members.

The University team is creating a sensation in the East. Manager North has completed the dates for the entire Eastern trip.

The Acme boys are looking forward to the coming entertainment with a good deal of interest. It is expected that there will be several clever boxing matches.

Following will be found a resume of the sporting events of the week:

THE UMPIRE.

THE members of the Reliance baseball team are not satisfied with the treatment they received at Woodland last Sunday. The boys say that the umpire robbed them of the game. It is the same old story that I have heard for years. In this instance, however, it took two umpires to get away with the game. The Reliance boys complain that they received very shabby treatment and they have no kind words for the Woodland young men. I am sorry that such a condition of affairs should exist, for the reason that it does not tend to boom amateur baseball. The game needs careful nursing, even in amateur circles, and charges of unfair conduct only tends to make the few remaining baseball men disgusted. This year we depend on the amateur players to keep the baseball enthusiasts in line, and they should have harmony in the ranks in the end of disputes. I do not blame the Reliance Club for entering a protest, because from what I have heard they certainly received unfair treatment. I do say, however, that the Woodland boys made a grave mistake in not treating their visitors in a more courteous manner. If there were any favors to be given they ought to have been shown on the side of the Reliance team, the members of which traveled a number of miles to engage in a sociable game of baseball. It will be a very long time before the Reliance boys will make another trip to Woodland. The score was 13 to 9, in favor of Woodland. The local boys say the score should have been 9 to 5, in favor of the Reliance.

***

The baseball enthusiasts on both sides of the bay will no doubt be pleased to learn that a new baseball park is to be laid out in San Francisco. The old Bay View Racetrack is to be turned into a park. The railroad company is said to be back of the movement, and will make many improvements. The grand stand and bleachers at the Haight street park are to be removed to the new site. The Haight street grounds are now useless so far as baseball is concerned. The land is now valuable for business and residence property and it will be cut up into lots. The new site is quite a distance out of town, but it can be easily reached by the electric cars. It is proposed to put the track in good order as soon as possible so that the baseball men will have a good place for their sport just as soon as a league is organized for business.

***

Colonel Tom Robinson has had a rough deal ever since he made such a grand show of himself at the Native Sons' parade. He received an injury on the leg while riding a horse which has proved quite serious. The colonel is now compelled to hobble around on crutches and he does not know when he will be able to discard them. Saturday the colonel went to the fiesta behind a spanking team of bay horses. He did not have any floral decorations. He did not need them, for his own graceful presence decorated the carriage enough to attract wide attention. The colonel would have shone in the fullness of his glory if he could only have been the grand marshal of the great floral parade. The colonel is all right and he will be heard from in baseball circles when the time is ripe for action.

***

Colonel Thomas Robinson and other ex-managers can read this item and reflect: "As an indication of prosperity of the game in the East, it may be cited that the New York club took as its share of the three games at Philadelphia $5100, which is more money than any other club ever got in six games on that ground. They were paid at the rate of 12½ cents a spectator, which makes the total of paid admissions 40,800. This, too, with the Quakers way down in the race. The ill-luck of the Phillies with their pitchers is proverbial. Manager Irwin is in disgrace, it is said, and Jack Boyle has been put in control of the team. His first move was the release of Weyhing. Irwin looks after the business affairs of the club."

***

An Eastern exchange gives a few pointers on umpires. The man who gives the pointers never saw the Woodland umpires. Here is what he says: "It is impossible for an umpire to watch all the plays in a game. The players take advantage of every chance to work a trick, while the umpire's attention is directed to another part of the field. They cut bases, interfere with an opponent and do a number of things forbidden by the rules. The umpire has all he can do to follow the ball. The double umpire system is a necessity. The only argument against it is the extra expense it entails. The league is prosperous and there is no need of economy in a matter so important. There would be less kicking by players and patrons under the double umpire system because the knights of the indicator would make fewer mistakes. A division of the work and its responsibilities would allow each man to give his whole attention to that part of the play allotted to him. The umpires are honest and decide a play as they see it. Neither side has a right to kick on a close decision. The one which gets it is lucky and the other fellows should be content to let it go at that."

THE UMPIRE.

THE RELIANCE CLUB.

Joseph Racine, the well-known football and baseball player, has been elected by the Reliance directors to manage the baseball club for the season. J. Cal Ewing resigned and so did George Campbell, because they could not give the time to baseball matters. Mr. Racine, the new manager, is well posted in the business and he is a hard worker.

Next Saturday the team will go to Palo Alto to play Stanford. Sunday they will play at Vallejo. A week from next Sunday the team will commence a series of games with the Olympic Club in San Francisco.

"After the contests with the Olympic Club, we will endeavor to get games in the interior towns and keep going all season," said Manager Racine this morning. "We consider that we have the strongest nine in the State just now. The game at Woodland was all right. The manager there treated us in a most courteous manner and we have nothing but the kindliest feelings toward him. We want to be on friendly terms with all these interior clubs."

Complaint is made at the Reliance that the members do not take enough interest in the baseball team. The members of the latter work hard for the club and they want their services recognized by attendance at the games.

The directors of the club will hold a meeting tonight to transact routine business.

WHEEL WHIRLS.

The Good Roads Association to Elect New Officers.

The Good Roads Association of Alameda county will hold a big meeting at the Reliance clubrooms tomorrow night. The annual election of officers will take place. John A. Britton is now the president of the organization and he may be re-elected. A. P. Swain of the Acme Club is the secretary and he is likely to be chosen again for the place.

There are a number of important matters to be discussed by the association, and in consequence, a large attendance is desired. Several important reports from committees will be received.

The wheelmen are discussing the ordinance providing for a tax of $2 a year on wheels. The majority of the riders are in favor of the ordinance providing the tax is made $1 a year. Major Fred Whitney in speaking about the matter said: "My opinion is that such a tax would not only be unconstitutional but impossible of collection. However, the wheelmen of this city have decided not to oppose a small tax. I was talking to Mr. Manuel, president of the Council, and framer of the ordinance now pending, about the matter, and he expressed the opinion that a dollar tax would amount to so little in the aggregate that the wheelmen would not derive much benefit from it in the matter of improved streets. He thought that the present ordinance would be defeated.

C. D. Bates Jr. and L. H. Deckman of the Reliance Club have come to the front as racers. As a tandem team they are hard to beat.

The road to East Oakland by way of Twelfth street is in a dangerous condition. Wheelmen could make no better fight than to get it repaired. The Eighth street bridge is also in a bad condition and needs to be fixed.

ACADEMIC LEAGUE.

New Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year.

The Academic League held a meeting in the Young Men's Christian Association building a few days ago. All the delegates to the league were present, and the following schools were represented: Oakland High school, Berkeley High school, San Francisco Boys' High school, Berkeley Gymnasium, Alameda University Academy. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. Blasingame, University of California; vice president, J. Martin, Berkeley Gymnasium; treasurer, Mr. Hughes, Alameda University Academy; George Nichols, Oakland High school.

The following Board of Managers was elected for the ensuing term: Baxter, Alameda University Academy; Anderson, Oakland High school; Martin, Berkeley Gymnasium; Woolsey, Berkeley High school; Drum, San Francisco Boys' High school; Remmel, Alameda High school.

Next fall the league will hold a championship field day. A series of football games to decide the championship will also be held. The first meeting of the Board of Managers will be held on the second Friday in August.

The Amateur League has within its ranks some of the best athletes in the State. The boys propose to make a great showing in Athletic circles before the year is over.

AN ATHLETIC PARK.

Students and Professors Strongly Oppose the Project.

A proposition is being urged by some enterprising young men to establish an athletic park in the vicinity of the State University. There is no athletic park in Oakland or Berkeley where an admission fee can be charged. The only track available is the one on the University grounds used by the students. As this is an open one no admission fee can ever be charged. It is proposed to secure a tract of land near Berkeley and make a fine athletic park. An effort has been made to get the students interested in the scheme, but they do not warm up to it. In fact the majority of them openly oppose the project, as do the professors. They claim that already there is too much professionalism about college sports and it is time to call a halt.

ACME ATHLETES.

The entertainment to be given by the Acme Club the latter part of this month is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest by the athletes. It is the intention of the directors to have several boxing bouts. This is not an easy task as some of the young bruisers are shy about appearing in public. They are perfectly willing to go into an exhibition contest, but they are not willing to fight for points.

An effort is being made to arrange a match between Britt of the Phoenix Club of San Francisco and Maynard of the Acme, at 105 pounds. Both are active young men and clever boxers. They would give a very interesting contest. If this match falls through an attempt will be made to bring Bert Brown of the Acme and Kennedy of the Phoenix together the men to weigh in at 160 pounds. This would prove to be a most interesting match, as both men are looked upon as hard fighters.

A match has been arranged between Charley Slamberg of the Acme and Nick Sullivan of the Olympic. The men come under the 158 pound limit. Slamberg has received a slight injury which may make a change in the programme. He is a favorite in the club and the boys say that if he goes into the contest he will be a sure winner.

The Acme Trampers took a run to the Fish Ranch last Sunday and had a fine time. There was a big spread and in the afternoon the athletes enjoyed themselves fishing.

TENNIS TOPICS.

The Lakeside Club Is Being Reorganized.

Sam Hardy and Walter Magee have been trying for some time to reorganize the Oakland Tennis Club. On account of the high rent demanded for the courts and the fact that not more than fifty members could be obtained they have been compelled to give up the project.

They have therefore turned their attention to reorganizing the old Lakeside Club. The Lakeside courts are situated on the corner of Alice and Durant streets. They are of clay and are probably as good as any of their kind on the coast. Before the advent of bituminous courts they were the resort of such players as Charlie Hubbard, Sam and Carr Neal, the latter of whom is now champion of the West; Charlie Bates, who formed with Sam Neal the famous "pony team"; Will English, Will Allen, Sam Brock, Alex Stewart, celebrated for his back line game, and others.

The club that is now being organized contains several of these veterans, besides many of the younger players who have won places in championship tournaments. Among these are Sam Hardy, champion of the coast; Sumner Hardy, who, with his brother, won the doubles championship of the coast; Walter Magee and George McChesney.

The membership, thus far, comprises twenty-eight names. It is expected that this number will soon be increased to about forty, as many others have signified their intention of joining. Sam Hardy has figured that with an entrance fee of $1 and $1 a month dues all expenses can be paid and a surplus kept constantly in the treasury. The same keeper that looked after the old Lakeside has been employed to repair the courts and keep them in shape.

It is expected that an open tournament will be held soon. It will probably be a class tournament with all the members participating. Prizes will be given to the winner of each class.

A special feature of the club is to be the semi-weekly provision of new balls. This, on clay courts, insures good tennis.

Fine Progress Being Made by the Oakland Athletic Club.

The Oakland Athletic Club is keeping up with the other athletic clubs in this city. The managers of the club are organizing annexes so that all classes of sports will be represented in the club. A swimming annex has been organized and about forty young men have signed the roll. The boys have secured quarters at the Piedmont Baths and now have their regular swimming nights. Among the members of this annex are Messrs. Hanson and Sherburne, who have a local reputation. Sherburne has agreed to give the boys lessons in swimming and Hanson will give them pointers in high diving. Thus far the swimming club has been a great success.

C. Specht has resigned as sergeant-at-arms of the club and A. Ligda has been elected to fill the vacancy.

The cycling annex of the club is receiving new members every day. This is one of the most important features in the club. Nearly all the boys take an interest in cycling and most of them have their own wheels.

The directors of the club are preparing to give an exhibition at the clubrooms on Decoration Day. Some of the local clubs will assist them in making up the programme. After the entertainment there will be a banquet.

CALIFORNIA'S ATHLETES.

The Universities Men Are Making a Good Showing.

The success of the State University athletes in the Princeton games has brought them to the front in athletic circles in the East. The team is now attracting much attention wherever it goes.

On May 18th the boys will tackle the University of Pennsylvania team. This will be an exceedingly interesting contest, as Pennsylvania has agreed to enter only eleven men.

The great event of the trip will be the Mott Haven games in New York on May 25th. In these games the local boys will meet all the crack athletes of the Eastern colleges. They are considered the great championship games of the year.

The Western collegiate games will be held in Chicago on June 1st. The California boys will be on hand to make a showing.

On June 8th the Michigan team wants to try conclusions with the Berkeley boys at Ann Arbor. The details of this meeting have not yet been arranged.

On June 10th the California boys will contest either with the University of Wisconsin at Madison or the University of Illinois at Champlain. Illinois won the Middle West championship in 1894, while Wisconsin has the strongest team in 1895.

The Berkeley boys expect to meet the Chicago Athletic Club June 15th. This date may be changed to June 12th, however, if the visitors so desire.

The field day at Denver will be held June 22d. California will be opposed by a team picked from the Denver Athletic Club and the Colorado University. This is the last contest on the list. When these games are over the athletes will start for home.

Mr. Lund has been selling Cleveland, Ben Hur, Tribune and Monarch wheels with amazing rapidity, and he was well represented by them in the bicycle meet today at the fete. Mr. Lund is a successful teacher of riding. His cyclery is the largest in the city, and is richly appointed and has all the latest modern improvements.

Everybody Can Enjoy "Romeo and Juliet."

The Call of the Kindergartens Brings a Ready Reply.

For charity and the children. That is the motto that has been unfolded for the great production of the now famous travesty of Romeo and Juliet at the Macdonough Theater next Friday night. Society has again come to the front in aid of one of the greatest public institutions of this city. The appeal of the kindergarten associations for assistance in carrying on their great work among the little ones has been heard and another outpouring of fashion will be the result.

There have been many deserving calls upon Oakland's generous hearts, but never could a more worthy cause be espoused than that which has been undertaken in the present instance. For several years there has been maintained in Oakland, a system of kindergartens, under the supervision and control of a number of ladies, whose love for the work has developed a glorious institution. Hundreds of the very young children of this city have been fostered under the charming influences and gentle methods of training employed in the kindergarten schools, and many a home where little but the bitter things of life enter, has been brightened and made happier by the little ones who have been blessed with the delights of attendance at these schools.

Froebel, the father of kindergartens, has been accounted one of the benefactors of the human race. The wonderful system of training young children, which he developed, has been the admiration of the world. Outside of its home, Germany, it has probably been brought to a greater degree of perfection in the United States than in any other nation on the globe. As it grew and spread throughout the land, it was natural that Oakland, a center for scholastic and educational affairs, should have become one of the galaxy to establish and maintain the kindergarten system. Today, this city ranks as one of the few in the country which has a kindergarten in connection with the public school system.

The kindergartens are principally the outgrowth of private individual effort. They have been established in such quarters of the city where the population is most dense, and where there is need for care and effort in handling the children of the poor. The system comprehends the theory of first impressions to a beautiful end. The training tends to the awakening of the young mind in a direction that is toward all that can give a bright and cheerful contrast to the ugliness of the scenes that too often surround the young in large cities.

It is this work that is being done to a great extent by the kindergartens, boys and girls' clubs of this city, which are to be the beneficiaries of Friday night's performance. The ladies and gentlemen who are devoting their time and attention to the work, feel impelled to go before the public with their appeal in order to better conduct their labors and if possible to show the necessity, for a right royal response.

The gentlemen who have given their talents and labors in the production of the travesty of Romeo and Juliet have gladly laid aside other considerations to again devote their services to a noble cause. There is not one who has witnessed the production, but has given it unstinted praise. Once more the opportunity will be presented to witness this very clever affair, and in the cause of a great public benefaction. It is believed that there will be just as generous a response to this as there was to the benefit entertainment given not long since. The attraction from an artistic standpoint will be superior to anything given before by the company, as three performances before the public have been given in Oakland and San Francisco, and all the rough edges have been completely worn off. With the exception of one change the cast will be as originally presented. The change referred to is only a shifting of parts in the third act, when Donald Y. Campbell will play the "Apothecary" in place of Charles Dickman, who for that act only will be the 'Nurse."

The genial Sam Taylor will again evoke roars of laughter in his conception of an up to date Juliet.

W. B. Hopkins' magnificent baritone will be heard again in that superb rendition of "The Holy City" that was one of the features of the original production several weeks ago.

Donald Campbell, as the "Nurse," will not be forgotten, and he promises to give the best he has for the coming performance.

Then there are Burbank Somers, Dr. H. P. Carlton and Paul Miller and the splendid chorus that was so much enjoyed.

Alex. Rosboro h has also been secured for the ca . He will appear as "Pete ," and although it is a small part he will make it a big one

Everything promises for a big performance and a swell house on Friday night. The ladies are working hard. They have devoted all their efforts to the success of the entertainment and it goes without saying that such charming applicants for assistance as Mrs. A. J. Ralston, Mrs. J. C. Ainsworth, Mrs. George Wheaton, Mrs. George W. McNear Sr., Mrs. John Yule, Mrs. Josiah Stanford, Mrs. H. K. Belden, Mrs. Robert Watt, Mrs. W. G. Henshaw, Mrs. Shanklin, Mrs. Whitney, Miss Alice K. Pellman, Miss Ethel Moore, Miss Alice Hunt should meet with all the encouragement their labors deserve. With these ladies are associated a number of the gentlemen who took a very active part in the Fabiola fete. Some of those who have again enlisted in charity's cause are P. E. Bowles, R. M. Fitzgerald, E. B. Pomroy, S. B. McKee and George P. Morrow. Donald Y. Campbell, who is the head and front of the travesty, will lend all the assistance within his power to the preliminaries.

Tickets are on sale at Bowman's, Taft & Pennoyer's and other prominent stores. They may also be had from any of the ladies of the committee.

THE

MOREY

INCANDESCENT GAS BURNER

It Has Revolutionized Gas Lighting!

Only Sixty Days on the Market and yet the Sale is Enormous.

No parts burn out. The mantels, screens, prisms, used in other burners, are not used in the Morey Burner at all; therefore no parts to repair. The Cheapest Burner used, giving the greatest amount of light for the smallest amount of gas consumed.

The secret of its scintillating brilliancy is perfect combustion, not one iota going to waste—every atom of gas being consumed.

No ghastly, greenish white light, but a natural, mellow, golden sunlight, soothing to the eyes and radiant with power.

The Morey Gas Burner is the best results of long years of study, discovery and invention; and is based solely upon scientific principles. THE HIGHEST POWER OF GAS LIES IN THE BURNER EMPLOYED. The secret of the Morey Burner is the combustion secured.

You may ask why does the Morey Burner give so much more light for the same amount of gas consumed. Our answer is this, gas when burning through an ordinary gas jet, mixes quickly with the air and passes off, not giving time for the light to take up from the air all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore it passes off and is wasted. But in the Morey Burner it passes through a perforated circle of 76 small needle-pointed perforations, and the current of air passing on all sides of the blaze supplies sufficient air for the light to take up all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore no WASTE OF GAS, NO BLUE BLAZE; all turned to light.

See what prominent business men and people you know say of it:

TESTIMONIALS.

Morey Incadescent Gas Co., City—

GENTLEMEN: We are more than pleased with the lamp we recently purchased from you, and instead of using three burners, which we formerly were compelled to do in our private office, we now get a better light from the one which you put in.

As soon as we fix up our offices will use them altogether in each of the departments.

Please have one of your representatives call on us about the 15th of May.

Yours truly,
S. P. TAYLOR CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26, 1895.

Morey Gas Burner Co., San Francisco —

GENTLEMEN: In reply to your question as to how I like the burners, would say: I am using six of your burners in place of nine of the old style. I get a great deal more light and am very well satisfied in every way. You can refer to me if you wish. Yours respectfully,
H. SUTLIFF.

Morey Gas Burner Agency, S. F., Cal —

DEAR SIRS: I have been in business in this city 35 years, during which time I have used every patent burner ever presented. The Morey is the only burner that has ever given complete satisfaction. In economy of gas, brilliancy of illumination, steadiness of light and simplicity and durability of construction, it is marvelous.

Yours truly

DEAR SIRS: The Morey Gas Burner is a winner. I have tried nearly every burner and regulator that has come out and this is the first burner that seems to fill the bill. You are at perfect liberty to refer to my gas bills and to me to show their economy, Very truly,

TAX TITLES.

Delinquent Property to Be in Safe Hands.

A Temporary Tie-Up in City Cash Will Be Created.

The last Legislature passed a bill, which was approved by the Governor, that knocks out the tax title sharks completely. It provides that the city and county shall purchase all real estate and improved property at the delinquent tax sales, and after five years, unless redeemed, the property shall revert to the State.

The new law will work some injury temporarily to Oakland, as it will tie up about $6000 in delinquent taxes, which the city will be forced to purchase on the 15th of July when the delinquent tax sale is held.

All property upon which the delinquent taxes are not paid before that date will be bid in by the city.

After the sale to the city the property may be redeemed within five years by the payment of certain fixed amounts added as to time of payment.

If redeemed within six months, 10 per cent of the tax is added; one year, 20 per cent; two years, 40 per cent; four years, 80 per cent; five years, 100 per cent.

The property then goes to the State. If not sold thereafter, it may be redeemed by the payment of all the taxes due and interest at the rate of 7 per cent from the time of delinquency.

The operation of the law is rather unfortunate for Oakland at the present time, as it will result in preventing about $6000 from reaching the city treasury on the 1st of July, as was anticipated in the estimates.

The law operates against the School Department in a hurtful way as to current needs. The amount usually derived from the school apportionment delinquent taxes is $7000 from city, county and State funds. Under the new law this money will not be available for any specified time, as delinquent property owners will have up to five years at least to redeem. Until the delinquent redemption is made, no money can be secured by the School Department from that source. Heretofore the purchase of property at delinquent tax sale has been made at one time, and the coin has been immediately forthcoming from the speculating purchasers.

Ysaye in Bohemia.

Many hundred ladies and gentlemen thronged the rooms of the Bohemian Club last evening intent on honoring the famous Belgian violinist, as a primary proposition, but a so much elated were they in anticipation of hearing him play in the free atmosphere of club life. Henry Heyman, as master of ceremonies, introduced number after number, and those who waited the climax of the entertainment which should save them good gold pieces for theater seats—well, they waited, and are still waiting, perchance. For, the Baldwin management quietly forbade him to gratify these club guests at the expense of the theater treasury, and although Ysaye was ready and willing to oblige, business is business! Wherefore there is much unrest in Bohemia. Ysaye made them a neat speech, and nothing more.

There was a goodly line in waiting at the Macdonough box office at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and the managers' hearts are glad, for they believe that the great expense is assured, and they hope for good returns in the margin.

State Board of Equalization Work Started.

County Assessor Dalton's Rolls Are Viewed.

The members of the State Board of Equalization are hard at work today securing figures to compare with the assessment now being prepared by County Assessor Dalton.

The entire board was at work in the County Clerk's office on the appraisements that have been made on various estates in the county. This seems to be a fair method of getting at a just value of property. When these figures are secured the members of the State Board will then view the property and pass judgment on the value.

The State Board of Equalization has no authority to raise or lower individual assessments in any county. They can secure figures, however, of various properties and thereby secure an index to the work of the Assessor. These figures will be of value to them when the question is raised as whether the assessment of Alameda should be raised, lowered or let alone. The State Board has the authority to either raise or lower the assessment of a county as a whole.

L. C. Morehouse, a member of the State Board, in speaking about the work being done said "We are doing in this county just what we do in every county in the state. We are comparing evidence of value, such as sales, appraisements of estate and the like, with the assessed value of the identical property.

"We are not investigating any particular kind of property, but property generally. The entire board, including the controller, is now engaged in the work. We are getting up our figures in a systematic manner and when we have completed that part of the work we will view the property and pass judgment on the value. We are going through every county in the State in the same way. We have not taken up Mr. Dalton's assessment or gone through his figures. We have his assessment to deal with when it comes before the State Board."

Water Companies Compared.

The Contra Costa's Breakdown.

It Is Making Pitiful Pleas for Patronage.

Brought to Its Knees It Shows the White Feather.

Editor Tribune—SIR: I have been a patron of the Contra Costa Water Company twenty years, chafing constantly by reason of the necessity.

When the Oakland Water Company became a competitor of the corporation that had so long exercised the arrogant privileges of a tyrannical monopoly, I hastened to give in my support to the new enterprise.

I am only a small property holder, but I have paid the Contra Costa Company at least a thousand dollars more than a fair price for the water supplied to my premises.

The new company offered me a better service at a less rate and I was glad to accept the proposition. I would have paid the monopoly rate rather than miss the opportunity of teaching my ancient master a lesson in personal independence.

"OAKLAND, April 21, 1895.

"Dear Sir: We will supply water for the three houses owned by you at a rate of 80 cents per house, or $2 40 a month for the three houses.

"Hoping that you will consider this a fair and reasonable proposition, we await an early reply.

C. C. WATER CO.

I have not yet answered this remarkable epistle, but I propose to do so now in the form of an open letter to the Contra Costa Water Company, which I offer for publication in the columns of THE TRIBUNE in the hope that it may have the effect of strengthening the backbone of some of my neighbors who seem inclined to favor the corporation at the present juncture simply because the old company is offering a very bad water at a very low price.

You are at liberty to use my name and address if you see fit or if any question should arise touching the authenticity of my relations with the old company during the period when I was forced to submit to its exactions, extortion and insolence.

Yours truly, M. R. K.

Oakland, May 14th.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To the Managers of the Contra Costa Water Company—GENTLEMEN: I am grateful to you for this opportunity of informing you why I have ceased to patronize your corporation.

I feel that I am voicing the sentiments of thousands of citizens of Oakland and that I am therefore performing a public duty when I give my personal reasons for refusing to continue my support.

In the first place I have never wanted your water.

The fact that you owned a monopoly in this necessity compelled my patronage; I could not escape the evil which that monopoly inflicted and I was forced to submit with as good grace as possible.

One reason why I objected to your water supply was its unwholesome quality.

I believe you have never denied the fact that the water you furnish is unfit for human consumption; that it is impregnated with the filthy drainage of a watershed occupied by human habitations, surrounded by cow pastures, outhouses and hog wallows reeking with animal refuse and the garbage of the various streams sewering into the streams tributary to your reservoirs.

If you have ever denied the unwholesome condition of your water supply I have failed to be informed of the fact, and your occasional pretense of "improvement" by means of so-called "filtering" apparatus is sufficient proof that you know the unhealthy condition of the water supplied from your reservoirs.

That is one reason why I refuse to patronize your company when I have an opportunity to get my water supply elsewhere.

A PETTY BRIBE.

The Oakland Water Company is furnishing water absolutely pure, fresh and sweet, as it gushes from the bowels of the earth where it cannot by any possibility become contaminated with the filth and poison that has long rendered your water the most undesirable for drinking, from a sanitary standpoint in the world.

But I have other reasons for discontinuing my patronage of your company.

When you had the opportunity to do so you charged me "all the traffic would bear."

I do not know that I can blame you for exercising your monopoly privilege to the fullest extent, while that privilege existed.

By the same reasoning you cannot blame me for thus rebuking your extortion when "the shoe is on the other foot."

You seem to imagine that you can bribe me into compliance with your purposes. You offer me "a lower rate"—a rate, by the way, $2 20 less than that charged when you had the "whip handle" of this community.

I hope, however, that even you may not hereafter so misjudge me as to think that I could forget my manhood to the extent of kissing the hand that has so mercilessly chastised me in the past.

You have dealt me many vigorous blows upon one cheek, but I refuse to present the other for castigation. You have taken my coat, but you cannot have my cloak.

During twenty years I paid you at least 50 per cent more than I ought to have paid for a very bad quality of water. I paid you a higher price than was paid by the citizen of any other civilized community in the world. The records will prove that assertion.

A MISERABLE RESOURCE.

And now that you are confronted by an opposition that seriously threatens your financial integrity you seek to destroy your rival by underselling him at a rate which must entail upon you a considerable loss in every instance.

It is indeed a pitiful resort.

You cannot compete with the new company in the quality of the water furnished and you attempt to hold your patronage by virtually giving your water away, hoping that you may be able to stand the pressure longer than "the other fellow."

Do you imagine that the people of Oakland are ignorant of your purpose?

Do you think we are so blind that we do not understand your motives?

And do you, for one moment, believe that you have adopted a winning policy?

As for myself, I would pay the new company your old monopoly rate before I would receive your water for nothing.

I am actuated in this by principle.

I am an American citizen and claim the right to assert my personal independence whenever occasion may require.

I regard this as one of the occasions when American manhood should rise superior to the petty consideration of such a bribe as you offer; to rebuke the arrogance and extortion of such a monopoly as you once inflicted upon this community; and I consider it the civic duty of every honest, self-respecting citizen of Oakland to sustain the competitor that has come to oppose you.

A CONTRAST.

If it had not been for the enterprise and business spirit of these gentlemen Oakland would still be subject to the extortion and insolence of your monopoly.

It is not just, it is not honest, that we should compel this enterprise to meet you on the basis of the rates that you now offer.

We should be glad to sustain the new company in its opposition to a corporation that has so long sucked sustenance from the pockets of rich and poor alike—charging the day laborer and the workingman struggling to secure a little home for his family in the same proportion as it levied on the millionaire.

We should understand that your present attitude is merely a game at which you would compel your competitor to play, which, if successful, would result in a return to the old monopoly, with all its attendant evils of extortionate rates, filthy water and personal insolence.

I am of the opinion, however, that you reckon without your host.

I do not believe that the people of Oakland will accept your bribe of a profitless rate.

I do not think that my fellow citizens will ask the company that has freed us from the Contra Costa monopoly to injure itself in competition with a concern that has shown as little regard for decency or the rights of the people as yours has done.

FOR THE PUBLIC GOOD.

These are some of the reasons that have moved me to withdraw my patronage from the Contra Costa Water Company.

The Contra Costa Water Company is not.

The Oakland Water Company is an enterprise that has added to the wealth of the city.

The Contra Costa Water Company has always pursued a policy of selfish aggrandizement, demanding the fattest dividends for the poorest service and the worst water in the world.

The Oakland Water Company has proved itself a public benefactor.

The Contra Costa Water Company has never contributed to the general welfare of the community.

Under the circumstances, therefore, I consider it my duty, and the duty of my fellow citizens, to cease our patronage of the Contra Costa Water Company and to give our full support and assistance to the Oakland Water Company—an enterprise that is accomplishing more for the best interests of the city than any other business effort since the community was founded.
